CONGRESS BACK ON JOB; ARGUES ON ARMY VOTES

Awaits Roosevelt Message Today.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—The controversial question of adopting appropriate legislation for service men's voting in this year's elections took the spotlight in congressional discussion today as the 78th congress opened its second session after a three week recess.

Both houses adjourned, without formally considering any pending legislation, until tomorrow when they will hear the reading of President Roosevelt's annual message on the state of the Union. It was announced that the President, who is recovering from the grippe, will not appear in person to deliver the message. The White House announced, however, that the President will broadcast a digest of the speech to the nation tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, Chicago war time.

Tax Bill Holds Interest.

Vying with the soldiers' vote question for attention on the congressional calendar, but apparently of less concern to the legislators for the moment, are the pending tax bill for more than 2 billion dollars in new revenue and various measures providing mustering out payments for service men. Members of congress, having spent three weeks in their home states, reported that the most immediate congressional question in the minds of their constituents was the passage of an adequate service balloting law.

Members of the house devoted most of today's session to spirited debate on the soldiers' voting issue, amid charges on the floor that the administration has delayed congressional action on the measure in an effort to force thru its proposal for federal control of the service balloting machinery.

Bill Expected This Week.

The debate came on the eve of tomorrow's meeting by the house elections committee to consider the voting legislation. Rep. Eugene Worley [D., Tex.], committee chairman and author of a bill for federal supervision of the balloting, predicted a bill will be reported to the house floor before the end of the week, but said he did not know what form it will take.

On the house floor, Rep. Charles W. Vursell [R., Ill.], sponsor of a bill giving the states' jurisdiction of the balloting but setting up uniform machinery for them to follow, charged that the administration is "trying to take undue advantage of service men and get their votes while it delays passage by congress of an adequate bill for their balloting."

Sabath Denies Delay.

"We have a bill pending which would give the soldiers every opportunity to vote thru constitutional and fair channels," Vursell said. "It has not been passed because the administration has poisoned the senate and the house with its proposals."

Rep. Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.]

O'DANIEL URGES DEFEAT OF F.D.R. AND FOLLOWERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Sen. Lee O'Daniel [D., Tex.] called today for the defeat of President Roosevelt and his followers in congress "as our only hope of restoring constitutional government in this country."

Sen. O'Daniel.

Asserting he is not a candidate for the Presidency himself, the Texan told reporters the next elections should see "a thoro housecleaning in congress, in the departments, and at the White House."

Not Southern Donkey.

"I'm a Democrat, but the one-eyed mule they are riding around here is not our southern donkey," O'Daniel said as he met with newsmen at the reopening of congress.

He predicted there might be "five parties in the field" next November, "two Republican, two Democratic and another."

"It's going to take more than a change in Presidents to bring back constitutional government, and get government out of competition with private enterprise," O'Daniel said.

35,000 Laud Stand.

He reported that he had received upwards of 35,000 letters commending his proposed constitutional amendment to prohibit any one from serving more than six years as President, or as a member of either house of congress.

Sen. Robert Reynolds [D., N. C.] broke in to say that he had heard O'Daniel mentioned for the Presidency.

TOUCH OF TEXAS IN SHIRT POCKET BETRAYS A THIEF

A. G. Willingham, a Texas rancher visiting his daughter, Mrs. Goldie Jackson at 63 West Chestnut street, last night captured the burglar who Sunday night entered his daughter's home thru a window and stole Willingham's suitcase.

The capture was made in a tavern at 119 East Chicago avenue, a few doors from the East Chicago avenue station. Willingham, standing at the bar, noticed that another customer, Peter S. Goodman, 27 years old, 159 Goethe street, was wearing a shirt that had been in the suitcase, as well as a studded belt belonging to the Texan.

Willingham seized Goodman and sent another customer to the police station for help. In the station, the captive at first denied burglarizing the home, but confessed when Willingham told him to look in the shirt pocket.

"There's a package of Bloodhound chewing tobacco in that pocket," Willingham said, "and you can only buy it in Texas."

The Bloodhound tobacco was in the pocket.

PICK CHICAGO TODAY AS SITE OF CONVENTION

Speakers Denounce Federal Bungling.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republican speakers expounded New Deal bungling on the home front; government by burocracy, and other 1944 campaign issues at a dinner meeting last night in the Stevens hotel as the Republican national committee made ready to pick Chicago today for the national nominating convention.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois, in addresses that sounded some of the keynotes of the coming campaign, declared the issues between the Republican party and the New Deal had never been so irreconcilable since 1860. The dinner was attended by members of the national committee and state chairmen and chairwomen. It was a gathering of the leaders of the G. O. P. organization thruout the country, and the attack on the New Deal touched off enthusiasm.

G. O. P. Held Protector of People.

Halleck developed the theme that to elect a Republican President would shorten the war. Green held that the G. O. P. stands as the protector of human liberties against burocrats who are destroying civil freedom.

As the place for the convention, Chicago appeared agreed upon by all groups. The time for holding it will be fixed for the latter part of June, probably the third or fourth week. Leaders last night said harmony would prevail in the committee meeting today.

No city is contending against Chicago.

Organization affairs were considered in detail at a closed session yesterday of the national and state party officials. The word afterwards was that reports all indicated that the anti-New Deal tide is running stronger than ever and that 1944 will be a Republican year.

Spangler Blasts New Deal.

Harrison E. Spangler, national chairman, in a speech at the day session ripped into the New Deal for its "orgy of economic experiments, wasteful extravagance, and criminal neglect of military preparedness," adding "the result was the grim tragedy of Pearl Harbor."

Plans were made for various subcommittee meetings tomorrow. This may include the arrangements committee which will have charge of the physical aspects of the convention. Vague rumors of discord over this have given way to harmony.

Gov. Green declared that in 1944 the Republican party has the opportunity "to render the greatest service to the progress and security of America that it has ever had since the day of Abraham Lincoln.

"Only once before—in 1860—have the issues between the two great

FIFTY CLINICS CLOSED TO PROTECT MOTHERS IN MONTREAL STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 10.—To prevent interference by strikers, Montreal health authorities today closed 50 clinics catering to expectant mothers and to mothers with young children. Meanwhile, the walkout of 2,000 municipal white collar workers entered its third week.

Two dental clinics were closed after strikers had induced the staffs to suspend operations. An anti-tuberculosis X-ray clinic also was closed.

For the second day representatives of the strikers met with the provincial cabinet and the Quebec municipal commission in Quebec. The commission controls the city's affairs since it defaulted on its bonds. No further meeting was requested by the strikers' spokesmen, pending a conference among themselves.

HELPIN' BIG BROTHER

3 Little Chums Play 'Let's Get Hurt'; One Dies

Dennis Dannert, 11 years old, and his two chums in the apartment across the hall at 351 West 72d street, James Godfrey, 9, and Tom, 6, were playing "let's get hurt" yesterday evening in the Godfrey apartment and it was Dennis' turn to be "it."

Dennis Dannert.

"I'll play like I'm going to hang myself," Dennis told them. "You go into the kitchen and don't come until I call ready."

James and Tom left Dennis in the bedroom and waited in the kitchen for his call. Several times they called to ask if he was "ready" but there was no answer.

Found Swinging from Bed.

Finally they looked into the room. Dennis, a silk scarf about his neck, was swinging from the head of the bed.

Across the hall Dennis' mother, Ruth, 26, had just come home from her job in a war plant, and the Godfrey boys called her.

"I thought Dennis was teasing me," Mrs. Dannert sobbed later. "He was still breathing and some neighbors and I got him loose. I couldn't believe he was dying. I can't believe now that he is dead. He's the only person I had in the world. He was born when I was 15, and his father died when he was a year old.

"We've Never Been Apart."

"For a year my mother helped me care for him, and then she died. I've been making the living since, and we've never been apart. The last thing we did this evening was 'split' a coke when I came home.

Mrs. Ethel Godfrey, mother of James and Tom, was not at home while the children were playing.

FOREIGN PIGEONS BARRED BY U. S. TO BALK SPY FLIGHTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—For fear they might fly back home with secret war information, foreign pigeons were brought under import control tonight by the war production board.

The birds were added to a list of restricted commodities and specifically excluded from the free entry granted shipments coming overland, by air, or by inland waterway" from Canada, Mexico, Guatemala, and El Salvador.

WPB officials explained they were concerned lest some one use the homing pigeons to dispatch information back across the border.

WARNS AMERICA IT FACES WORST LOSS IN HISTORY

New York, Jan. 10 [Special].—A warning that "the heaviest losses ever suffered in American history" will break over American homes when the allies invade western Europe was voiced here today by Capt. Leland F. Lovette, the navy's director of public relations.

"But we're going to land and we're going to dig in," Capt. Lovette told a luncheon of Advertising Men's post 209, American Legion.

He coupled with this, however, an assurance that the U-boat menace in the Atlantic is "under pretty good control."

"We're going to have losses to submarines right up to the last day of this war," he said "because the German U-boats are like needles in a haystack and the crews are slick and tricky."

Some Yanks Placed Under French General in Italy

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Jan. 10.—It was learned today that after a brief ceremony somewhere on the 5th army front in Italy, Gen. Alphonse Juin took command of French units which have been fighting alongside their American and British allies for some weeks. At the same time it became known that certain American units had been assigned by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark to Juin's command. The Algiers press hailed this as indicating that as the battle for the liberation of Europe continues, American soldiers will fight under a French general.

Mrs. Perkins' Resignation Is Demanded in House

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—The resignation of Mrs. Frances Perkins as secretary of labor was demanded on the house floor today by Rep. J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.] who proposed the appointment of a "two-fisted man who understands labor" in her place.

Duce's Court Dooms Ciano and 17 to Die

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's playboy son-in-law and former Italian foreign minister, has been sentenced to death for "treason," the Berlin radio announced tonight.

Ciano and 17 other members of the grand Fascist council were condemned in a two day trial at Verona by an extraordinary tribunal of Mussolini's revamped Republican Fascist government for voting to oust Mussolini, the broadcast said, quoting a dispatch from northern Italy.

Only five of those sentenced to death are in Fascist hands, among them 76 year old Marshal Emilio De Bono, who commanded the expedition to Ethiopia. The others are Ciano, Carlo Pareschi, former minister of agriculture; Giovanni Marinelli, former head of the Fascist militia, and Luciano Gottardi, president of the Fascist Confederation of Industrial Workers.

Grandi Also Sentenced.

Tullio Cianetti, former minister of corporations, a 19th defendant, was sentenced to 30 years at forced labor.

The 13 grand council members sentenced in absentia included Count Dino Grandi, former ambassador to London and president of the chamber of fasces and guilds, who led the battle in the council to depose Mussolini. The dictator was ousted July 25 and placed under guard, but later was "rescued" by Nazi troops.

A Swiss dispatch to the News Chronicle said Mussolini's illness prevented him from attending the trials. Ciano, the dispatch said, presented a "written formal defense which was intended rather for posterity than for the court."

Won Edda and Riches.

Ciano, whose last job was ambassador to the Vatican, was placed under arrest by Marshal Badoglio's government, but escaped. The Germans said they then captured him at the Swiss border.

Ciano, who is 40 years old, was reputed to have become one of the richest men in Italy under the Fascist regime. He held obscure posts in the diplomatic service until his marriage to Edda Mussolini.

Offers to Set Up the 'Curzon Line' of 1919

LONDON, Jan. 11 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The soviet government early today indicated Russia's intention to retain the bulk of the territory she obtained in the 1939 partition of Poland. The Moscow radio said the approaching restoration of Poland must be accomplished by return of land taken by the Germans and not by Polish "seizing" of Ukraine or White Russian areas.

The Russian broadcast suggested Poland join in "the soviet-Czecho-Slovak agreement on friendship and mutual assistance and post-war collaboration."

This was the first official soviet statement on the Polish-Russian border dispute, which has grown urgent since the Red army advance across the old Polish frontier.

"The soviet-Polish border could pass approximately along the so-called Curzon line, which was accepted in 1919 by the supreme council of the allied powers and which provided for inclusion of the western Ukraine and western Byelo-Russia [White Russia] in the structure of the soviet union," it said.

Proposes "Curzon Line."

The Curzon line, named for the late British foreign secretary, extended roughly from Grodno thru Bialystok down to the Bug river at Brest-Litovsk, thence along that river to near Sokol, and finally southwest past Przemysl to the Carpathians as Poland's eastern boundary. It placed the Polish cities of Lwow, Pinsk, Vilna, and Tarnopol in Russia.

The Curzon line was not accepted by the Poles, who then were at war with the bolsheviks. The border eventually was fixed 160 miles eastward by the treaty of Riga in 1921. That border existed until the Germans and Russians divided Poland between them in September, 1939.

Suggests Agreement.

This partitioning followed the Bug river beyond Brest-Litovsk on its swing northwestward toward East Prussia.

The Moscow radio said: "Poland's eastern borders could be established by agreement with the soviet union. The soviet government does not regard 1939 borders as unchangeable." It suggested Poland could be reconstituted with territory now part of Germany, saying this would give the Poles an outlet to the Baltic sea.

In drawing the new borders of Poland, the radio said: "Corrections can be included to the advantage of Poland in that direction [in the west] in order that districts in which there is overwhelming Polish population be handed over to Poland."

This apparently referred to the East Prussian area.

Criticizes Polish Regime.

The statement concluded with strong criticism of the Polish government in London, which, it said, "cut off from its people, has shown itself incapable of establishing friendly relations with the soviet union.

"It also has shown itself incapable of organizing an active struggle against the German invaders in Poland itself. . . . It often has played into the hands of the Germans."

It accused the Polish government in London of errors in its Jan. 5 statement of soviet-Polish relations, "including an erroneous affirmation concerning the soviet-Polish frontier." The Polish statement placed the frontier where it was before the German-Russian partition of Poland in 1939.

Tells of Polish Patriots.

"The struggle of our army and the operations of our allies are leading to the collapse of the German war machine and liberation of Poland and other occupied countries," the Moscow radio said. "In this struggle Polish patriots already are fulfilling their duty at the front, hand in hand with the Red army."

London observers said the statement seemed to emphasize that the offer of a general settlement on the basis of the Curzon line was being made to the "Polish people" and not to the Polish government.

REDS CUT TWO MORE GERMAN ESCAPE ROUTES

Take Rail Towns in Dnieper Bend.

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Russians slashed two more German escape railways in the bend of the Dnieper river today, and killed 8,000 surrounded Germans beyond captured Kirovograd. They also plunged to within 21 miles of the Warsaw-Odessa railway in an effort to trap upwards of 500,000 Germans in southern Russia.

Widening their hold in the eastern section of old Poland, Russian forces under Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin captured two localities south of Sarny, rail junction 35 miles inside the former frontier. Berlin said Russian units already were operating west of Sarny. Guerrilla "ghost armies" sprang out of the snowy forests to join the Russian regular troops.

[The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said the Germans were pushed out of Sarny and that the Russians are threatening to encircle Rovno, almost 50 miles to the southwest.]

Germans Caught in Pocket.

A war bulletin broadcast from Moscow said another Red army led by Gen. Ivan S. Konev slaughtered the 8,000 Germans—the remnants of an original force of 50,000 or more—when it caught them in a pocket west and northwest of Kirovograd.

Konev's army was driving west and northwest to join the southern arm of Vatutin's forces in an effort to trap a greater segment of Germany's Dnieper bend troops in the Smela-Kanev sectors. The two armies were reported to be less than 70 miles apart.

Among the 50 localities swept up by Konev in his push was Kamenka, 37 miles northwest of Kirovograd and only 18 miles from Smela, the rail junction serving the endangered German troops. Kamenka's capture represented a seven mile gain.

Two Railways Cut.

Vatutin's troops, who killed 4,000 Germans during the day, cut the Smela-Khristinovka railway 80 miles southwest of Smela. Another railway between Khristinovka and Vinnitsa was severed with the capture of a town 13 miles southeast of Vinnitsa.

The capture of the latter town put the Russians within seven miles of the Bug river, last natural German defense line before the Dniester river, pre-war frontier of Rumania 60 miles beyond. Dispatches said Russian spearheads already had reached the Bug river.

The Russians also captured a district center five miles from the Bug river, which forms the eastern boundary of the Transnistra area awarded the Rumanians by the Germans after the invasion of Russia. It likewise is only 21 miles from the main prize in southern Russia—the Warsaw-Odessa German escape route.

A "Flexible Defense."

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, Berlin radio commentator, acknowledged that German troops, using a "flexible defense" were giving up territory to the onrushing soviet forces "for the purpose of sparing German forces unnecessary exhaustion or of protecting them from being cut off."

REPEL REDS: BERLIN

Following is the German Monday war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"West of Ochakov a bolshevik landing attempt was foiled by units of the navy. [Ochakov is between the Dnieper river and Odessa, German held base on the Black sea.]

"In the area of Kirovograd [in the Dnieper bend], heavy enemy attacks were repulsed and the bolsheviks thrown back in successful counter-attacks.

"South and southwest of Pogrebishche [110 miles southwest of Kiev], hard and fluctuating fighting, with the advancing enemy is in progress. A village was retaken in a counter-attack in which a soviet battalion was annihilated.

Heavy Losses Reported.

"The enemy suffered heavy bloody losses and lost seventeen guns. During the last few days' fighting in this area, the 17th Panzer [armored] division under Maj. Gen. von der Meden, particularly distinguished itself, showing stamina in mounting counterattacks.

"South and west of Berdichev, our troops repulsed heavy soviet attacks in counterattacks, destroying 31 enemy tanks.

"The German air force repeatedly intervened in the ground fighting and successfully bombed concentration of enemy troops and armor.

"In the fighting against soviet supply lines, five trains were destroyed and eight others damaged.

Reds Continue Attacks.

"In the area of the fringe of the Pripet marshes, local fighting with enemy patrols took place west of Novograd-Volynski and Sarny. [Sarny is 35 miles inside old Poland.]

"West of Rechitsa the soviets continued their attacks. All breakthru attempts failed in hard fighting. Local breaches were sealed.

"Southeast of Vitebsk, our troops repulsed renewed heavy enemy attacks.

"The number of fifty-seven tanks, reported destroyed in the sector of one army corps yesterday, is now 71.

"In mopping up operations in a forest, a strong enemy group was annihilated.

"The Saxonian Grenadier Regiment 456 under Lieut. Col. Saches particularly distiguished itself in the fighting in the last few days."

BREWERY SCION DENIES SCHEME TO EVADE DRAFT

New York, Jan. 10 (AP). — Gert Hans von Gontard, 37 years old, brewery heir and cafe society figure, pleaded innocent today after a federal grand jury had indicted him and four other men on a charge of conspiracy to violate the selective service act. The trial date was set tentatively for Feb. 3.

Von Gontard was identified by Assistant United States Atty. J. Gerard Cregan as a grandson of the late Adolphus Busch, founder of the Anheuser-Busch breweries in St. Louis, and a former husband of Lucia Toelle, German screen actress.

Indicted with him on the conspiracy charge were John Edward Wilson, 58, former chief clerk of a New York local draft board; Dr. Arnold Aaron Hutschnecker, 45, a German refugee physician; Army Lt. Francis X. Grottano, 33, a former New York City detective, and Michael Mangano, 43, secretary of the G. M. Uniform company.

The indictment charged that the five men conspired "to the making of false statements as to the unfitness and nonliability" of Von Gontard for selective service. Maximum penalties for conviction are five years in prison and $10,000 fine.

NAZI SCUTTLING OF CONTRABAND SHIP REVEALED

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 10 (AP). — A German blockade runner was scuttled by her crew on Jan. 3 while being chased by American and Brazilian naval and air forces and 145 crewmen have been made prisoners of war in a camp at a northeastern base in Brazil, the newspaper O Globo reported today.

The newspaper said this was the same ship which an official announcement on Saturday stated was sunk by joint action of United States and Brazilian navy ships and planes while en route to Japan from Germany with contraband.

O Globo added that the ship was destroyed somewhere between Ascension Island and the African coast. The German ship's crew abandoned the vessel when allied naval vessels drew in sight. The majority of the prisoners taken from lifeboats were said to be Germans, but there were some Italians and "possibly Argentines and Spaniards" among them, the newspaper stated.

1943 SHIP LOSS TO U-BOATS 40% OF TOLL IN 1942

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).— U-boat warfare cost the allied nations only 40 per cent as much merchant ship tonnage in 1943 as in 1942, a joint Anglo-American statement disclosed tonight. In the same year the tonnage of new merchant vessels constructed was more than twice as great as in 1942, the statement added.

The report did not total the number of U-boat kills chalked up by allied forces during 1943, nor the cargo tonnage lost, but it did reveal marked improvement in the last half of the year.

Nearly half of the merchant ship tonnage sunk was lost in the first three months of 1943, 27 per cent in the second quarter, and only 26 per cent in the third and fourth quarters combined.

Previously it had been announced that 150 U-boats were destroyed in the second and third quarters of 1943.

TARAWA 'SOME FIGHT,' REPORTS INJURED MARINE

Platoon Sgt. Donald H. Senger of the marines, was back in Chicago yesterday with vivid recollections of the historic fight on Tarawa and pieces of Jap shrapnel in his right arm and left leg. It was "some fight," he said last night at the home of his mother, Mrs. Edna Heile, 100 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park.

Sgt. Senger, a veteran of fighting on Guadalcanal, was with the first landing wave at Tarawa. Battleships, then cruisers and cruisers, and planes had shelled the island. "We thought it would be easy," he said, "but those Japs were waiting for us."

Sgt. Senger's Higgins boat was sunk, and half of his men were killed or wounded. He swam to shore, was wounded soon afterward, but stuck in the fight.

Developments yesterday along Russian war front.

LANZA BELIEVES NAZIS PLAN NEW DELAYING LINES

Sees More Retreats as Reds Drive On.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

[Second of two articles.]

That part of old Poland which Russia seized in 1939 is around 150 miles wide. It was under Russian domination for about two years, and under German domination for about the same length of time. Its inhabitants have had the unique opportunity of tasting first independence, then government by Russian Communists, followed by German Nazis.

From what news comes from that part of the world, it seems that the Polish inhabitants may have been removed from the former Russian occupied zone. Towns are likely to be destroyed, or will be. This has been German practice in a retreat. And indeed the Russians did the same thing when they were retreating two years ago. Then they boasted of their scorched earth policy.

The scorched earth idea is not as easy to apply as it may seem. It takes considerable time and labor to destroy an entire country. In 1941, the Russian destruction was largely limited to the large cities, and then mainly to the industrial and business sections. Villages escaped almost entirely.

Vast Destruction Looms.

Ordinary people are slow to destroy their own homes and farms in order to spite the enemy. This might indeed hurt the enemy. It might also mean the death of wives and children from cold during the long Russian winters, or from hunger. In general, outside of the great city establishments, neither homes nor food were destroyed to any great extent during the Russian retreat.

The Germans will be more thoro about this than the Russians were. It isn't German country. When the Germans went backward across the Dnieper river, Swedish observers reported that an enormous mass of food, cattle, supplies and people were sent toward Germany. It must be presumed that the same policy is being carried out in that part of Poland which is immediately threatened by the Russian armies. The latter are likely to find a barren waste.

Present indications are that the Germans will retire as slowly as possible. They are getting close to the home country. Any idea that they will voluntarily abandon territory to withdraw to the line of the Bug or Dniester rivers should be set aside. They may eventually fight on those lines, but no sooner than is necessary.

River Is Poor Defense.

As pointed out in this column before, a river line is not a particularly good one to defend, especially in winter when it is frozen over. A river is a less effective barrier than a mountain line such as is found in Italy. Rivers can be crossed rather easily if the proper equipment is available. The Dnieper is a large river. It did not stop the Germans in 1941, nor the Russians in 1943. Smaller rivers will be still less of an obstacle.

That the Germans will stage a counter-offensive on a large scale against the Russians is improbable. Russian reports are that Germany is incapable of doing it. It is more probable that the Germans could do so, but don't want to, pending development of the expected allied invasion. They will keep a strong reserve well in hand until this invasion takes place. In the meantime, they will remain on the strategical defensive both in Russia and Italy. Local offensives may take place from time to time, but no major ones.

The Germans can retreat quite a little yet on the Russian front. They will not commit their main reserves on this front at this time if they can avoid it. They will continue to retreat as slowly as necessary.

R. A. F. BOMBERS CROSS CHANNEL FOR NEW BLOWS

LONDON, Jan. 11 [Tuesday]—(AP). —R. A. F. bombers crossed the English channel in moonlight last night to resume the blasting of objectives on the continent. German controled radios left the air. The last heavy aerial assault on the continent was on Jan. 7.

Small formations of R. A. F. Typhoon and Mosquito bombers struck at the coastal area of northern France yesterday. The forays were directed against military objectives, with "good bombing results," it was announced.

Prefects of the French channel coast departments were reported by Vichy radio to have met in Paris to discuss "possible evacuation of the French channel coast, particularly the areas now subjected to heavy air attacks."

"Evacuation of the country districts of the Somme already has been ordered," it was announced. The Somme region is south and west of the Pas de Calais area, the co-called "rocket gun coast."

PHOTOS REVEAL MOST OF BERLIN OFFICES IN RUINS

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—So many German government buildings—from Adolf Hitler's private chancellery on down—were destroyed or damaged in the first six raids of the battle of Berlin it is doubtful whether the Nazi war administration could have been continuing from the capital even a month ago.

A list of destroyed or damaged places issued by the air ministry today on the basis of reconnaissance photographs up to Dec. 21 included, besides the fuehrer's offices:

The home of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels.

Offices of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering.

Headquarters of the Gestapo [secret police].

Official residences of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Foreign Office and Treasury.

The foreign office, the treasury, the ministries of justice, transport, food and agriculture, armaments and munitions, education, the home office and the army records office.

In the central Tiergarten district, packed with government offices, more than 60 per cent of the buildings were destroyed. In the midst of the government center district there were 628 acres of damage—an area nearly as large as the whole of central London.

The total building covered area in the "built-up" section of Berlin is reckoned by the air ministry at about 8,000 acres.

At least 17 per cent of the actual building area in the "built-up" section—an acreage more than half covered with buildings—was destroyed in the first six raids, the air ministry said.

That 17 per cent—which doesn't include a square foot of open space—is the rock bottom minimum based on small scale photographs taken from around 30,000 feet.

More detailed pictures when the weather is clearer are expected to show much more damage.

Depots and Industrial Plants.

In addition to the blows struck at official quarters, the Kroll opera house, meeting place of the Reichstag since 1933, has been damaged by fire. Berlin's main shortwave studios were hit and 236 military huts were destroyed.

Four gasworks, including the city's largest, were hit. Seven waterworks, five trolley depots and the main postal depots were damaged. The Lehrer and Potsdamer railroad stations were gutted.

Ninety-eight identified industrial plants were bombed including the great Rhein-Metall Borsig armament factory which makes everything from tanks to torpedoes. One-third of the Alkett car assembly plant was gutted and the Siemens electrical plant, blasted last summer, was further destroyed.

The Dornier-Heinkel airplane parts plants and the Argus and BMW airplane engine factories were hit.

All this damage was done in the rain of 9,000 tons of bombs up to Dec. 16. Since that time, four more raids have added 5,000 tons of bombs and destruction.

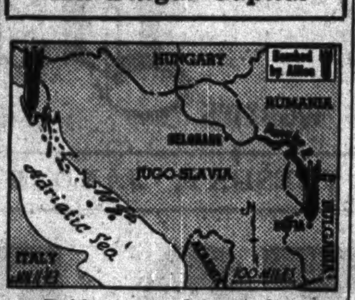
NAZIS AGREE TO LIFT SWEDISH SHIP BLOCKADE

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 10 (AP).—Sweden and Germany signed a trade treaty today providing for reduced exchanges of goods in 1944, and the Nazis agreed to lift their blockade on Swedish shipping to North and South America next Saturday.

Sweden agreed to ship 7,000,000 tons of iron ore to the Nazis in 1944, almost 3,000,000 tons less than in 1943. Coal and coke imports from Germany will be cut correspondingly, since the trade is balanced equally.

Six Swedish ships were reported ready to sail for North and South America and six more were leaving foreign ports for Sweden with resumption of safe conduct, suspended by the Germans last October.

Hit Bulgar Capital



Raids reported yesterday.

U.S. FORTS AGAIN BLAST SOFIA AND NAZI NAVAL BASE

Fifth Raid on Bulgar City in Two Months.

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Strong formations of American Flying Fortresses heaved explosives and fire bombs upon the Bulgarian capital of Sofia at noon today.

The raid on the rail communications center serving Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, and Bulgaria was the fifth in two months and came only a day after an American heavy bomber assault on Pola, Italian city and Adriatic naval base at the tip of the Istrian peninsula. Pola is a main supply port for Nazi forces in Jugo-Slavia. Both raids were made from newly-carved allied air bases in Italy.

Stiffer Battle for Slavs.

Protected by Lightnings [P-38s], the Fortresses swept down on Pola, dropping their bombs on the harbor area, drydocks, and nearby factories. Delayed explosions still were shaking the port as the Fortresses turned away from the target.

These developments came also as Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz indicated that his Jugo-Slav Partisan guerrilla armies were meeting stiffer opposition in their attempts to repel the German invaders.

A broadcast announcement said the Nazis were employing infantry, tank, and motorized units in their newest five-pronged drive to crush the guerrillas, and that heavy fighting was raging in western and central Bosnia.

Allied fighter bombers based in Italy attacked oil storage tanks at Ploca and railways south of Metkovitch.

Hints at Turkish Role.

ISTANBUL, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Turkish newspaper Tan predicted trouble today for Germany in the Balkans and hinted that Turkey might play a role in the coming events.

"The Balkans are the weakest point of the fortress of Europe," said an editorial. "Therefore Turkey has become very important to Germany. Consequently the Germans were most pleased when Turkey announced after the Cairo conference here that her foreign policy remained unchanged.

"Today, from one point of view, the fate of the Balkans depends upon the Bulgarians' decision. If Bulgaria throws off the military and political pressure on her it will become very difficult for Germany to hold the Balkans."

REPORT 10-DAY HUNGER STRIKE AT JAP CENTER

Tule Lake, Cal., Jan. 10 [Special]. —Nearly 200 Japanese-Americans at the segregation camp here were unofficially reported today to be continuing a hunger strike that has been in progress for 10 days.

The hunger strikers were said to be protesting against their confinement by military authorities who have been enforcing discipline since disloyal inmates attempted to seize control two months ago. They were described as leaders of a group who had sought concessions from the army and the war relocation authority.

It was suggested that the demonstration might be a plan of the internees to force concessions by bringing about an international incident. The Japanese government has refused to negotiate a further exchange of internees pending the receipt of an inspection report of the camp by the Spanish embassy.

ALLIES TO OPEN PINCER DRIVE, NAZI PREDICTS

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 9 [Delayed]. — Allied invasion preparations are known to be on a "positively incredible" scale, a German statesman has admitted to the Turkish newspaper Beyoglu, according to an article telephoned today from Berlin.

The informant, who was identified only as one of Germany's leaders of high military position, was quoted as saying that allied preparations show that 1944 holds in store a titanic struggle which will be the "greatest military sensation in all the history of warfare," by reason of the human and technical forces involved and the "terrible efficacy of their weapons."

Predicts Pincer Drive.

German air reconnaissance daily provides evidence that the allies do not intend to form a single second front, the statesman was quoted as saying. He predicted, therefore, the allied attack will take the form of a pincer movement.

Meanwhile, he said, Germany, besides its intensive fortification of all main danger zones, which has been so much publicized, has stationed a special "invasion army," really an anti-invasion army along the whole Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts of Europe.

Marshal Erwin Rommel is so satisfied with the state of preparedness of this "invasion" army that when he recently finished an inspection tour taking many weeks he found no changes to make in the plans and orders, the statesman added.

The German interviewed had returned to Berlin only for a few hours to inspect the bombarded wreckage of his offices, the correspondent said.

No Talk of Victory.

There was no talk in the 1,000 word interview about a German victory, tho Beyoglu is reputedly friendly to Germany. The correspondent noted also that the German leader said only a few words on the subject of reprisals for British bombings. These were:

"The calm which lasted thru the last year in the British Isles will be disturbed and our military activity will directly and personally affect millions of the English."

Commenting on the German predicament on the eastern front, the statesman said it "imposed on the German soldier such an effort as no military specialist in the world could have foreseen and prepared for."

MICHIGAN SALT PLANT RAZED IN $2,500,000 FIRE

Marysville, Mich., Jan. 10 (AP).— Fire swept the six principal buildings of the Morton Salt company's plant here tonight, and destroyed several lesser structures, causing a loss which General Manager Fred Philbrick said would exceed $2,500,000.

The plant, with a capacity of 250,000 tons a year, is the largest of six which the company operates in the midwest. It occupies a two acre site on the shore of the St. Clair river, a part of the connecting waters between Lake Erie and Lake Huron.

At midnight firemen said the flames were under control.

Search Is Continued for Marine Ace Boyington

GUADALCANAL, Jan. 10 (AP).— Search for Maj. Gregory Boyington, missing South Pacific ace, is continuing, a navy spokesman said today. The Okanogan, Wash., marine flyer disappeared Jan. 3 during a fighter sweep over Rabaul, in which he shot down his 26th enemy plane.

WACS WILL BE IN SECOND FRONT, SAYS COL. HOBBY

'Just Like Any Part of the Army.'

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Some of the 1,170 WACs on duty in the European theater of operations will move into continental Europe with the second front invasion forces, Col. Oveta Culp Hobby, WAC director, indicated here today.

Col. Hobby, who is inspecting WAC installations, pointed out American girls in uniform, already serving in Sicily, Italy, North Africa, and India, are subject to the same regulations as any other part of the army, and will be sent wherever needed.

Now 63,000 in WACS.

She said recruiting in the last three months was the highest since February, adding that as far as she knows the war department does not plan to conscript WACs, who now number 63,000. Col. Hobby also said she was unaware whether it is planned to retain the women in the army after the war, altho she said the girls, like the men, enlist for the duration plus six months.

Altho WACs at present are doing 269 different jobs, Col. Hobby said, the scope of the corps is being still further widened by special conversion training for technical air force jobs, which begins immediately after basic training.

Doing Clerical Work.

When the WACs first came to England in July, 1943, they were used to replace British WAAFs [women's auxiliary air force], who were transferred to duty with the royal air force. Now American girls are relieving United States soldiers from clerical jobs.

In reply to a question, Col. Hobby said her first name Oveta was of Indian origin. A British woman reporter raised a laugh when she asked, "Is it a family name?"

Nazis Isolate Arctic Base After Typhus Outbreak

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 10 (AP).—Norwegian legation sources said today that a serious outbreak of typhus in Kirkenes, German supply base for the Murmansk front above the Arctic, had forced the Germans to isolate the area to prevent the fever from spreading to other fronts. The Germans themselves reported a 100 per cent increase in cases of grippe in Denmark and said diphtheria and scarlet fever also were spreading rapidly.

U.S. HURLS TANKS INTO ACTION ON CASSINO PLAIN

Yanks Battle Way Thru Mountain Line.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Jan. 10 (AP).—Elements of two crack Nazi divisions sagged back almost to Cassino today under the onslaught of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th army, which burst thru German defenses to a depth of two more miles and threw tanks into action on the plain in front of the German stronghold, 70 miles from Rome.

The extent to which British and American armor could participate in the final assault on Cassino depended on how strongly German artillery was emplaced on heights on both sides of the Rome road, which runs along the Cassino plain.

The 29th panzer [armored] division, which, with units of the Herman Goering division, was entrusted with the task of defending Cassino against the 5th army offensive, was taking a mauling. Clark's advance units were nearly halfway thru the six mile zone of fortifications between the village of San Vittore and Cassino.

Frozen Ground Aids Tanks.

Freezing weather caused great discomfort to the infantry, but the hardened ground was welcomed by allied armored divisions, which had seen little action since the Italian rainy season began a short time after Naples was captured.

As matters stood today—six days after the start of the new drive on Rome—American infantry fighting from peak to peak northeast of Cassino had reached a point where it could look down into the streets of the key communications center. Infantry and tanks were driving in on the bastion from the front.

American doughboys battered thru strong opposition to seize the 3,500 foot peak of Catena Vecchio, north of the highway into Cassino. South of the highway they captured 1,500 foot Mount Chiaia and 900 foot Mount Porchia. Units which won Mount Chiaia continued their advance northward toward the village of Cervaro, some four miles east of Cassino. They were strongly supported by allied fighter-bombers.

British Hold to Bridgehead.

Near the western end of the 10 mile offensive front, British troops clung to a bridgehead they had established across the Peccia river west of Mount Maggiore. German artillery gave this force a hard shelling. Field dispatches indicated the British had worked their way around southwest of Cassino, directly opposite American troops slugging their way in from the northeast.

Deep snows in mountainous sectors of the 8th army front restricted fighting to patrol activity and artillery exchanges.

[Monday's German war bulletin, as broadcast by Berlin, said: "In the western section of the Italian front several local enemy attacks collapsed in our concentrated artillery fire. On the rest of the front the day passed calmly with successful activity of our shock troops."]

250,000 ACRES IN BRITAIN GIVEN UP TO AIR BASES

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Airbases in Britain cover 250,000 acres and constitute potential civil aviation ports of the future, according to the Daily Telegraph's air correspondent. A secret map in the air ministry shows by colored discs exactly where are located the hundreds of air fields in the unsinkable aircraft carrier of Great Britain, on which offensive and defensive airplanes of the allied air forces are based, he said.

Their numbers, he stated, have grown with enormous speed and the best of these large airports, as part of Britain's post-war structure, will clearly be invaluable to the country in the development of civil air transport.

So great has been the expansion that a limit of suitable land is said to have been nearly reached, considering that large, modern aircraft require long, flat runways in several directions on well drained sites located clear of obstacles.

SINK 2 JAP SHIPS IN NEW RAIDS ON MARSHALL ISLES

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Jan. 10 (AP).—Navy Liberator planes, swooping low over Wotje Atoll in the Marshall Islands the night of Jan. 9, sank a Japanese auxiliary oiler and another small vessel, wrecked two enemy airplanes on the ground and damaged shore installations.

This was the heaviest of four new air attacks on the Marshalls, announced today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. The assaults were made by army or navy planes on Jan. 8 and 9. Wotje was hit twice and Jaluit and Kwajalein once each.

All the attacks were carried out without loss of an American plane. One medium bomber of the 7th army air force was damaged by anti-aircraft fire in the sweep over Jaluit the morning of Jan. 8.

A YANK WITH A WRENCH FIXES A PLANE IN FLIGHT

ADVANCED BOMBER BASE, New Guinea, Jan. 9 [Delayed].—The Liberator circled the field endlessly as a crowd of worried watchers gathered on the platform of the control tower today. The hydraulic system operating the ship's retractable landing gear had been shot out in a brush with a Japanese convoy north of New Britain.

Donald J. O'Brien.

Worse yet, one of the three wheels had dropped down and couldn't be raised again. Even a belly landing appeared impossible. And the fuel was running perilously low.

The fate of bomber and crew of 10 rested solely on the skill and ingenuity of Tech. Sgt. Walter Tadys. A former carpenter, the flight engineer had been working feverishly for two and a half hours. It was a tougher job than the time he had spliced the severed control cables of a crippled bomber, enabling it to be brought in safely.

Uses Heater Parts.

Working with a screwdriver and a wrench, Tadys disassembled the plane's heater. Then from its parts he improvised the equipment—almost magically it seemed to the others—he needed to restore the hydraulic controls.

"Every time I looked around I saw him running back for another piece of pipe," said Co-pilot 2d Lt. Charles P. Pomerhn, Buffalo, N. Y.

Finally Tadys was ready to make the test.

"That's when we really held our breath," said Radioman Donald J. O'Brien, 3028 West 55th street, Chicago. In a moment, the second wheel dropped down alongside the first. Then the nosewheel fell into position.

Lands Out of Gas.

But the wheels still failed to lock into "down" position, and a safe landing remained uncertain. Tadys had a suggestion for solving that problem, too.

"He told me to lock my wings," said Pilot Flight Officer Thomas Ivan, Mondamin, Ia. "I did, and the wheels snapped tight. At that instant one engine cut out, its gas supply exhausted. But by that time I was making the final approach. I brought the big plane down on the dirt runway and as it touched the ground, the second engine died."

BRITISH RADICAL VICTORY SCARES COALITIONISTS

Leftist Wins Election on Local Issues.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The unexpected defeat of the government candidate in the Conservative party stronghold of Skipton in Yorkshire by the radical "baby" Commonwealth party has given cause for concern in all quarters anxious for the maintenance of the coalition government in Britain.

Even the London Times today warned "it would be foolhardy for the supporters of coalition to treat the verdict at Skipton as a freak result lacking any wider significance."

The Times, as did other papers, stressed the fact that Lt. H. Lawson and the Commonwealth party fought the election on a detailed program touching all the main issues of domestic reconstruction. It emphasized that he criticized the failure of government spokesmen to make their minds known on these issues, while the Conservative candidate based his appeal mainly on the paramount need of national unity to win the war.

No Differences on War.

"The survival of coalition will increasingly depend on its capacity to present a program which will inspire in the electors new confidence in its ability to meet the social and economic difficulties of the aftermath of the war," the Times said.

The Evening News pointed out there were no differences between the two candidates about the war, but that the electorate naturally preferred a young man with a program to a man 61 years old who "could only talk vaguely about the government's good intentions for peace."

Richard Acland, a knight who founded the Commonwealth party, and to show his good faith in nationalization of the land recently donated his ancestral estates to the national trust, today expressed great optimism regarding the future of his party.

"We are miles and miles to the left of the Labor party," he said, "but there is very little separating us from the more progressive left members of that party.

"What we intend to do at the next general election is this: We'll fight all the tough seats where the Tories [Conservatives] had substantial majorities in 1935; we will not contest seats where there are good Labor candidates with good chances—in fact, we will offer our coöperation."

BOMBERS HURL 168 TONS ON JAP POSTS IN GUINEA

Liberators Raid Dutch Isle of Celebes.

ADVANCED HDQ., New Guinea, Jan. 11 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Allied air squadrons roamed from the Dutch Celebes far north of Australia to the Solomons to deliver heavy bomb loads on Japanese bases and barge supply routes, the high command announced today.

Biggest smash was made in the Madang supply area on the northeast coast of New Guinea, where 168 tons of explosives were laid on Madang, the airdrome at Alexishafen, and Bogadjim, Madang's main southern defense outpost. These blows should materially aid the American army invasion force at Saidor, 55 miles southeast of Madang.

Liberator bombers flew 750 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia, to drop 25 tons on the enemy base at Kendari, on the east coast of Celebes Island. The unescorted bombers met heavy anti-aircraft fire and downed six and probably four more of 13 intercepting Zeros which waged a 35 minute running battle with the raiders. One American bomber was lost.

U. S. Casualties 300.

There was little change in the ground situation at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, where marine units resumed their advance south of Silimati point, and met resistance Sunday morning, a spokesman said. Hard fighting previously had been reported here.

American casualties, including wounded, since the Cape Gloucester landing Dec. 26 are less than 300 against 2,000 counted Japanese dead, the spokesman said.

United States naval units sank 11 Jap barges, seven of which were loaded with troops and spplies, in a night action off Gali point seven miles below Saidor, New Guinea.

Rabaul Raided Again.

Medium bombers operated against barges and installations in the Uligan harbor area north of Madang, hitting supply dumps and anti-aircraft positions and destroying three barges.

Bombers pounded Japanese shipping and supply and airbase points in the Rabaul-Kavieng area. Liberators attacked an enemy convoy southwest of Cape Matanalem, near Kavieng, New Ireland. Results of the attack on a destroyer and four freighters were not observed. Australian bombers set fires at Lakunai and Tobera airdromes at Rabaul.

YANK DRIVE SLOWED UP

BY JACK TURCOTT.

[Correspondent of the New York News.]

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Jan. 10.—Stiffened Japanese resistance now is slowing up Australian and American infantrymen and United States marines attacking the outermost ring of enemy troops defending the twin bases of Rabaul and Wewak.

On the New Britain front the Japs apparently are emerging from their stunned surprise, occasioned by the marines' landings at two points and quickly overcoming opposition and capturing the prize airfields at Cape Gloucester. Japanese commanders now have grouped their remaining forces, presenting a determined bloc against the marines in the Borgen bay area, just east of Cape Gloucester, where the Americans have been suffering their largest casualties since their invasion Dec. 26.

This enemy resistance has been encountered despite the report from prisoners that the Japanese lieutenant general in command of the area fled on foot from Cape Gloucester to Talasea because of the intense American aerial bombardment.

Bulldozers in Battle.

The marines are temporarily stymied in trying to smash the Jap supply base at Borgen bay, where the Japs hold strong pillbox defenses.

Outflanking the Japanese positions appeared impossible, because tanks were unable to pass thru the jungle. Engineers, however, solved the problem. They drove bulldozers thru the foliage, smashing down trees, while the infantry men followed up, making a lane for tanks.

On reaching the area nearest the creek's west bank, the bulldozers sheared down steep cliffs like so much paper while Seabees followed thru, under the protection of Gen. Sherman tanks, and speedily built a bridge across the creek. This was done despite a withering fire from Jap pillboxes.

Marines then crossed over and in frontal attacks smashed the enemy defenses on the east bank.

Japs Catch Grenades.

A few miles away in the vicinity or Target hill, also called hill 660 because that is its height in feet, marines are now encountering bitter opposition.

The Americans flung grenades at the Japs, who caught them and flung them aside. So the marines switched tactics, pulling the pins of the grenades, then holding them seven seconds before throwing them at the enemy. This maneuver repulsed several Jap attacks, leaving the enemy dead littering the hillside.

Renewed Japanese resistance also has developed on the New Guinea front. Enemy forces who have been fleeing from the Australians have now put up a rear guard defense along the Uenaja river, a mile north of Dallman river at the northeastern tip of Huon peninsula.

LT. HARRY FISHER.

CONGRESSMEN BANNED FROM ARMY SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt ruled today that legislators can't serve both in congress and in uniform.

Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle advised him that the constitution forbids service in congress and the military forces at the same time, so Mr. Roosevelt asked Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox to see to it that legislators confine themselves to legislating.

Only two representatives were affected by the ruling: Henry M. Jackson [D., Wash.], who is a private in a tank destroyer unit at Fort McClellan, Ala., and Albert Gore [D., Tenn.], who volunteered recently and now is on furlough under orders to report at Camp Shelby, Miss., Jan. 19.

Illinois Pilot Wins Air Medal in South Pacific

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Dec. 28 [Delayed]—(AP).—Second Lt. Paul W. Lewis, Mount Vernon, Ill., was awarded the air medal today for his part in action against enemy destroyers July 17 and 20. At the time, he was a sergeant and dive bomber pilot.

FOUND DEAD: THROAT SLASHED.

Patrick Donnelly, 64 years old, a carpenter employed by Armour & Co., was found dead yesterday with his throat slashed in the basement of his home at 4540 Emerald avenue.

LT. HARRY FISHER DIES OF INJURIES IN NEW GUINEA

Word of the death of Lt. Harry Fisher at Port Moresby, New Guinea, was received yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Fisher, 1231 Grant street, Evanston.

Lt. Fisher's father said he learned Dec. 7 of his son's injury in a plane accident while the latter was on duty as a communications officer in a troop carrier squadron. Later he received two letters written at Harry's request by the army chaplain. A letter from the war department said the young lieutenant had suffered body burns but gave no details.

Went Overseas in July.

News from the war department had particular significance to members of the Metropolitan section of THE TRIBUNE where Harry was a reporter for about a year until he entered the service April 17, 1942. He is remembered as a quiet, smiling youth who was intensely interested in his newspaper work. The day came when he cleared up the papers on his desk, told those about him that he had been called to other duties, and the next heard of him was a note that he was attending the radio school at Scott field, Belleville, Ill.

Born Fourth of July.

Mr. Fisher was commissioned a second lieutenant at Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 9, 1942. He was sent to Alliance, Neb., where his squadron was formed and later was given special training at Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, N. C., and given his final training at Baer field, Fort Wayne, Ind. He was commissioned a first lieutenant before going overseas, July 8, 1943.

With him into the service, Harry took his typewriter, which he was awarded when he won Quill and Scroll national honors for reporting upon his graduation from the Evanston High school. At Wabash college, where he was graduated in 1940, he was editor of the college weekly and was president of the college chapter of the Beta Theta Pi national fraternity.

Harry Duncan Fisher was born in Chicago July 4, 1918.

Besides his father and mother, Lt. Fisher is survived by one brother, William B. Fisher, an aviation cadet at the University of Nebraska.

GIVE GUERRILLAS ROLE IN ATTACK, FRENCH DEMAND

ALGIERS, Algeria, Jan. 10 (AP).—The French consultative assembly demanded today that the allied nations officially recognize French guerrillas as the vanguard of invasion and include them in strategy planned for the attack. At the same time Gen. Charles de Gaulle, chairman of the French committee for national liberation, blamed the allies for what he called "painful, dolorous negotiations" with the committee for the arming of French patriots.

De Gaulle asserted the battle being fought by France "is one and indivisible," waged by people within and without France and would continue until the French government returned to France.

Interior Commissioner Emmanuel d' Astier de la Vigerie, summing up a two day discussion of the resistance movement, declared a purge of "traitors" would be conducted regardless of the British and American government. "To the allied we would say: 'the sooner the purge is over, the sooner order will be reestablished,'" he added.

A WAR TRAGEDY: CHILDREN LEARN THEIR HERO DIED

Pvt. John F. Sudoholc, 23 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sudoholc of 702 Raub street, Joliet, who was the friend and hero of all the children from 3 to 10 in his block, is not coming home from Italy.

He was killed in action Dec. 21. The telegram from the war department came yesterday, and the youth's father, who had left a farm near Braunau, Austria, 30 years ago to look for peace in America, grieved at what had been done by another man from Braunau—Adolf Hitler.

Sudoholc was called to the army in December, 1942, and in May, 1943, he was sent to North Africa. The children of Raub street sent him gifts, and at Christmas they nearly all asked for stationery and stamps to write him letters.

Gary Flyer Killed When Fort Crashes in Britain

A U. S. FORTRESS BASE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 10 (AP).—The names of five crewmen of the Flying Fortress "Little Twink" who were killed when the bomber crashed in England while returning from a New Year's eve raid against southern Germany were announced today. Among them was Sgt. Dominick Ciarfaglia, 715 Jefferson street, Gary, Ind.

FLYER RECALLS FORT'S TRIPS ON WING, PRAYER

Twice when returning from bombing missions over Germany the crew of the Flying Fortress Dearly Beloved came in on little more than a wing and a prayer, Lt. George F. Meltzer, 4149 Melrose street, who navigated the plane on 23 trips, said yesterday. Lt. Meltzer, who is spending his sick leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meltzer, was injured twice.

Lt. G. F. Meltzer.

Lt. Meltzer, who is 28 years old and a 1941 philosophy graduate of Notre Dame university, told yesterday how every member of the Fortress crew prayed when the plane was returning from a mission over the North sea. The two starboard engines were put out of action by anti-aircraft fire and the pilot had to fly nearly 200 miles back to England on the two port engines.

During another mission anti-aircraft fire hit the gas tank and the Dearly Beloved remained in the air just long enough to reach the coast of England. Lt. Meltzer was injured by shellfire, and in putting out a fire aboard the plane.

Lt. Meltzer wears the air medal with three clusters, the distinguished flying cross, and for the injury, the Purple Heart.

Chicago Gunner Killed in Flight Over Germany

Sgt. Dominick Ciafaglia, 22 years old, an engineer-gunner on a Flying Fortress, was killed while on a mission over Germany on New Year's eve, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Rocca Ciarfaglia, 715 Jefferson street, Gary, Ind., were informed yesterday by the war department. Sgt. Ciafaglia arrived in England last Nov. 1, after serving three years in the army. A brother and two sisters also survive.

36,000 DISABLED WAR VETS BACK ON ILLINOIS SOIL

Approximately 36,000 Illinois service men have been discharged in the present war because of disabilities, Lester R. Benston, service officer of the Illinois American Legion, disclosed yesterday at a meeting of the City Club of Chicago in La Salle hotel.

State veteran's facilities have admitted 2,400, with 723 still under treatment as of Jan. 1, he said. When 1943 ended, 14,000 claims had been filed by honorably discharged veterans. About 7,000 had been adjudicated, 2,248 granted service connection and 4,744 denied, he said.

Between 250,000 and 300,000 hospital beds will be needed to care for war veterans in the 10 or 15 years following the war, Benston declared.

A LITTLE BLACK BAG SPILLS A GOLDEN SECRET

Neighbors of Miss Anna Borkoske, 82 year old recluse who lived in a one story frame cottage at 1426 North Avers avenue, long ago accepted the dingy black suitcase she always carried as a harmless foible of an old woman.

Julius Borkoske.

Miss Borkoske had no friends or intimates in the neighborhood, nor, apparently, anywhere else. She ventured outside her home frequently, and often after dark. She always carried the suitcase.

No one ever saw the contents of the tattered old traveling bag. But after she had died last Wednesday Austin police began to hear strange rumors regarding its contents.

Find Brother Carrying On.

Policemen Thomas McGlade and Joseph Kurowski yesterday visited the little house. There they found Miss Borkoske's brother, Julius, 80 years old, who had come from Detroit after his sister's death. He was about to reënter the building. In one hand he carried a wooden orange crate. In the other was the ancient black suitcase.

The elderly man resisted efforts of the policemen to examine the bag, but finally turned it over to them. Inside they found $500 in gold coins, and more than $2,000 in gold certificates, the "yellowbacks" of more than a decade ago.

Borkoske said his sister, who for years had drawn an old age pension, possessed a fortune approximating $10,000. All except that in the suitcase was on deposit in various banks and in postal savings.

State and U. S. Interested.

Police notified Jack Rubens, investigator for the public administrator's office, who indicated that a claim would be placed against the estate to recover money which the aged woman—under a pauper's oath—had drawn in pensions.

Police also informed government secret service agents of their find, because possession of gold coins or gold certificates is a violation of the federal law.

Borkoske kept the orange crate. He said he needed it to start a fire.

HAWAII'S CHARM LITTLE CHANGED BY GI INVASION

Nature's Camouflage Is Employed by Army.

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUAI ISLAND, Hawaii, Jan. 5 [By Air Mail]. — An antediluvian railroad whose twin fingers comb everywhere thru the pineapple and cane fields has been adopted as a symbol by the troops who are getting their final pointers in amphibious fighting here.

"You see that peanut roaster?" asked our tour guide, indicating a stubby little brass trimmed engine. "Well, when that grows up into a locomotive, I'm going to get out of here."

That's the soldier's expression of the hope that the languid charm of this exotic island will not succumb to the sweeping alterations the army has brought. The visitor finds the same thought echoing in his mind.

But a two hour flight over Kauai in a tiny artillery observation Cub proves that the coming of our training and defense legions has not changed the island's face much. The army engineer's art, like that of a well gowned woman, is in skilful concealment, and here he has wrought well.

Nature's Camouflage.

Nature's foliage cover, camouflage par excellence, has been jealously preserved. Much of the growing military activity goes on beneath a thick forest canopy, unseen from the air. Craggy volcanic ridges give no hint of the explosive-glutted cavities within their rocky bowels. Heavy weapon emplacements have been woven indistinguishably into the unspoiled land- and seascapes.

Back aground, we were escorted to a distant observation post commanding a likely enemy invasion point. Arching cane leaves brushed our car windows on both sides most of the way. A novice would have missed the area entrance thru a thick wall of undergrowth. The sentry on guard was Sgt. Ralph J. Scheuerell, 22 years old, whose widowed mother, Ervine, lives in Manitowoc, Wis., and whose brother, Roger, a destroyer man, was invalided in the second battle of Midway.

In a thatched cubicle atop a 40 foot tower we talked to the lookout, Pvt. John P. Berry, 23, a Chicagoan whose father, John J. Berry, 8937 South Lowe avenue, is a public school custodian. From the lofty platform a vast area of sea and long stretches of shoreline were visible, but of the several heavy batteries we knew were somewhere near we could see nothing. A powerful searchlight nestled in the trees could be wheeled out to the water's edge instantly to sweep the big cove.

Chicagoan in Command.

In another part of the island, an engineer outfit lived in a building group that looked like a prosperous plantation village in the speckled shade of huge banyans, eucalyptus, and monkeypod trees.

This group is commanded by Lt. Col. Arthur W. Howson, 6646 Stony Island avenue, a former civil engineer for the Illinois Central railroad. His operations officer is Maj. Charles N. Shaffer, whose wife, Jeanette, lives at 7331 Phillips avenue.

Corp. Walter Szal, 27, of 522 Garfield avenue, Calumet City, son of Stanley and Amelia Szal, was introduced as the most popular man in the outfit. That's because, as mail orderly, he issues the sugar report, as letters from home are known to soldiers.

The sergeant major is Merrill Flatner, 30, of 8338 South Maryland avenue, whose wife, Jean, is now in Hollywood. Mess sergeant is Henry A. Marena, 30, whose wife, Theresa, lives at 1237 South 56th avenue, Cicero.

Chicagolanders in Unit.

Sgt. Jay Harrison, 23, son of James and Elizabeth Harrison, 2635 West 36th street, is in charge of supplies. Handsome of feature, he used to participate in neighborhood theatricals back home. Sgt. Anthony J. Evangelista, 29, whose parents, Nick and Mary, live at 808 South Loomis street, is water service supervisor. Headquarters supply sergeant is Andrew A. Enhoff, 24, whose wife, Marion, and baby daughter, Catherine, are living in Kenosha, Wis.

Other Chicagolanders in the same outfit are:

Sgt. Arden W. Price, 28, 6918 South Normal boulevard, who has never seen the daughter, Nancy, presented him by his wife, Ann, a few weeks ago.

Corp. Elvon Gish, 22, 3444 North Janssen avenue, in civilian life a free lance commercial artist and now a draftsman, son of Vivian, a widow.

Sgt. Carl A. Starks, 25, whose widowed mother, Fayetta, lives at 10753 Edbrooke avenue.

Sgt. Glen D. Burklow, 30, son of Fred and Della Burklow, 2662 West 39th place.

Pvt. Robert J. McAuliff, 23, whose mother, Hazel, lives at 2551 Oak street, River Grove.

Sgt. Harold Schey Jr., 32, of 6839 Osceola avenue, former printer and now chemical sergeant.

Sgt. Joseph Schab, 25, son of Jacob and Caroline Schab, 231 156th street, Calumet City, headquarters mess sergeant.

An infantry unit was found headquartered in what was, until recently, a country club for a sugar plantation community. On the lanai of the rambling structure we were served luncheon prepared under direction of Mess Sgt. Lyle W. Etheridge, 22, whose wife, Erma, lives in Ohio, Ill. His commander is Maj. Charles F. Coates, 34, of 2505 7th street, Peoria.

Three men from Ottawa were met on a tour of the unit area. One is Sgt. William Niccum, 29, message center chief whose wife, Maxine, lives at 1315 West Madison street. Another is Pvt. Curtis Grumstad, 34, former city bus driver, whose wife, Ruth, lives at 209 Maloney building. The third is Pvt. Kenneth Harold McMillion, 326 Nebraska street, husband of Grace and father of Marie, 8 months old.

Of the many excellent meals shared with troops in this sector, none was better than that of the outfit commanded by Lt. Col. William W. Kleinman of West Brooklyn, N. Y., criminal lawyer who defended Louis Lepke. This meal, preceded by cocktails and appetizers, was planned by Mess Sgt. Donald W. Hopkins, 32, of 516 South La Salle street, Aurora, son of Carl J. and Florence Hopkins.

Japanese Are Loyal.

Of the 35,956 persons on Kauai Island by the 1940 census, about half are of Nipponese extraction. Most are regarded as completely loyal, referring to themselves as Japanese and to our Pacific enemies as Japs.

One Nipponese youngster, playing soldier, overtaking an "enemy" playmate, was heard to snarl, "I'll kill you, you blankety blanked Jap."

A study in contrasts is afforded by occasional strolling couples, our stalwart doughboys towering like giants over the diminutive and usually petite maidens. In this land almost devoid of racial distinction, there is a current witticism: "I can get you a date if you don't mind a white woman."

OXYGEN SUPPLY FAILS ON FLIGHT; 3 GUNNERS DEAD

Fresno, Cal., Jan. 10 (AP). — Hammer field authorities today announced the death of three gunners aboard Liberator bombers because of failure of their oxygen supplies while at high altitude.

The deaths occurred Saturday night while one plane was over its base here. One of the victims was Staff Sgt. John F. Atz, 24 years old, a son of Mrs. Annette Atz, Milltown, Ind.

Waukegan Flyer Killed.

Augusta, Ga., Jan. 11 [Tuesday] (AP). —Bush field authorities announced early today an aviation cadet and a civilian flying instructor were killed yesterday when their plane crashed seven miles southeast of Waynesboro, Ga. The victims were listed as Floyd Leroy Hazen Jr., of Coloma, Mich., and Frank Edward Gustisha Jr., flight instructor, of Waukegan, Ill.

2 Missing in River Crash.

Langley Field, Va., Jan. 10 (AP).— Two members of the crew of a four engine bomber from Langley field were missing and nine others were suffering from shock and exposure after their plane crashed in the James river near here Saturday, the army announced today. Those missing were Staff Sgt. Clyde Lattea, 25 years old, of Hurst, W. Va., and Staff Sgt. Henry A. Hegwer, 25, of Alhambra, Cal.

The pilot and three men remained with the craft to try to make a landing after seven flyers were ordered to bail out. Second Lt. Frank R. Dugger, 21, of Highland, Ind., the pilot, and Tech. Sgt. James R. Jones, 27, of Louisville, Ky., two of the four staying with the ship, were rescued by fishermen.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MOTHER 'UNFIT,' PREFER FATHER, SAY BUTLER BOYS

'Affairs' of 'Free Love Advocate' Told.

Accusing their mother of indiscretions, the two young sons of Mrs. Marjorie Stresenreuter Mathias said in court yesterday that she is unfit to have custody of children and that they preferred to live with their father, Paul Butler, sportsman and president of the Butler Paper company. One son asserted his mother advocated free love.

The sons are Paul Butler Jr., 17 years old, and Frank O. Butler II., 15, students at Culver Military academy. They testified before Judge Joseph Sabath of Superior court in a fight over their custody and that of their sister, Marjorie, 13.

Charge She Kidnaped Girl.

Mrs. Mathias, wife of Albert Mathias, a naval lieutenant, her fourth husband, is living in Miami, Fla., and has Marjorie. She and Butler were divorced in 1933, and custody of the three children was equally divided. Last Sept. 17, however, Mrs. Mathias "kidnaped" the girl, and precipitated a fight in which both parents are now seeking full custody of the three children. As a result of the alleged kidnaping Mrs. Mathias was cited for contempt, and Butler was relieved of paying her $625 a month support.

Paul Jr., questioned by his father's lawyer, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., testified that Rudolph Noble, his mother's second husband, lived at the Butler home in Hinsdale before the couple married. After his mother divorced Noble and before she married her third husband, Gen. Harold C. Bickford, the son said he saw Mathias in the house.

Says Both Drank Heavily.

"I saw my mother in negligee going into Mathias' room," testified the boy. "She stayed there for some time. Both drank quite heavily."

Young Butler testified that his mother sometimes fed the dogs better than the children. Once when he complained, he said, she "had the blacksmith tie me to a tree"; another time she struck him with a dog leash.

"She hasn't had the proper teachings," he went on, explaining that after a visit to Germany she boasted of admiration for Hitler. Moreover, he said, she advocated free love, telling him there was no reason why he or any one else should get married.

Paul Jr. said he wanted to live with his father. "I don't consider my mother fit," he asserted. "I think she's crazy. She doesn't act right. She runs around with every one."

Saw Man Under Her Bed.

The younger brother, Frank, told of a motor trip to California and back in 1941 when he, his sister, and his mother were accompanied by a man whom he named as Tony Sale or Sales. Nightly, the boy asserted, he and his sister occupied one room, while his mother and Tony occupied another. Once he saw Tony hiding under the bed, he added. In California, Frank said, his mother admonished him: "Don't call me mother. Call me Marge. I don't want people to know I have children."

Frank said he wanted to be in custody of his father because he didn't regard his mother or her present husband as fit to have custody of children.

Cross-examination was waived by Mrs. Mathias' attorney, Perry Ten Hoor. Judge Sabath announced he would decide the custody and contempt matters next Monday.

ARMY 'MOTHER'S' KITCHEN FEEDS 7 MILLION MEN

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan., 10.—Mary I. Barber has no children, but she is unofficial mother to 7 million American men, and, as with all mothers, she is far more concerned with what goes into their stomachs than what goes into her own.

Mary I. Barber.

Not only is she concerned over this, but she also is responsible for it, for she is food consultant to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. If such greens as spinach, kale, and turnip tops are on army menus only five times a month instead of 20 times, it is she the soldiers may thank. Soldiers don't like greens, Miss Barber discovered after a good deal of investigation, and she does not blame them. They don't like liver, either.

If you want to find Miss Barber, don't look for her in any public places. You'll find her in some army camp getting a mess sergeant to tell her how under the sun he made that soup so appetizing—or so unappetizing—or in her model kitchen here trying to make a palatable dish out of the most recent fiendish bit of dehydration. She usually succeeds.

Revolutionizes Army Menus.

Miss Barber is as motherly as a plump little gray hen, which she resembles. She is neat as a pin, animated and conscientious, and doesn't look at all like a revolutionary, which she is. She started on this role years ago when she went to the Kellogg company, took bran out of the horse's feedbag, and made it into breakfast cereals, muffins, and desserts, and in the last three years she has continued by revolutionizing army menus.

No army in history ever had food like that served the United States army Tuesday, Dec. 28 [a day picked at random]:

Breakfast — Oranges, dry cereal, fresh milk, pork sausage with cream gravy, biscuits, butter, jam, coffee.

Dinner — Pork chops and gravy, oven browned potatoes, creamed onions, carrot-raisin salad, bread, butter, cookies, coffee.

Supper — Cream of celery soup, liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, boiled red beans, cole slaw, bread, butter, fruit cup, coffee.

It's Food Value That Counts.

Feeding 7 million men is a great problem when you figure a man can starve to death while getting fat and that it isn't food but food value that counts in this era of calories and vitamins. It is an even greater problem when you have to correlate what these men eat with what there is to eat.

Consider butter. There is a shortage of it. That shortage affects the army as well as civilians. The army's butter allowance was 2 ounces a day a man, but it was cut to 1.12 ounces.

As no part of the army appropriation can be used to buy oleomargarine except in cases where specifically requested or butter is absolutely unobtainable, Miss Barber's problem was to evolve menus that used .88 of an ounce less butter for each man each day than six months ago. She did. It saved 397,500 pounds of butter a day.

She did the same with coffee. At the time of the coffee shortage she slowed down progressively the use of coffee from three times a day to 40 times a month during a year. Now it is back up to 70 times. In the meantime Miss Barber revised the coffee recipe so that it took three pounds instead of seven pounds to serve 100 men. She did this by having coffee made in small quantities.

Like Boiling a Lobster.

It was somewhat like boiling a lobster alive. He never knows he is dead, because he starts in cold water. Miss Barber did this with sugar, methodically reducing the consumption, and with meat, until the army now has the equivalent of one meatless day by serving no meat at three meals a week.

When the seafood shortage came in 1943, practically every one in army khaki was happy, for Miss Barber had discovered thru one of her interminable surveys of soldiers' tastes that they nourish no affection for seafood. She quickly sliced their seafood consumption to two or three meals a month, never more than once a week. To achieve even this the army had to buy almost the entire available supply of salmon.

Wherever an American soldier goes, he has an American meal. If he writes home from the tropics that he is eating bananas and tropical fruit, he is eating them because he wants to. His meals, wherever he is, are planned by Miss Barber.

Master Menus Do Job.

This is done thru master menus. A master menu, comprehending three meals for each day in the month, is issued once a month. In it are the menus, the quantities of ingredients needed each day to feed 100 men, and any recipes not in "The Army Cook," the official cook book. [The December, 1943, master menu included recipes for pineapple turnover filling, cranberry-orange relish, and cranberry-apple relish.]

One master menu is issued for all troops in the United States and two for those overseas, one for the temperate zone and one for colder climates. In the United States no two days' meals are alike. Overseas there are about 10 different daily menus. These are rotated.

The overseas menus often involve canned and dehydrated foods. All canned meat goes overseas, and any other meat sent out of the country is frozen. Corn and tomatoes are canned, potatoes, and baked beans are dehydrated, and milk is canned or powdered.

Dehydrated foods are one of Miss Barber's big problems. A new one crops up daily. Each has to be tested and prepared, and each is a law unto itself. Some frankly are vile concoctions. Others are fairly palatable. An imposing problem now is how to dehydrate meat and keep it at all good, for most dehydrated meats have to be ground.

Giant Wheel "Turns" Milk.

Evaporated milk poses a totally different problem. A can of evaporated milk has to be turned over every two months or so or it spoils. The army has thousands of cases in storage in this country and overseas. It seemed difficult to summon a minor earthquake every 60 days to shake them up, so a giant wheel was devised that turns 20 cases at a time.

Still another problem was unloading canned goods overseas. This usually is done by native laborers who cannot read English. In order to get cases of canned peas, tomatoes, beans, and meat in separate stock piles, the army devised colored bands to replace labels—green for peas and red for tomatoes, for example.

In New Guinea the natives have an instinctive labor union complex. They refuse to carry more than 40 pounds at a time, whereas the normal soldier load is 60. Result: the canned goods were boxed in 40 pound lots.

The greatest problem in tropical countries, particularly in the desert, has been water—cold water. In those regions the priority of war is water first, food second, and ammunition third in that delivery sequence, but the water usually is steaming. Some bright lad then recalled that no matter where a man is, he never is more than a mile from freezing temperature if he could go straight up.

The army then devised a plan whereby canteens of water are hung on reconnaissance or ferry planes, and the planes zoom up and come back with 40 or 50 canteens full of ice.

Planes Freeze Ice Cream, Too.

They make ice cream the same way, using a prepared ice cream mixture that Miss Barber concocted, a mixture to which only water need be added. The mixture, complete with water, is placed in closed containers and the containers are fastened in the windows of planes. The planes then ascend. The vibration of the planes shakes the mixture. The rush of cold air freezes it. The planes land with ice cream.

You doubt that? It is no more fantastic than most of the things that have been dreamed up here in Miss Barber's model kitchen and in the test laboratories in Chicago. In order to test ration K when it was new, the packages were immersed in a barrel of salt water for six months, then hurled out third story windows.

That's why the army is able to eat ration K today and is just one more reason why the American army moves on its legs rather than crawls on its stomach.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST COP AS BOY LOSES LEG

Charges of assault to kill were filed yesterday against Policeman Bernard Sweeney of Chicago Lawn station as surgeons at Evangelical hospital amputated the leg of Dominick Rozich, 16 years old, 3528 Wells street. Rozich, a bystander, was shot Saturday night aboard a street car at 47th street and Wentworth avenue as the policeman and another passenger engaged in an altercation.

A call for blood donors among the youth's relatives was made early yesterday by Dr. Arthur G. Johnson, 5053 South Damen avenue, when it became apparent that surgery was necessary to save the boy's life. The policeman's bullet, doctors said, struck the groin, severed the main artery leading to the right leg, and a gangrenous condition developed.

Faces Court Today.

Sweeney, who is 50 years old and now under suspension, was booked on instructions of First Assistant State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley. Sweeney is to be arraigned in Felony court today, when a continuance probably will be requested pending recovery of the victim.

The complaints were signed by Capt. William Doyle, in whose district the shooting occurred, in behalf of the wounded boy and Kenneth Krenzelak, also 16 years old, 309 West 42d street. The policeman had been arguing with Krenzelak and later attempted to shoot him following a dispute about a Negro conductor.

Knocked to Floor.

Following the shooting, Sweeney told his superior officer that he had been knocked to the floor by Krenzelak, and that, when he fired his weapon, the bullet struck Rozich, who had risen from his seat to watch the fight.

The wounded boy is a sophomore at Tilden Technical High school and has been employed as a part time grocery clerk.

TRIAL OF GAS MURDER CASE IS DEFERRED A DAY

Judge Rudolph F. Desort in Criminal court yesterday continued until today the trial of Edward Damiani, 28 years old, and of Alvin Krause, 29, charged with the slaying of Miss Agnes Olson by gas asphyxiation in a currency exchange holdup attempt July 3.

The delay was ordered to give the court a day to determine whether he will appoint Atty. A. Jefferson Schultze as a substitute for Damiani's court appointed counsel, James Burke, who is ill. Judge Desort said he was reluctant to postpone the trial three weeks, which Schultze said he would need to prepare his case.

Assistant State's Atty. Richard Austin said another continuance would interfere with the state's case because several witnesses are nearing induction into the army. Atty. Harold Levy, representing Krause, said his client was ready for trial.

NATION CALLED BACK TO SANITY BY REPUBLICANS

Condemn New Deal, Urge American Way of Life.

political parties been so irreconcilable.

"In 1944, as in 1860, the people must rally to the standard of Lincoln's party, because the Republican party is the only major political organization in the United States untainted and undominated by that false philosophy of government which threatens to destroy our freedom even as we fight for it."

Issues that the governor said should be presented uncompromisingly to the people are:

"American representative government against New Deal centralization of state socialism.

Green Asks Rededication.

"Rededication of America to the civil liberties guaranteed under the Constitution—including freedom of opportunity and enterprise—against federal burocratic regulation of our economic system, which is the first step toward destruction of all civil liberty.

"Full participation by the United States in the peace settlement, within the framework of the American Constitution, against various shades of internationalism, isolationism, or other forms of global planning.

"The main issue in America today is no longer between what we call the 'liberal' and 'conservative' points of view. The issue is between centralization, totalitarianism, absolutism, state socialism — call it what you will—and free American government in which the will of the people is law under their Constitution."

New Deal Denounced.

Green ripped into the New Deal, saying it was not representative of the people "because it is composed of millions of persons who owe their jobs and their power only to the person who appointed them." He continued:

"They have set up an administrative absolutism, in which their first loyalty is to the boss — not to the people. Their first desire is for more power — not to give greater service.

"As a result, never before have the American people witnessed such repeated and pernicious attacks on their Constitution and upon every one of the famous 'checks and balances' which that Constitution provides to prevent their exploitation by the executive power."

Professional planners and "dogooders" and "false prophets of liberalism," the governor remarked, defend the New Deal fallacy that business and the whole economic system could be put in control of burocrats without loss of civil liberties.

Dictator's Theory Exploded.

"But the day of deception is gone," he said. "They are at a loss to answer the fact that this same theory — which carried Hitler into power in Germany and Mussolini in Italy — has been proved false every time it has been tested. Without exception, the platform of every dictator during the last century has been: Regulate business and protect the civil liberties of the people."

Rep. Halleck, discussing the Democratic cry of "don't swap horses," declared:

"We must demonstrate to the people of America that the minute to change horses in the middle of the stream is that moment when the new horse can cross the stream more quickly, more efficiently, and without spilling its burden.

Republicans to Speed War.

"I believe with all my heart and mind that a Republican success next November will result in such an acceleration of our war effort, abroad and at home, that victory, the thing for which we all yearn, will be brought nearer to us by months if not by years.

"We have, with miraculous speed, under the ablest military leadership in all history, brought our army, our navy, our air forces to a point of efficiency where they are the wonder of the world. The Republican party, the Republican congress, the Republican President, would see to it that this great leadership would neither be hampered nor altered. George Marshall is an American general, not the general of any political party. Gen. Eisenhower is an American general, not a party general. MacArthur belongs to every American. Our admirals, King, Halsey, were trained and put there by the nation and belong to the nation. The Republican party guarantees to the country that these irreplaceable men shall continue; that the war shall be fought under their skill and under their command. This is a matter above and beyond all politics.

Efficiency to Prevail.

"But the Republican party guarantees more than that. It guarantees that these military leaders shall receive from the home front such support and aid as they never have had before.

"It will bring to bear the full productive genius of our people. It will foster decent industry instead of hamstringing it. It will give every man, every machine, every factory a chance to do its share. It will see to it that every laborer, every artisan, every farmer, every miner, every manufacturer not only does his share, but receives his share in decent, reasonable, proper, and just consideration."

PICK CHICAGO TODAY

A bid of $75,000 to meet the expenses of the national nominating meet will be presented to the committee in the Stevens hotel by a Chicago citizens committee. There are no other contenders in sight, and Chicago has had clear sailing since the effort of friends of Wendell Willkie to capture it for New York collapsed three days ago. At that time, a tally of members of the national committee showed not less than 75 per cent of them, out of 106, in favor of Chicago. Willkie, in New York, threw in the sponge, said he had no objection to Chicago, and Ralph H. Cake, Oregon committeeman and Willkie leader, said the Willkie group would not put in a bid for New York or any other city.

Willkie Efforts Fail.

Efforts had been made by Willkie supporters to raise $150,000 in New York to make a bid for that city. Word among incoming members was this plan had not proved successful, and anyhow more than 70 per cent of the members were favoring Chicago.

As to the chairmanship of the arrangements committee which will have charge of the mechanical setup of the convention, Walter S. Hallanan, West Virginia committeeman, appeared to be leading yesterday. Among others mentioned were Ezra R. Whitla of Idaho, Harry Darby of Kansas, and Harold W. Mason of Vermont. Hallanan was with Willkie last time, but since then has taken Willkie to task for some of his actions, and is now said to be inclined to Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio.

Committee Has Big Job.

This committee suggests the keyneting temporary chairman and the permanent chairman, subject to the vote of the delegates.

Spangler, in his address, after saying the Republican party was united in one aim—to win the war decisively and speedily—said there should be no partisanship in conducting the war.

"Winning the war must be kept out of politics," Spangler said. "The candidate who attempts to make political capital of the war will earn the scorn of patriots—and the repudiation of the voters. Today this country is Republican rather than Democratic. But our army and navy are neither Republican nor Democratic. They are Americans. 'Win the War' is a slogan which belongs to all of us."

Policy Undeclared by New Deal.

Spangler said the Republicans at their Mackinac conference in September produced a declaration of post-war objectives and purposes which today is the only comprehensive statement of American foreign policy formulated by leaders of any party. In contrast, he said the New Deal had not declared a policy.

Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, Republican dinner speaker, with Carroll Reece of Tennessee and Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska (left to right).

"The country is told at intervals," he said, "what it is thought proper to tell. The people do not know what commitments have been given or what grandiose schemes for world progress may or may not have been adopted.

"It is even proposed now to drop the name New Deal. But the record of the last 11 years rises to haunt them.

"Catch phrases will not delude a people who see mismanagement in time of war. The term New Deal will not die. It will live on as a description of the kind of government the people of this country will not again tolerate."

Homer Capehart of Washington, Ind., said last night that he would announce his candidacy for United States senator from Indiana at Washington Friday.

Grandmother of Tennis Stars Killed by Auto

Mrs. Katherine Murphy, 83 years old, who lived with her son, Edward, at 1517 West 80th street, was injured fatally yesterday when hit by a car at 80th street and Ashland avenue. The car was driven by Miss Doris Voights, 21, of 1641 West 83d street. Mrs. Murphy was taken to St. George's hospital where she died. She was the grandmother of William and Chester Murphy who were ranking tennis players in the Big Ten when they attended the University of Chicago a few years ago. They now are ensigns in the navy.

HEAVY INCREASE IN WOMAN VOTE SEEN FOR 1944

Angered by Bungling, G.O.P. Leaders Say.

BY JUNE GESERICK.

Women's voting in the 1944 Presidential election will increase from 10 to 25 per cent over the last national election, it was predicted yesterday by Republican national committee women and state chairwomen who attended sessions in Stevens hotel.

"Women are interested in this election because at home they are fighting to maintain democracy just as their sons and husbands are fighting on the battle front to maintain it," Mrs. Chris Carlson of Blue Earth, Minn., Republican national committee woman from Minnesota, declared.

Outvoted in Rural Areas.

Mrs. Carlson predicted a 15 per cent increase in women's voting in her state, where she said 60 per cent of the 1942 voters were women. She reported a recent survey thruout Minnesota revealed that women outvoted men in cities and villages, while in rural and labor areas, men's voting outranked that of women. One of the chief reasons for a lighter women's vote in rural communities, Mrs. Carlson said, is difficulty in getting transportation to the polling places. Arrangements will be made to provide better facilities on voting days, she said.

A 25 per cent increase in Minnesota is predicted by Miss Marjorie Thompson of Baker, Minn., state vice chairman. She said recent studies have disclosed that farm women are increasingly interested in voting because they have been brought to fuller realization of their responsibilities as voters thru their actual participation of farm work under the present farm labor shortage.

Resent Broken Promises.

Mrs. Fern Smith Hammond of Saginaw, Mich., vice chairman of the Republican state central committee, predicted a 15 per cent increase in the women's vote in Michigan. She said many Michigan women resent "the fact that the President did not keep his word when he promised that no American boys, because of any word of his, would go across the seas." Those boys are protecting our interests "over there" and women feel that their interests at home must be protected, she said.

Mrs. Pearl H. Wates, national committee woman from Alabama and a member of the executive committee, said women's voting in the south will increase from 10 to 15 per cent. Mrs. Wates is the youngest member of the national committee.

South Has Many Fighters.

"The south has furnished more men per capita than any other section of the country," Mrs. Wates stated. "There has been a great increase in activities of women's organizations in Alabama and that may be largely responsible for an increased women's vote."

Mrs. George Gerlinger, national committee woman from Oregon, predicted that the stay-at-home vote brought out during the coming election will be greater than ever before.

"The war has touched virtually every home in the nation," Mrs. Gerlinger said. "Women in general have a distaste for entering into political affairs. It has taken the cataclysm of the New Deal and war to shock them into the realization of their personal responsibility."

$5 A POUND TURKEY RUFFLES SEN. BYRD; GROCER IS ARRESTED

New York, Jan. 10 [Special].—Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] has a taste for sliced turkey but not when the price is $5 a pound. On a complaint made by the senator to Chester Bowles, head of the office of price administration, a delicatessen operator appeared in Municipal court today on charges of violating the ceiling prices on bologna and with failing to keep proper records or post ceiling prices.

Sen. Byrd wrote Bowles that on Nov. 17 he visited the delicatessen of Abraham Citran in Madison avenue and asked the price of white turkey meat. When Citran said $5 a pound, Sen. Byrd became angry and refused to buy. After Bowles received the letter OPA inspectors visited Citran's store and finally placed the charges against him. When he was arraigned today Citran's attorneys hinted they would call Sen. Byrd as a witness. Trial was set for Friday.

MRS. LUCE ASKS FOR FRESH AIR IN WHITE HOUSE

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 10 (AP).—What this nation needs Rep. Clare Boothe Luce [R., Conn.] asserted today, is to "sweep the dirt from under the White House rugs and let in some fresh air."

"American voters are ripe for a good housecleaning," the congresswoman said in an interview as she paused here during her tour in the interests of the approaching Republican Presidential campaign.

"Chances for a Republican Presidential victory are excellent," she added. "In my tour I have found a growing antagonism toward the Roosevelt administration. People are restless and they do not like that little item of being 16 years in one job—particularly when the job is being President of the United States."

Then she declared:

"Any good Republican will make a good President."

FARMERS PRAY FOR MOISTURE TO SAVE CROPS

Farmers thruout northern and central Illinois still were praying for moisture yesterday as Chicagoans watched their first bit of winter weather melt into a dirty slush.

The recent snowfall in the city was the lightest and most fluffy in the memory of officials of the weather bureau. Altho the south side had as much as 4½ inches of snow, the northwest side had barely a half inch. Only traces of snow appeared thruout the state, leaving the ground still dangerously dry.

Little Benefit in City.

The weather bureau reported that the 3½ inches of snow that fell at the airport melted down to only .04 of an inch of rainfall. Consequently even the city lawns and shrubbery derived little relief from what appeared to be a heavy snow fall.

The snow came in from the lake and "instead of jumping against each other and building up" the flakes fell immediately, a weather bureau official stated. This accounts for the small amount of moisture the snow gave and also is the reason why the fall was freakish, he said.

Fields of winter wheat and rye still need a good rainfall or a heavy blanket of snow, farmers reported. The ground has cracked in many fields and grain roots are exposed to alternate freezing and thawing. This weather also is harmful to new hay fields, farmers explained.

Winter Wheat Condition Poor.

Reports by the department of agriculture show that the condition of winter wheat thruout the nation is the poorest in many years, despite an increase in acreage planted. The department estimated that 21.9 per cent of the acreage seeded will not be harvested. This compares with 10.3 per cent last year.

A winter wheat crop of 526,957,000 bushels is expected, the department said, as compared with 529,606,000 harvested last year. Yet the acreage seeded jumped from more than 37 million acres last year to more than 47 million this year.

A REPORT TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE... in this thrilling, vitally important book—

Lend-Lease WEAPON FOR VICTORY

By EDWARD R. STETTINIUS, Jr.
UNDER SECRETARY OF STATE
written while Administrator of Lend-Lease

This book is a "cavalcade" of the war on all fronts. It explains to the American people in terms that are clear, straightforward, and vividly presented, how Lend-Lease stopped the aggressors and makes possible their ultimate defeat. It is an exciting book; one that brings its readers close to history, close to some of the most dramatically executed incidents of the war. For the first time, a high Government official has presented in book form the detailed and significant record of this vitally important aspect of our war against the Axis. Every American will want to know this complete and authentic story of Lend-Lease.

Here are the Facts

LEND-LEASE: Weapon for Victory comes as an answer to the thousands of questions that are in the minds of all of us today.

- What is Lend-Lease?
- On what are these billions of dollars being spent?
- What percentage of our food is shipped overseas?
- Who decides what should go where?
- Why are we supplying arms to other countries?
- What is Reverse Lend-Lease?
- How much has there been and how is it helping?
- Shall we ever be repaid for any of this vast expense?

Profusely illustrated with photographs, maps, and pictograms. $3.00

THIS IS A STORY OF Action! Lend-Lease at work on every front

IN GREAT BRITAIN Rifles and ammunition, rushed from America, were put into the hands of British soldiers when they stood virtually unarmed after the evacuation of Dunkirk.

IN RUSSIA American planes, tanks, and other vital materials are being used against the enemy by Russian fighters.

IN CHINA Over the most difficult supply lines in the world, American gasoline and spare parts are being sped to the ever-growing air power of the United Nations over China.

IN EGYPT Supplies arrived with the help of Lend-Lease in time to lend aid to Montgomery in his heroic defeat of Rommel.

IN NEW GUINEA Australian soldiers are fighting in Lend-Lease tanks.

IN NORTH AFRICA Britain and the United States pooled their ships, planes, guns, and men to drive the Axis from Africa.

This is the stuff of which this book is made: strong, sturdy contributions towards a common victory.

SPARKS OFFERS PROOF: 'WILLKIE STILL A STOOGE'

Ready to Submit Hopkins Letter to Grand Jury.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

C. Nelson Sparks last night told 1,500 members of the Republican national revivalist committee, gathered in Hotel Sherman, that he will prove his charge that Wendell L. Willkie, as Republican candidate for President in 1940, was a stooge for the New Deal.

The former police commissioner, postmaster and mayor of Akron, O., further warned that Willkie is playing the same role now and that he must not be allowed to capture the G. O. P. nomination again.

Proof of his charges, Sparks said, will be submitted tomorrow to a federal grand jury before which he has been summoned in Washington, D. C.

Letter Is Main Issue.

Sparks said Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle has subpenaed him before that grand jury principally to tell about the letter which Sparks charges Harry Hopkins sent last Aug. 17 to Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Tex., a letter Hopkins has denied writing and Lee has denied receiving.

P. H. Moynihan, former Republican congressman, was chairman of the meeting, which passed several resolutions and sent a telegram to the Republican National committee in session in the Stevens hotel. The telegram protested any Republican acceptance of the "New Deal trap offer of a single plank on foreign policy."

One of the resolutions called upon the party organization to join the movement to draft Col. R. R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, for President, which the revivalist committee has determined to carry on. James J. Cullen, chairman of the organization committee, said more than enough names have been obtained on petitions to put Col. McCormick's name on the ballot.

Bouquet for Sumner.

A second resolution commended Rep. Jessie Sumner for "her recent forthright statement of the sad condition of affairs in congress," and "regretted" her decision not be run again.

Moynihan drew applause when he said the revivalist committee had been formed specifically to stop Willkie. He said both Willkie and the New Deal must be stopped and added: "That will be attended to next November, because we have a lot of bleeding hearts in both the Democratic and Republican parties who want to give our country away—to the rest of the world."

When Moynihan reminded his audience: "We'll be 200 billions in debt by the end of 1944," some one shouted "Bankruptcy!"

Moynihan drew loud cheers again by saying: "No, this country never will be bankrupt; we'll take care of that next November."

Exhibits Disputed Letter.

Sparks, 62 years old, a short, slender, silver haired figure, waved the disputed Hopkins letter before his audience. He said he had many copies, but this was the original. He said he'd had it about three weeks. He added: "I can and will prove that Dr. Umphrey Lee received it and only Hopkins could have originated it."

Sparks made public two other documents—one a statement which he said was made by Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, on Sept. 11, 1940, four days before he was killed in an automobile crash; the second a letter he said Mrs. Ogden Reid, wife of the publisher of the New York Herald Tribune, wrote him recently.

"Proves Willkie Still a Stooge."

Sparks said these, together with the Hopkins letter, conclusively prove that Willkie has been a New Deal stooge ever since 1936.

Dr. Frank, in his statement, said he had been summoned to New York early in 1936 to meet Thomas Lamont, head of J. P. Morgan & Co., the bankers; Mr. Cochrane, also of the Morgan firm; Alfred P. Sloan, and "other industrial and financial leaders."

The educator then told how he had been informed that the group wanted a Republican candidate for the Presidency from the Mississippi valley or corn belt region and that Frank had been suggested as a potential winner. He stated "they did not attempt to conceal they were ridding themselves of an obligation toward the corn belt and clearing the way for the 1940 blitz."

Political Dinner Party.

The letter from Mrs. Reid, Sparks said, came to him recently. It referred to his book version of a dinner party given by the Reids and attended by Mr. and Mrs. Lamont, the late Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States at the time; Mr. and Mrs. John Pillsbury of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Willkie; United States Senator and Mrs. Robert Taft, and others.

In the book Sparks said Willkie and Sen. Taft were approached at the dinner on their stand toward war. "The Reids invited the two candidates," Sparks said in his speech, "hoping to obtain from both an 'all-out war' declaration satisfactory to the internationalists and to the British ambassador."

Mrs. Reid, in her letter, admitted the dinner took place. She said, however, it was a social and not a political gathering.

THE QUESTION.

Were you ever successful in correcting your wife [or husband] of a bad habit?

WHERE ASKED.

Bluebird Bus station, Randolph street.

THE ANSWERS.

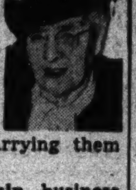
Mrs. Herbert M. Glass, housewife, Ainsworth, Ia.—My husband had the bad habit of eating too fast. At first I thought it would be easy to keep up with him but that didn't solve the problem when we had guests. I finally toned him down to a pace that was partly in line with table manners.

The Rev. Herbert M. Glass, minister, Ainsworth, Ia.—It took an awful lot of reminding to get my wife to correct her posture. I found it most effective to give her an affectionate pat on the back. She'd straighten up immediately and take the hint in good spirit. It helped her posture greatly.

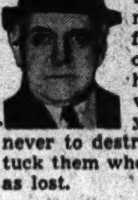
Mrs. C. W. Dukes, housewife, 846 West Sheridan road—Every day for the first few months of our marriage I had to remind my husband to hang up the bath mat after his shower. It took him a long time to get rid of that habit but he does all right now. The habit was minor but important.

Mr. C. W. Dukes, 846 West Sheridan road—You wouldn't think any of my wife's dish washing habits would bother me but they did. I didn't like the pack of them she left on the drying rack. She always told me she'd put them away if I'd dry them. I just let well enough alone then.

Mrs. O. C. Chamberlain, housewife, 3316 Grove avenue, Berwyn—It was impossible for my husband to remember to mail my letters. The first job was to have him remember to take them along. I solved that by tucking the letters in his hat band, but I never cured him of carrying them for days.



Mr. O. C. Chamberlain, business manager, 3316 Grove avenue, Berwyn—Whenever my wife cleaned or straightened thing on my desk I'd take it for granted that half of my valuable papers had landed in the waste basket. It took years to teach her never to destroy those things or to tuck them where they were as good as lost.



100 DOCTORS, 250 NURSES FROZEN TO JOBS BY WMC

Physicians, dentists, nurses, veterinarians, and sanitary engineers who are employed in essential activities must have the permission of the United States employment service before they can change jobs, the war man power commission announced yesterday. Dr. Edward C. Holmblad of Chicago, managing director of the American Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons, estimated the order will freeze 100 salaried doctors and surgeons, 250 nurses, and a few dentists in their jobs in Chicago industries. He said the order is a "justifiable" effort to prevent shifting in the medical staffs of essential industries.

CONGRESS HEARS TALES OF UNREST IN THE HUSTINGS

Returning Representatives Air Complaints.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Midwestern representatives and senators, returning for the second session of the 78th congress, reported today a growing unrest among their constituents over administration domestic policies, combined with a consuming desire to end the war quickly and effectively.

Interviews today brought out these salient convictions, derived from conversations with the folks at home:

1. The people at home are concerned over the trend to government by decree and by governmental agency, and want the tendency halted and reversed.

Watch Foreign Policy.

2. They are satisfied, in general, with the way in which the high military and naval commands are conducting the war, but are watchful of international political activities.

3. They want an end to war time strikes and ask that a realistic labor policy be adopted by the government to bring about peace between labor and management.

4. In general, they oppose the continuation of the present system of subsidies.

5. They shy from the fourth term because they fear a fourth term for President Roosevelt will mean an expanding autocratic control of their lives.

Against Continuance.

"The people of my state are against the continuance of the present administration's system of control," Sen. Raymond E. Willis [R., Ind.] said in summing up the opinions expressed to him during the congressional recess.

Sen. Willis said the President's seizure of the railroads was looked upon as an unnecessary move of the kind "that may be expected under the policy of the administration."

Republican reports on the sentiment found in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan, coincided in the main with those expressed by Sen. Willis. Democrats were loath to comment, and those who did, admitted that all is not well at home.

Sen. Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] evaded questions on subsidy sentiment by saying there is much to be said on both sides. Rep. Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.] said he had heard "come complaints" from his constituents about shortages of articles ranging from meat to liquor, but said people "are with Roosevelt."

Different Story Told.

This was in sharp contrast to the views reported by Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott [R., Mich.], who said he not only didn't find any one who is for the fourth term election of President Roosevelt, but didn't even find any one who knows any one who favors the fourth term.

Excerpts from other comments by returning congressmen include:

REP. CALVIN D. JOHNSON [R., Ill.]—Criticism against the administration is practically universal in my district. The people are particularly resentful of the inept handling of the railroad strike by the President.

REP. LAWRENCE H. SMITH [R., Wis.]—The prairies are afire with resentment over the way the home front is being handled. There is nothing Roosevelt or any one else in the Democratic party can do to stop it. The people are up in arms about OPA policies, labor troubles, and other domestic ills.

Opposed to Subsidies.

REP. FOREST A HARNESS [R., Ind.]—The people are mad. If the election were held tomorrow Indiana would go overwhelmingly Republican.

REP. EARLE C. MICHENER [R., Mich.]—The public is more disturbed about everything than I wish they were.

REP. LESLIE C. ARENDS [R., Ill.]—I found the people terribly disturbed and confused. Business men have been brought to the point of despair by OPA regulations. Every one earning a salary is appalled by income tax confusion.

REP. KARL M. LE COMTE [R., Iowa]—The people are particularly opposed to the administration subsidy program.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. S. J. writes: "I recently learned that my husband has been convicted of desertion and is now serving a sentence, and my family allowance has been discontinued because of this. A friend of mine told me that her husband has been absent without leave for more than a month and was recently arrested and is awaiting trial, but she has continued to receive her family allowance. Can you tell me if I am not entitled to such an allowance?"

ANSWER: When a soldier has been convicted of desertion, the family allowance is discontinued, but in cases in which a soldier is absent without leave for a period of less than three months and is confined and awaiting trial, the allowance is continued until the case is tried.

Mrs. C. O. writes: "My son will soon enter the army and the question of the allowance comes up. His wife divorced him, and at the time the court refused her alimony or support for the child. My son, who formerly did civilian work outside of the country, has supported me since his return to this country and would like to ask for an allowance for me. Will it be necessary for him to provide such benefits for his former wife and child?"

ANSWER: If your son has been divorced from his wife and there is no provision for alimony or support of the child, he need not apply for a family allowance for either of them. If you, as his mother, can prove dependency, he may apply for an allowance for you.

Mrs. T. M. writes: "I am divorced from my husband who is now in service. According to the orders of the court, my daughter receives a government allowance, but because she is a minor, the money is sent to me. I have recently remarried and would like to know if I am still entitled to that allowance."

ANSWER: Much depends upon wording of the court order, and I would suggest that you write to the headquarters of the branch of service involved and provide information as to your remarriage. You will then be notified as to your continued eligibility.

Mrs. D. L. writes: "Can you tell me how to apply for an allowance for my baby? My husband is overseas with the marine corps and had left the country at the time of the baby's birth last August. I understand that he would take care of the matter, but as yet I have not received the allowance, and I really need it."

ANSWER: Write to the Commandant, Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., and supply your husband's complete name, rank, serial number, address, and any other identifying information which you may have. Enclose a certified copy of the baby's birth certificate with a note that you are requesting an allowance for the child. Give the number of your present account, if you know it. It is possible that your husband has not had an opportunity to make the application. Meanwhile, if you are in need of financial assistance, contact the Navy Relief society at Great Lakes, Ill.

G. O. P. SENATORS MEET THURSDAY TO REORGANIZE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—A change in the Republican organization in the senate will be discussed at a minority conference Thursday morning.

Since last November, when Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon was stricken with an illness which later necessitated a brain operation, Republican senators have been without an active titular leader. Sen. Wallace H. White of Maine, secretary of the Republican conference, decided today to summon the conference.

While it is considered unlikely that any decision will be made to strip McNary permanently of authority, several stopgap expedients are under consideration. One would involve creation of the offices of assistant leader and minority whip. Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and Styles Bridges of New Hampshire are talked of as stand-ins for the absent McNary. Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska has been mentioned for whip.

Another plan calls for selection of a conference chairman.

INTRODUCES BILL TO AID DISABLED YANKS PROMPTLY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—A bill to provide temporary compensation for disabled veterans pending establishment of claims with the veterans' administration was introduced today by Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer [D., Md.].

Sasscer told the house the measure was designed to assist the men between the time of their discharge, when pay ceases, and the establishment of their claims, when regular compensation begins.

SOLDIERS' VOTES IS FIRST ISSUE AS CONGRESS MEETS

Await Message from Roosevelt Today.

replied that Vursell's charge was "regrettable" and that the administration "is doing all it can to have a bill passed."

Also figuring in the house debate was the statement yesterday by Harrison E. Spangler, chairman of the Republican national committee, that an informal survey of 1944 election sentiment of some American troops abroad has shown that 56 per cent of the service men would vote Republican and 44 per cent Democratic.

Rep. Herman P. Eberharter [D., Pa.] told the house that "I shudder to think of the reaction from Republicans if such a survey of election sentiments of soldiers had been made by the Democratic chairman." But, he continued, as long as the Republicans are now convinced that a majority of service men are behind their party, they should "cease trying to make voting by soldiers difficult."

In rebuttal, Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] defended the right of the Republican chairman to make an informal checkup of political sentiment, and declared a soldier "is still a free, sovereign American" and has the right to express his opinions on political questions."

"The Republicans, of course, want all service men to be able to vote," Fish said, "but we want an honest, not a manipulated ballot, and a vote not propagandized by the OWI [office of war information]."

Meanwhile, in both the house and senate, a variety of new proposals were offered dealing with the service balloting question.

Hearing Slated Today.

Bradley and Rep. George H. Bender [R., O.] announced an "unofficial" hearing for tomorrow at which some 25 veterans' and civic groups have been invited to state their views on voting legislation. The two congressmen issued a statement urging the use of uniform federal ballots for soldiers instead of state-printed ballots.

The federal ballot plan was also included in bills proposed today by Rep. Walter G. Andrews [R., N. Y.] in the house and by Senators Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.], and Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.]. Their plans would eliminate any federal ballot commission, but would have the war and navy secretaries handle the printing, distribution and collection of service ballots. The Andrews' bill covers all service men and merchant marine personnel, while the Lodge-Austin proposal would apply only to service and merchant marine personnel outside the country.

Rep. Michael J. Bradley [D., Pa.] introduced in the house a so-called compromise bill which would retain supervision over the balloting in a federal commission, but would leave in the hands of the states the right to determine the validity of votes cast. The bill is virtually identical with one which Sen. Scott Lucas [D., Ill.] announced he will offer in the senate tomorrow. Sen. Lucas's original bill, which would have given broad powers over the balloting and validity of votes cast to a federal commission, was snowed under by the senate last year.

The senate today held a perfunctory session of only 17 minutes and deferred debate on all questions, including the soldiers' vote issue, until after the President's message tomorrow.

Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the finance committee announced on the floor that the pending tax bill, which has already passed the house but has been revised by the senate committee, will be brought up tomorrow.

The first item for consideration, he said, is a provision of the bill freezing social security taxes at 1 per cent of payrolls, instead of doubling them as provided in original social security legislation.

Doubt Legality of CCC Deals; Congressman Demands Quiz

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—The administration's hard-pressed food subsidy forces were rocked back on their heels today by a blast from Rep. Robert F. Jones [R., O.], a member of the house appropriations committee, questioning the legality of 3 billions in securities thus far issued by the Commodity Credit corporation, chief dispenser of government subsidies.

Unearthing the little known fact that the CCC is organized under the laws of Delaware by virtue of an executive order of President Roosevelt dated 1933, Jones sent a letter to Rep. Howard W. Smith [D., Va.], chairman of the committee investigating excesses of authority by executive agencies, demanding an inquiry.

"Congress has permitted this state creature to issue notes, bonds, and debentures to the extent of 3 billions," Jones said.

"Reform" Pledge Cited.

"This administration came into power on a promise to reform commercial companies and proceeded to put them under the heel of the securities and exchange commission. It appears that the operations of the CCC are out-Insulling Insull, this generation's outstanding example of financial pyramiding."

Jones noted that the Constitution provides that no money shall be withdrawn from the treasury "but in consequence of appropriations made by law."

"A state creature pledging the credit of the United States government in effect circumvents the express promise of the Constitution, in my opinion," he wrote Rep. Smith.

Bond Authority Recalled.

"In view of the fact that congress, after the CCC had been organized under the laws of Delaware by executive order, subsequently authorized the CCC to issue bonds, notes, and debentures fully guaranteed as to principal and interest to the extent of 3 billion dollars, and in view of the further fact that said state corporation commenced payment of subsidies without specific authorization from congress, I would appreciate very much early consideration by your committee of the activities of this corporation.

"I hope that your committee may look into the constitutionality of the formation of such corporation and whether its activities are being continued in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution and federal statutes.

Situation Called Dangerous.

"It seems to me that this is a strange and anomalous, if not dangerous, situation to find the congress of the United States authorizing the pledge of credit of the United States to a state corporation and allowing a state corporation to, in effect, appropriate federal funds."

Jones' demand for a federal inquiry gave impetus to attempts at a compromise on the food subsidies whereby the administration would yield on the proposed butter and meat rollback subsidy costing 450 millions a year and on other subsidies costing approximately 180 millions yearly. It would receive in return approximately 400 millions for financing a food stamp plan for low income families.

MENTAL ILLNESS OF WOMEN IN U. S. JOBS INCREASES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Rep. Jennings Randolph [D., W. Va.] sought today to make facilities of District of Columbia mental institutions available to mentally ill women government employes who live in government dormitories across the Potomac from Washington in Virginia. Most of the women work in the army and marine corps headquarters building.

Advised by the mental health subcommittee of the District Medical society that a "substantial" number of women government employees are suffering from mental disturbances in increasing numbers and that no facilities are available for their care, Rep. Randolph introduced a bill to apply District laws to mental cases found on properties owned or occupied by the United States in "the No Man's land area."

One woman was reported to have been found walking around in a residence hall "clothed only in a feather."

Bill Seeks to Fix Status.

The dormitories, the Pentagon building housing war department headquarters, and the navy annex, home of the marine corps headquarters, are on the Virginia side of the Potomac. A bill to determine whether this land should be under jurisdiction of Virginia or the District of Columbia is awaiting house action.

Dormitory directors reported that last June, July, and August there were 30 cases of women suffering from mental illness that required special attention, Theodore Wiprud, secretary of the District Medical society, was informed.

Feel Persecution Complex.

He said the patients were suffering from persecution complex, depression, or confusion.

An investigating group found that the nearest Virginia mental hospital was more than 100 miles away. It also found that legal difficulties would be encountered if attempts were made to bring the patients out of Virginia and into the District.

SENATE PUSHES ARMY VOTE BILL TO FINAL STAGE

Advances Date of Filing Candidacy Petitions.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 10.—The Republican state administration's bills to provide a practical system of soldier voting for 700,000 Illinoisans in military service plowed ahead tonight to passage stage in the senate, which is planning to send them to the house tomorrow.

A barrage of Democratic minority speeches and proposed amendments slowed down the progress of the Benson-Cutler bills, but final legislative approval still is possible by Thursday in the house of representatives.

Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, majority floor leader, today discovered some flaws in the bills. A conflict in the schedule of dates was dissolved by an amendment to allow sufficient time for printing the ballots. A result of this change was the advancement of some dates to an earlier point than had been foreseen.

Eight Days for Filing.

Latest changes make the first date for filing petitions of candidacy Jan. 24 instead of Feb. 5, and the last filing date Feb. 1. This allows only eight days instead of 16 for public office aspirants to file their petitions.

"While this may result in inconvenience to candidates," said Lt. Gov. Hugh W. Cross, "I am sure that every aspirant to public office will appreciate the one paramount consideration—the opportunity for every man and woman in the service of their country to exercise their right to vote."

Minority Leader Richard J. Daley [D., Chicago] seized upon the date change as a reason for approving his bill introduced today to postpone the April 11 primary until May 11.

Nullify Penalty.

Another administration amendment nullified the penalty calling for a maximum of $2,000 fine and one year's imprisonment for "wilful failure" to return a soldier ballot.

Several Republican senators pictured the sentiments of some soldiers if they should receive ballots presenting them with a Presidential choice between Roosevelt and Willkie.

Sen. Roland V. Libonati [D., Chicago] wanted an amendment to give maritime union workers and other civilians the same privileges as soldiers, sailors, and marines.

Sen. R. G. Crisenberry [R., Murphysboro] recalled, however, that Gov. Dwight H. Green's call for the session limited legislation to voters in military service. His point of order being sustained by Lt. Gov. Hugh Cross, the amendment was ruled unacceptable.

Defeat Daley Plan.

Daley's plan would have eliminated advance applications and would have allowed close relatives [father, mother, wife, sister, and brother] to apply for a ballot, which would be sent with a formal application. The application would accompany the soldier's ballot when he voted. It was rejected, 29 to 16.

Defeated by the same score was Daley's amendment to authorize sergeants and petty officers as well as commissioned officers to attest to signatures.

The house adjourned tonight after advancing bills appropriating $72,000 for session costs. Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg hopes to receive the service voting bills tomorrow after they are passed in the senate.

3 AGENCIES JOIN DRIVE TO BOOST OUTPUT OF PULP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Three federal agencies opened a drive today to mobilize farmers for woodcutting on farm woodlots and for work in the pulpwood and lumber industries during the slack agricultural season.

Emergency war needs for "immediate and greatly increased production" of pulpwood and lumber were cited by the war production board, war food administration and war man power commission as the reason for pooling of forces in the campaign.

WFA called on state and county war boards to encourage farm workers to devote their spare time in the winter and spring to work in the woods.

WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson said that more than 7,000 lumber and pulpwood consuming mills soon will receive complete information on the drive, while WMC announced that offices of the United States employment service are ready to expedite the transfer of workers from farms into woods and mills.

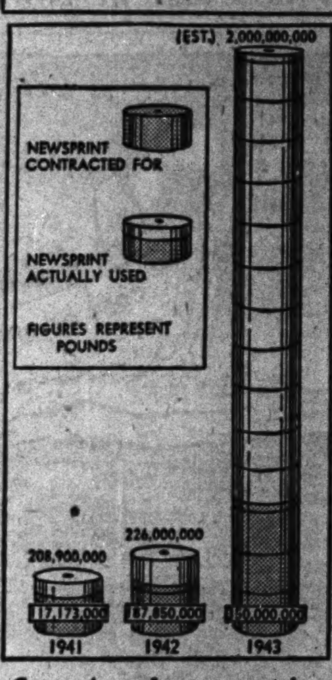
Where Paper Goes



Comparison of governmental use of paper in last three years. The 1943 total is an extension for the full year based on consumption of 115,545,000 pounds in first three weeks.

'HOBBLE CHAINS' ON PRESS TERMED A BUSINESS PERIL

New Deal Waste of Paper Denounced.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 10 [Special].—Washington burocrats are using millions of pounds of paper for useless pamphlets while they curtail the supply of newsprint to newspapers, Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett declared today in an address before the Advertising and Selling club here.

"The 'hobble chains' of burocracy must be removed from the press and advertising if we are to cope successfully with the problems which lie ahead in an uncertain post-war world," he said.

"At the close of the war we will need millions of jobs for our citizens in order to stabilize the economic structure of our country. We must look to private industry for those jobs. In order to provide millions of jobs, business and industry must sell a great quantity of merchandise and keep that merchandise moving. The rate at which that merchandise moves will be dependent largely upon the success of its advertising.

Press Called Vital Medium.

"All types of advertising will be employed, but one of the most important will be that used in the daily and weekly press. To destroy the effectiveness of the press thru the curtailment of newsprint now—forcing it, in turn, to hamper the effectiveness of advertising—may so cripple these two arteries of American business that it may take years to restore their effectiveness, thereby indirectly creating a scarcity of a most cherished commodity after the war—jobs for American workers."

"Today the federal government is using paper in heretofore unheard of amounts," he said. "A large portion of that paper is used by pamphleteering burocrats in Washington—not to aid the war or assist in the actual operation of the government, but to publicize the pet ideas of impractical dreamers and dangerous exponents of un-American philosophies of government.

Press Pays High Price.

"All of these people and agencies can get paper. But who pays the price? It is a high price and is paid by the press of America—indeed, by the people of America.

"For example, in 1941, the federal government contracted for 117,173,000 pounds of paper altho it actually used 208,900,000 pounds. In 1942 the government contracted for 187,850,000 pounds of paper and used 226 million pounds. In 1943 the government contracted for 350 million pounds of paper.

"At the very time when the entire press of the nation was threatened with further curtailment of newsprint it was announced that during the first three weeks of last year the federal government consumed 115,545,000 pounds of the 350 million pounds of paper it had under contract for 1943.

"If that rate of consumption of paper on the part of the burocrats continued, it means that the federal government last year used more than 2 billion pounds of paper, or 9.6 times as much as it consumed in 1941."

U. S. TO CONVERT NEWSPRINT BACK INTO WOOD PULP

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Most of the 108,000 tons of newsprint which the government will buy from Canadian mills for approximately 6¼ million dollars in the next six months will be converted back into wood pulp and made into paper boxes for war shipments, the war production board disclosed today.

The government's investment in newsprint [the paper on which newspapers are printed] has been explained by the WPB as necessary to accumulate a stockpile over the next six months to assure adequate newsprint supplies to American newspapers.

It was learned, however, that little of this government owned newsprint will be released to newspapers, whose newsprint supplies have been curtailed severely by the WPB. Experts said newspapers will continue to be thin in a period when news of the war and the government will be vital to the public.

Procedure Called Costly.

Paper experts said the WPB plan of buying newsprint and converting it back to wood pulp is an expensive and unheard of procedure.

They explained that newsprint is made from wood pulp at considerable cost of processing and finishing. They said the WPB plan is somewhat analogous to what would happen if an eccentric weaver purchased fine worsted cloth, had it ground to bits, had it spun into yarn again, and then woven into cheap rags.

Harold Boeschenstein, director of the WPB forest products bureau, said the government's plan is necessary to provide adequate supplies of wood pulp for the manufacture of containers and wrapping papers needed to protect food and munitions being sent overseas.

Asserts Pulp Is Needed.

He said 18,000 tons of newsprint which Canadian paper mills have scheduled for delivery to the United States each month above the originally scheduled quota of 182,000 tons a month is needed not as newsprint but as wood pulp.

Arrangements have been completed thru the government's foreign economic administration to buy the 18,000 tons a month for the next half year in sizes to fit the presses of 15 of the largest newspapers in the United States. Boeschenstein said Canadian paper mills will run off this extra newsprint when they fill regular orders for the American newspapers.

He said the government owned newsprint will be stored in the Canadian mills or nearby warehouses. When woodpulp is needed for making paperboard boxes or wrapping paper, he said, the WPB will direct the paper mills to churn the newsprint into pulp and ship it to paperboard mills in this country.

Monthly Total 200,000 Tons.

Boeschenstein said the Canadian war time prices and trade board originally had agreed to provide this country with 182,000 tons of newsprint a month during the first six months this year. Later the Canadian control board said woodpulp production had improved sufficiently to increase the quota to 200,000 tons a month.

Altho the WPB had reduced newsprint consumption by American publishers in the first quarter of 1944 by almost 24 per cent below 1941 levels on the basis of the earlier Canadian quota, it decided not to relax these restrictions when more newsprint was offered.

America's newsprint supply for the first three months of 1944 was estimated at 255,000 tons a month, according to an industry report made public today by the WPB and the commerce department to a paper industry advisory committee. The monthly supply includes the 182,000 tons from Canada, 13,000 tons from Newfoundland, and 60,000 tons from American mills.

Firms importing pulpwood from Canada or elsewhere henceforth must first obtain authorization from the WPB. An order issued today will cover the 1,250,000 rough cords of pulpwood which Canada has agreed to ship to this country during 1944 for allocation to firms which normally depend on Canada for this material. This particular tonnage is for other than newsprint usage.

'FLYING SQUAD' TO VISIT PUPILS IN PAPER DRIVE

Tour of 600 Schools Begins Tomorrow.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

"The Flying Squadron," a corps of 50 key executives and top salesmen from 18 large paper and box companies, will take off tomorrow for an intensive speaking engagement tour of the city's 600 public and parochial schools. Their goal is the success of the schools' waste paper salvage campaign. By next week, they hope to report "mission accomplished."

The corps was organized under Joseph Marcus of the United States Paper Supply company to arouse interest among the school children in saving every scrap of waste paper as an important contribution to the nation's war effort. It is anticipated that the school children, who have had outstanding success in other salvage campaigns, will help to stem the shortage of paper stocks for the manufacture of vital war materials.

Use Will be Demonstrated.

Each member of "The Flying Squadron" will deliver from four to five speeches a day beginning tomorrow and continuing thru Friday. They will demonstrate the use of waste paper in the manufacture of containers for precious blood plasma, ammunition, rations, and military equipment.

The speakers will be representatives of the Ace Carton company, the A. George Schultz company, the Morris Paper Mills, the Empire Box corporation, the American Box Board company, the Columbia Paper Stock company, the Container Corporation of America, the Atlas Box Makers, Inc., the Acme Paper Box company, the Midwest Waste Materials association, the Pioneer Paper Stock company, the Chicago Carton company, the Franklin Folding Paper Box company, Central Fibre Products company, Hummel and Downing company, Chicago Cardboard company, Eddy Paper company, and Imperial Box company.

Collection Next Week.

The first school collection in the new waste paper salvage program will be taken up Monday thru Friday of next week, with a fleet of trucks making scheduled stops at both public and parochial schools thruout the city. Each school will be given the proceeds from its collection.

Housewives may turn their bundles of scrap paper over to the school children or place then on the curb-sides in front of their homes for a city-wide pickup Saturday. John R. Robinson of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers association which is sponsoring the program, emphasized yesterday.

"It does not matter how the scrap is turned in as long as we get it," he said. "Mothers, in fact, are urged to give waste paper bundles to their children to keep alive the competitive spirit of the schools in the salvage program, but housewives who are childless are urged to get the paper out on the curb early Saturday morning."

Chicago's 225,000 retail employes will aid in the sale of $5,000,000 worth of the E bonds during the fourth war loan drive from Jan. 18 to Feb. 15, it was announced yesterday by M. C. A special citation will be presented to each employe who sells at least $200 worth of bonds.

DENIES GARBAGE TRUCKS THWART TIN CAN SALVAGE

Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, denied yesterday that city garbage collectors dump flattened tin cans in with other refuse. His denial was in answer to complaints by citizens that their efforts to salvage tin were being thwarted by city scavengers. Johnson warned that if any collectors were caught in such practices, they would be discharged.

Virtually all city collectors handle the tin cans separately, said Johnson. He added that where big conveyor trucks are used, it might seem that tin cans are thrown in with other refuse, but actually they are not. The receptacle conveyers are close together, but separate, and their use could be deceptive to onlookers, Johnson said. He added that one-third of the scavenger work is done by private concerns, and not by the city.

WPB VOIDS BAN ON METAL FOR BABY CARRIAGES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Pre-war quality metal baby carriages will replace wooden models on the market in six weeks, the war production board announced today.

All restrictions on the use of metals in baby carriages, pushcarts, strollers, and walkers were removed, the WPB said. Improvement in the steel supply permitted the change. The WPB expects steel to be available for the industry to operate at capacity in 1944.

An estimated 750,000 or 800,000 metal carriages will be produced if this program is completed.

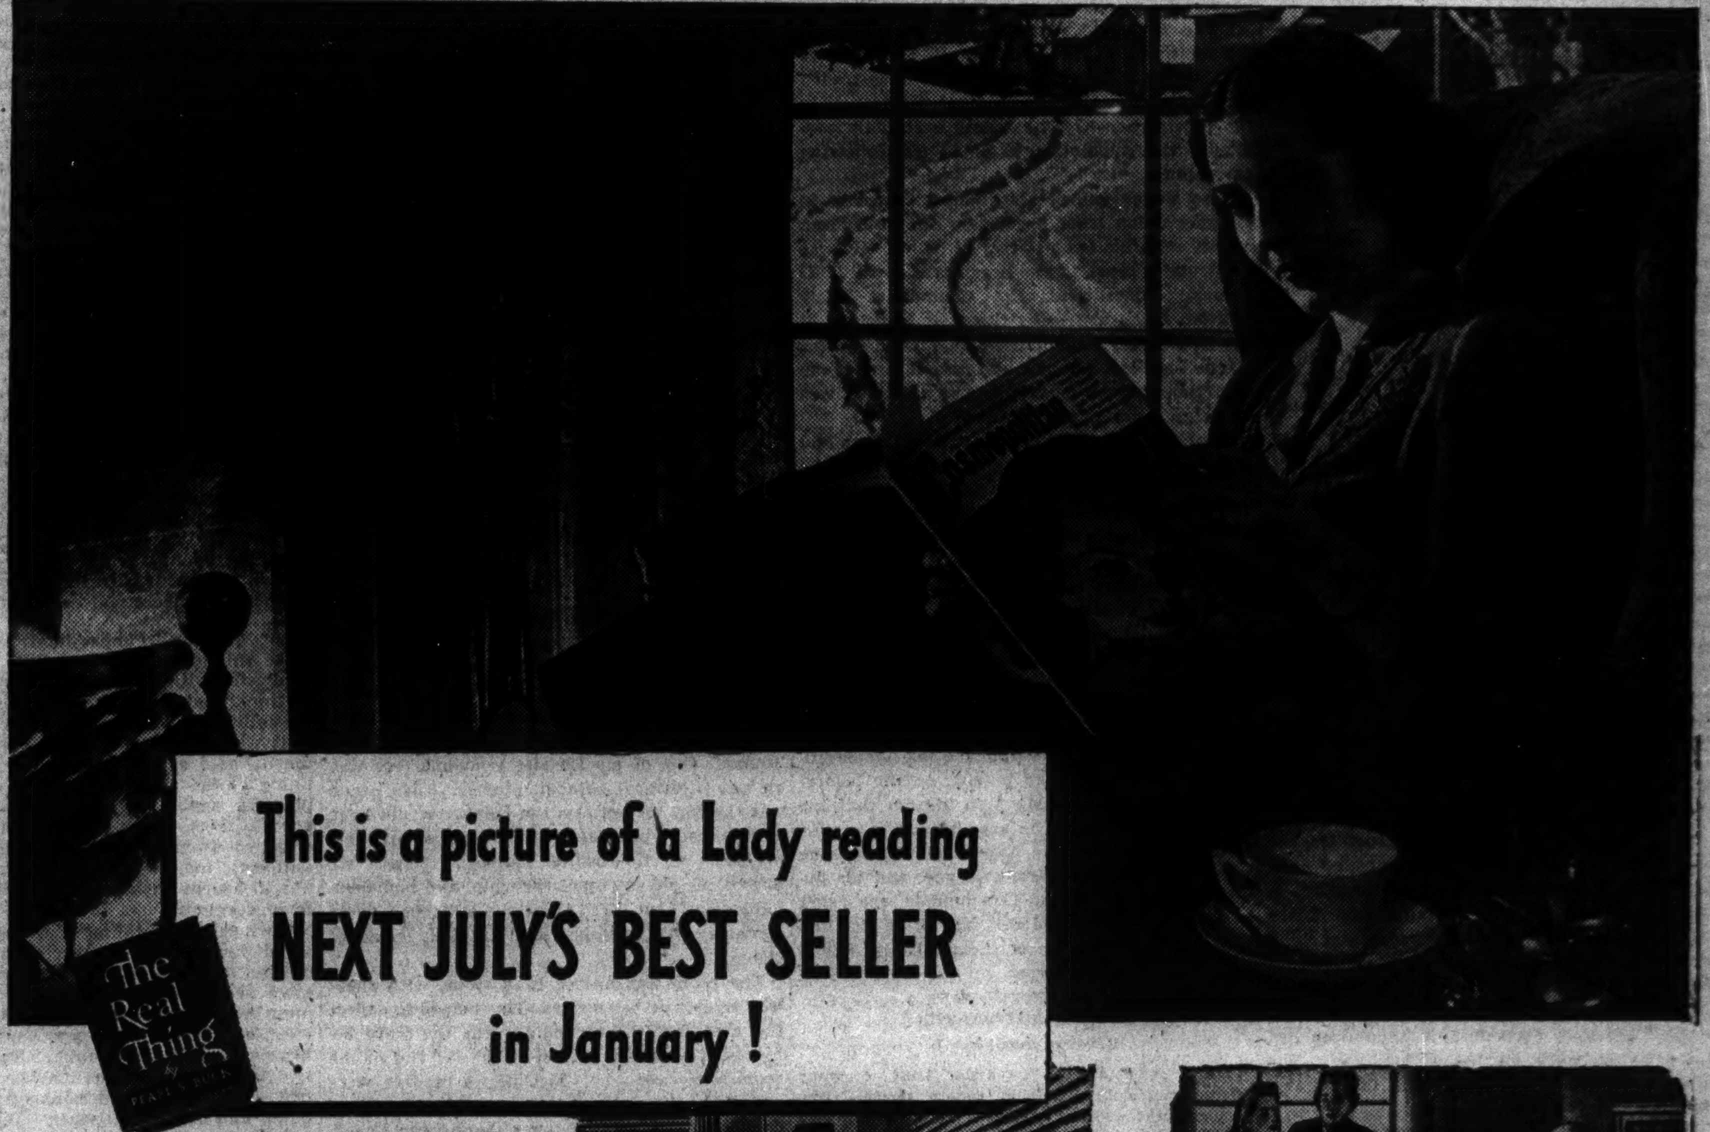
SAVE A BUNDLE!

Waste paper is desperately needed to pack food, plasma, ammunition. Save a bundle a week and save a boy's life.



This is a picture of a Lady reading NEXT JULY'S BEST SELLER in January!

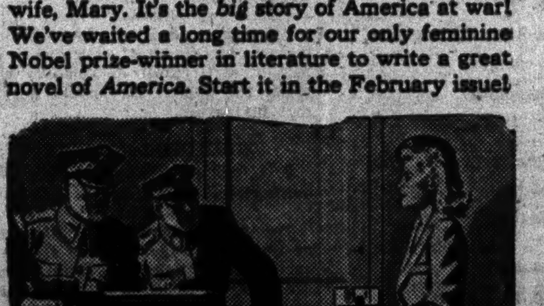
Pearl Buck's new novel "The Real Thing" is the Home Front story of this war. Don't miss this American "Good Earth" in February Cosmopolitan

THE lady above is reading a novel that should be one of America's most popular books in a few months. We can't be positive about the future, of course. But the Cosmopolitan editors, who introduced 12 books that became Best Sellers in 1943, are certain that "The Real Thing" is the best-seller type of story.

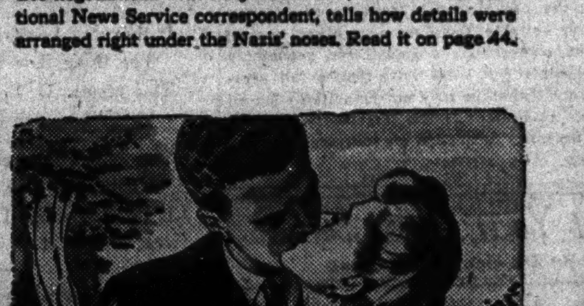
"The Real Thing" is the story of Mayor Peters of Winnetaw, who'd always said it wasn't our war—of his son Bill, who knew it was—of Bill's brave wife, Mary. It's the big story of America at war! We've waited a long time for our only feminine Nobel prize-winner in literature to write a great novel of America. Start it in the February issue!

"The Story Behind Italy's Surrender" by Clark Lee . . . No black-cape-and-dagger movie of international intrigue can top the thrills in this complete factual account of the Armistice negotiations with Italy. Clark Lee, the crack International News Service correspondent, tells how details were arranged right under the Nazis' noses. Read it on page 44.

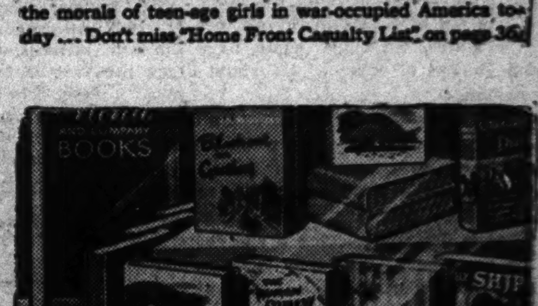
America's "Little Casualties"—A Shocking Revelation . . . He'd never been shocked, in 25 years of reporting gang fights, rum running, criminal trials. But when our ace news editor Harry T. Brundidge learned what's happening to the morals of teen-age girls in war-occupied America today . . . Don't miss "Home Front Casualty List" on page 36.



The Author of "Assignment in Brittany," Helen MacInnes, has written a great novel of 1939 Poland, "While Still We Live." 757 pages—we couldn't run it in one issue. Serialization was impossible. So we offer one episode—a story in itself—with a note telling how the book "comes out."



Should Army Wives Follow Their Husbands? You'll be able to answer better after reading Margaret Weymouth Jackson's "Never Forget Spring." A complete book-length novel, it's the story of Eunice Wallace who took baggage and baby and moved near her husband's camp. Page 69.



12 Best Sellers in 1943! That's Cosmopolitan's achievement and it's a record that will take a lot of beating. We may top it in '44, though. Pearl Buck's "The Real Thing" appears to be getting us off on the right foot. And "While Still We Live," a Cosmopolitan Preview, is yet another candidate.

13 GREAT PIECES OF FICTION plus 16 OTHER COMPLETE FEATURES —including "Situation Well in Hand," by VINA DELMAR; "Sailor, Take Care," by ROYAL BROWN; "Lost and Found," by RITA WEIMAN; "Dance Program," by FAITH BALDWIN; "Return Engagement," by MARY HASTINGS BRADLEY and Part IV of LIBBIE BLOCK'S "Boardwalk", and many another evening's entertainment for these long, long winter nights!

DO WE GET A PRESIDENT OR A CONTEST?

The advocates of federal management of soldier-voting, as provided in the Green-Lucas bill, whether they know it or not, are inviting a protracted contest over the returns from the election this November.

The 20th amendment to the Constitution says flatly that "the terms of the President and Vice President shall end at noon on the 20th day of January." That means that if by Jan. 20 1945, the succession has not been determined this country. even tho in the midst of war, may be without a duly elected chief executive. The best that it could then hope for would be a temporary occupant of the White House, selected by congress if the members could agree on any one. There would ensue a contest that surely would be embittered and divisive.

A President is elected by the states which, in a manner provided by their legislatures, select electors for that purpose. Congress may determine the day when the electors shall be chosen and the day when they meet to cast their vote. That is all.

The electors receive their certificates of election from the state canvassing or returning boards. The electors meet in their respective states, cast their ballots, certify and seal them, and send them to the president of the United States senate. "The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and the house of representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted." Counted by whom? The procedure seems simple, but that question nearly disrupted the nation in 1876.

The country then was still in the bitter aftermath of the Civil war. Federal troops remained in the south. There were northerners in state offices in southern capitals. Conservative men in both sections, alarmed by new dangers, sought peace and reunion for the safety of the Republic, its territorial Union having been reaffirmed on the battlefields. The morning after the election Tilden, the New York Democrat, seemed to have, beyond any dispute, 184 electoral votes, one short of a majority. The Republican chances of pulling a victory for Hayes out of defeat lay in California and Oregon, which appeared safe, and in South Carolina, Florida, and Louisiana, where there were troops and northern officials. With these five states, Hayes would have 185 votes, just enough.

The extraordinary conditions in the three southern states permitted desperate partisan practices in the canvass of the returns for electors. A conflict of authority in due time presented the president of the United States senate with two certified sets of returns from each of the three southern states, and, unexpectedly, also from Oregon. In these returns lay the election. The president of the senate was a Republican. He was to open the ballots. If he also was to count them, Hayes was elected. If a joint convention of both houses counted them, Tilden was elected. If the two houses acted separately they were deadlocked and there was no election.

Fortunately for the country, which was near a breakdown in its constitutional processes, the new President was not to be inaugurated until March 4. The electors had met on Dec. 6. There was time to do something extraordinary and, fortunately, also there were men seeking compromise to avert disaster. The compromise was the appointment, by act of congress, of an electoral commission to count the ballots which entailed arbitrary decisions. A Republican had the deciding voice on the commission. The Hayes electors were accepted and the country accepted the decision.

The worried people who had seen the country thru this experience, which gave the chief magistrate a successor just as one tenure expired and another administration must be ushered in to preserve the unquestioned continuity of government, felt that they had survived a moment of history only a little less perilous than the one of war. The danger had arisen from conflicting and questionable authority in making the returns on the vote for electors.

In the 1944 election, as in all others, the certificates of the electors, their warrant for the casting of the vote for President, must come from the states. If a federal voting commission with jurisdiction over the ballots cast by men in uniform should certify votes which some state election boards would not accept because they had not been cast in the manner provided by the states, we might again have the contesting blocks of votes which would break the succession.

But this time the difficulties would be greater than they were in '76. Under the 20th amendment, congress convenes on Jan. 3. A few days must elapse until congress is ready to do business. By Jan. 20 the new President must have been declared elected if the succession is to be continuous. The time is short and altogether insufficient to settle a contest.

In these circumstances, if in no others, lies the absolute necessity for leaving the voting on the Presidency in the hands of the states, where the Constitution put it. All that is required of the federal government is its mail service, operating as required thru the army and navy. The states, charged with the duty of choosing the electors, from their own citizens by their own citizens, are competent to make all other arrangements needed. A federal election commission cannot be given authority to poll the soldier vote on Presidential electors. If it did so, any state might refuse to accept votes taken outside its jurisdiction. Even if there were no taint of fraud, some states might refuse to coöperate with such an irregularity. Certain of the southern states have said they will not tolerate such an infringement.

In a close election the partisan excitement would be high and the issue between the federal commission and some of the states might become as acute as it did in 1876. If the federal commission were bound to have its way or if any partisan members of it were determined, there might again be presented to the president of the senate two certifications of electoral votes. That risk can't be taken. The persistence in the proposal can be explained only by the indifference of the proposers or, worse, by their bad faith and their designs against the honesty of the election. Persons who would create a confusion in this important election and possibly jeopardize the continuity of government raise serious reflections as to their motives.

The states already are taking measures to meet the situation and any state which does not is itself guilty of disfranchising the most deserving of its citizens. Very few states will care to warrant that reproach or its consequences.

BOSS HAGUE AND THE HUMANITARIANS.

Charles Edison, the Democratic governor of New Jersey, conducted a New Year's symposium the other day on his political foe, Boss Frank [I Am the Law] Hague of Jersey City, in which he remarked that Mr. Hague would have been a politically dead duck long ago if it had not been for the patronage with which President Roosevelt has seen fit to reward him.

Frank Hague is New Jersey's Democratic national committeeman. He was boss of the state of New Jersey until Gov. Edison came along, and still heads the Jersey City machine that delivers votes for the New Deal by bankrupting the community. He helped to elect Gov. Edison to office and once offered to back him for the Presidency if he would play ball, but the governor declined.

Gov. Edison says that Boss Hague has lost a good measure of his control. All he is living on now, the governor reports, is Washington patronage and he hasn't won a major victory since he helped put Mr. Roosevelt in office for the third term.

Typical of the rule of the Hague dynasty in New Jersey is the story Gov. Edison told to a senate subcommittee considering the nomination of Judge Thomas F. Meaney to the federal District court in that state.

Boss Hague induced a judge to resign from the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals so that the job could be given to Hague's son, Frank Jr., whom the governor called "a lawyer who had never practiced law," and a candidate with no qualifications except that he was the boss' son.

Then Hague induced Judge Meaney to resign from Common Pleas court in Hudson [Jersey City] county so that the first judge could be taken care of. Meaney, in turn, was rewarded with a job as counsel in a bankruptcy case.

When President Roosevelt wanted to secure the reëlection of Sen. William H. Smathers of New Jersey, a New Deal yes-man, Hague traded his support for the appointment of Meaney to the federal bench. The senate eventually confirmed the appointment, 39 to 20, following party lines.

Boss Hague gained his greatest notoriety in running union labor organizers out of Hudson county with his feudal army of police. He was particularly cruel to the organizers of the CIO unions. Nonetheless, the Communist Daily Worker, in an article by the state secretary of the New Jersey Communist party, indorsed Boss Hague only last summer and said that any one who thought the Boss was not a liberal was suffering from misconceptions.

So, under New Deal pressure, Boss Hague and the Communists lay in the same bed, with the blessing of Mr. Roosevelt and his patronage. These are the men who elected Mr. Roosevelt to the third term and on whom he is counting for a fourth term in November.

The President is spreading an international doctrine of sweetness and light, promising assorted freedoms for the people of the world and purchasing their confidence in his integrity and humanitarianism with lend-lease billions. While all this is going on, Boss Hague is administering those freedoms for Mr. Roosevelt in Hudson county, extorting funds from the tax-ridden citizens of Jersey City, and passing on the federal jobs Mr. Roosevelt assigns to him so that his political machine can be kept alive.

That is the way the New Deal works. The great humanitarian, Frank Hague, and his humanitarian friends, the Communists, are going to work together again this fall to see that the greatest humanitarian of them all, Mr. Roosevelt, wins a fourth term.

CORN CHAMPIONSHIP.

[Indianapolis News.]

Thirty years ago a Winchester trust company offered prizes to Randolph county farmers who produced the greatest yields of corn on five acre demonstration plots. From this initial effort the five acre corn growing contest developed and fully 25,000 Hoosier farmers have participated. Sponsorship of the competition was assumed by the Indiana Corn Growers association and Purdue university.

This year's winner, Robert I. Osborn, is only 17 years of age, but he has been a 4-H club member in Daviess county for some time and he knows the principles of corn production. He excelled the efforts of 1,796 other contestants this year when his plot averaged 170.2 bushels to the acre.

A year ago the championship went to Herman Barrett of Gibson county, who had an average yield of 181.6 bushels. Mr. Barrett also won in 1941 with an average of 190.1 bushels, believed to be the world's record.

In the early days of the five acre contest producing 100 bushels to the acre attracted considerable attention. Thru the use of hybrid seed, crop rotation, adequate and suitable fertilizer and other control methods, the contest has demonstrated repeatedly that 100 bushels is but little more than a fair average. The same technique may not be suitable for all corn growers in Indiana, altho it shows what they could do if necessity demanded an enormous increase in production.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 16.

1. In a rookery you should expect to see which one of these?
   Pastry Rabbits Dishes Birds.
2. Which one of these substances has the lowest flash point?
   Kerosene Alcohol Gasoline Turpentine.
3. The number of carats in pure gold is indicated by which figure?
   10 14 18 24.
4. Which one of these instruments is primarily linked with the weather man? Pedometer Barometer Hydrometer Micrometer.
5. An adz would normally be used by which one of these workers?
   Chef Artist Druggist Carpenter.
6. You are to associate the figures listed in the left hand column below with the words to which they pertain. You are entitled to one point for each correct matching.
   [a] 11 [v] Gold rush
   [b] 13 [w] Crap game
   [c] 22 [x] Red Grange
   [d] 49 [y] Jinx
   [e] 77 [z] Target practice

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

CHANNEL CROSSING.

When the Anglo-American transports move across the English channel in the dark of the moon toward unknown beaches on the continental shore line, they will be adding a new chapter to a story that began with Julius Caesar about 2,000 years ago. Thru the centuries troops have been moving across that stretch of water, one way or the other, from the island to the mainland or vice versa; and if the impending invasion is to mark the end of all that, as the utopians hope, it may be interesting to glance at the First Crossing.

Caesar wrote an account of his island-hopping expedition which is exciting and full of military details that have an almost modern tone; and many generations of high school Latin students have groaned over it. He took two legions; he found the Britons, who had been tipped off by their Gallic neighbors, in arms on the cliffs of Dover; he had landing trouble and was plagued by a secret weapon—the war chariot. After some hard fighting, in which he claimed victories, he had to call it off. The First Crossing was a failure.

A year later, with five legions and 2,000 horsemen, Caesar tried it again, with considerable success. [See his "Gallic Wars," Book V.] But constant fighting with natives who dyed themselves blue and drove war chariots like mad wore down his army, and he withdrew again. The Second Crossing was not a conquest.

The Britons enjoyed their isolation for 100 years, and no doubt boasted of expelling the invader. Then the Roman emperor Claudius, a queer character, thought that he had to do something globalonial to build up his popularity. In A. D. 43 he sent a general named Aulus Plautius into Britain, and when he got word that the invasion was making headway, he went to the front himself, with reënforcements. He took some war elephants, 12 camels, and a detachment of African spearmen to give a cosmopolitan air to the show. This time the Romans stayed there for about 350 years.

The Third Crossing put Britain into European history for keeps. Since then the troopships, moving one way or the other across the English channel, have been a familiar spectacle on the screen of destiny.

BOOK MAGIC.

When youth has lost its zest and life seems bare,
My books remain to speed a laggard day.
I shut my eyes to toil and soar away
On fancy's wings, beyond the bounds of care.
Sweet Lorna Doone beguiles me from despair;
Bold Ivanhoe renews my aging blood;
With Francis Drake I sweep the ocean flood
In barks romantic, and the fresh sea air
Brings back to me the days that I had lost—
Or thought that I had lost. Dear, friendly books,
The gift of Cadmus to enduring men,
Forsake us not, but keep within our ken
The realm of dreams. Within your leafy nooks
May we live on, untouched by cold or frost.

Country School Days 50 Years Ago.

Not long since I visited the old schoolhouse site. Only a pile of rubbish marked the spot. Around the school were oak and hickory trees. The first frost would produce a harvest of nuts.

The teacher got $25 per month and "boarded 'round." One of my Hoosier schoolmasters was an ex-professional baseball pitcher. Fifth grade was the top. Sometimes the teacher would hear a class read while the arithmetic class put their problems on the board. During "recess" we played one old cat, crack-the-whip, and pom-pom-pullaway. Last day recitations and spell down contests were releases from the daily grind of classes.

The room was heated by a stove, with sheet iron shields on three sides. This helped to deflect the heat, but the occupants near the stove dehydrated while the pupils at the far end of the room wore sweaters. McGuffey's readers were specified. We practiced penmanship by use of copybook. The mottoes were taken from Franklin's famous sayings. In one corner of the room was the water pail with a large sized dipper.

After the corn was husked the "big boys" came to school. They left in the spring in time for plowing. During the coldest weather some of the big boys looked at their traps before they came to school. If a skunk happened to be their victim, the trapper was sometimes asked to leave.

MOLDS ARE UNWELCOME GUESTS.

LOWLY molds, the bane of the bread box, may be transformed into lifesaving agents. Penicillin is an example of a beneficial product and, sooner than we realize, chemical laboratories will be able to prepare this useful remedy.

But we must not overlook the fact that many types of fungi and yeasts may attack our tissues when resistance is low. The body must combat constantly the possible inroads of vicious invaders which can grow on the epidermis, within the airways, or deep in the throat.

One of the most favored sites is the ear canal. Fortunately, infection in this area is rarely serious, altho now and then a raw lesion will become contaminated with pus producing organisms. Then it is that we have a double-barreled malady to fight—the mold and the microbes.

The first rule in exterminating these threadlike plants is cleanliness. They cannot flourish if the cuticle refuses to offer a lurking place. But the introduction of a finger, hairpin, or paper clip into the ear for the purpose of removing wax may actually sow one of these forms, whereupon a long siege is in prospect.

The reason we dry these spaces thoroly is to avoid softening of the outer cells. Shedding skin, if damp, will furnish food for the parasites. If the ear channel is oozing from a moist surface, the chances are that a mold is present. Home treatment is not advised. It may only extend the disorder. With good light and proper equipment, the physician can visualize the parts, cleanse them, and apply corrective chemicals. Occasionally such conditions are stubborn and several visits to the doctor's office will be necessary to secure relief. If neglected, painful furuncles [boils] may appear.

Not a few cases of irritated nostrils come from this source. Weeping is followed by the formation of crusts. When washed away, the surface will resemble a tiny ulcer. Here the application of a dilute solution of sodium hyposulfite, a teaspoonful of the crystals to one pint of water, will be of value. If these forms enter the nose they may later reach the sinuses. In such circumstances, the discharge has a foul, sickening odor. Then it is that intensive treatment with irrigation of the bony chambers will be in order.

We can well understand why these microscopic plants must be eradicated without delay. Extension to the throat, even the lungs, is a possibility. In fact, many a severe bout will involve the region of the tonsils, base of the tongue, and the lining of the oral cavity. This emphasizes again the importance of good hygiene. Much comfort can be obtained from the use of a mild antiseptic mouth wash, altho vigorous measures should be adopted if fever develops.

Obviously, the thing to do is to avoid these outlaws, rather than be obliged to vanquish them once they have become well established. Sodium perborate makes an excellent cleanser, while thymol and sodium benzoate will destroy fungi. These two latter preparations may be relied upon to handle lesions of the gums and adjacent tissues. When needed, the family medical adviser can prescribe them for internal use.

EYE HYGIENE.

H. S. writes: Can eye disease be cured by diet and exercise?

REPLY.

The integrity of the organs of vision depends upon good nutrition and circulation. If the retina has been injured by kidney disease, careful treatment of that malady may prevent further damage. Keep well and you will have good optics.

SHOWS EMOTION.

M. S. writes: What can be done to overcome crying when something sentimental is heard? This individual is healthy otherwise.

REPLY.

Weeping is not a sign of ill health—merely of sensitive emotions. This person reacts readily to episodes which touch the heart. He should not callous his nature.

THRU THE AIRWAYS.

J. A. writes: Is spinal meningitis contagious? If so, how?

REPLY.

Yes. Organisms lurking in the throat or the air passages may be spread by sneezing, coughing, etc. The "bugs" are likely to linger in these areas long after recovery. Hence antiseptic gargles are advised for convalescents.

SELDOM CALLED FOR.

Mrs. P. R. writes: If a child, at the age of 3, has flat feet, will orthopedic shoes be necessary?

REPLY.

Rarely, altho the condition may need to be watched. If the youngster walks and runs with ease there is no occasion for concern.

ANY OLD WAY.

B. J. M. writes: Is it all right to sleep on one's stomach?

REPLY.

Yes. Any position that brings comfort may be adopted.

Who saw the vision in his eyes,
Or knew they looked upon a prize,
And who was there to teach him how
A man upheld his patriot vow,
Young Nathan Hale disdained to look
And find this lesson in a book.
The faith of fathers by the score
Had swept them to a stormy shore,
And Nathan found an escalade
In every barrier that was laid for his defeat. The land was young
And songs of freedom yet unsung.
He had a country to defend;
No greater deed to comprehend—
And gave his life, as more have done,
Regretting that he had but one.

How to Age Fast.

We didn't believe it. All along we've been saying, coldly, "They don't talk like that. Show me one who does." All along we haven't found any one who did. Basic English, that's all right, and Esperanto might serve some purpose. But this extraordinary double talk that people tell you young boys and girls use, particularly when chasing an alligator or a cat on a jive floor, or maybe doing an alligator or a cat on a floor jive, or possibly being a jive on top of a cat, we thought people made it up, that it was just some smart boy's idea of confusing the public.

We now admit, with deep sorrow, that it must have been true all the time. A Chicago advertising firm has an office girl named Bobby. For Christmas the men and women in the office got together and gave her a $10 bill in a tiny gold slipper. Her note of appreciation follows:

"Dear Slick Chicks and Sad Sams:

"When I latched my lashes at your dime note, plus [jingle-jangle, to you], I felt like a bundle bunny, for my ticker beat out of this atmosphere. 'Super solid,' I says to me. 'Those good time Charlies are on the buttered side—plenty potent. I, Dracula's daughter, don't deserve the fleetfoot filled with green lettuce.' Believe me, I'll be holdin' hands for keeps with A. M. & Co.

"Sincerely,

"Bobbi.

"'God of speed.'

"P. S. If you want to be snowed again, because you didn't get the drift, skate on over, and I'll melt you."

"Snowed," "drift," and "melt" are underlined. Possibly this explanation will contribute to your understanding. It failed miserably here.

Vertical is Not Elite.

One of the more comforting scientific pronouncements to emanate from the war is the discovery that a slight stoop is beneficial. After years of telling us the dangers of dowagers' humps, curved spines, and the collegiate slump, science now says we should be round shouldered and should lean forward as we stand, with knees bent. We must also sway a little. All of this, including the latter, is to be done all the time, not just after three drinks.

Post-War Plan.

"There's just one thing I'm going to look for after the armistice," she was saying. "I'm going to look for a dark, recently vacated foxhole on some remote island, and I'm going to crawl right in. That solves my post-war problem."

The sign, "Wide Awake Cleaners," beamed its red neon way into the dusk. Inside the shop the woman clerk sat with her head resting on her arms, her eyes closed.

YALE MEN AND INDEPENDENCE.

West Cummington, Mass., Dec. 29.—President Seymour of Yale university recently made a strong indorsement of a theory that the war in Europe is considerably the fault of the United States. It is claimed we did not "coöperate." Actually we went further in coöperation than any one else, and we were faced with a European economic bloc including Britain, France, Belgium, and Italy which repudiated large debts to the United States.

The body of Yale men has always been intensely patriotic since before the days of Nathan Hale, and the independence of the United States as a sovereign power has always been dearest to their hearts. I contend that the sentiments of President Seymour are not based on facts, and that his opinion in the matter is dead wrong. Even if right, however, it does not seem fitting for the president of Yale university to broadcast it, and as a Yale man speaking for myself and I believe many others, I want to say that it agrees neither with my opinion nor my sentiment.

"CLASSICAL" MUSIC.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Most of us commonly make the mistake of calling good music classical music. Classical music represents just a segment of all good music. Haydn and Mozart were the chief classical composers. Beethoven, who followed them, was a romanticist, not a classicist, and his music is not classical, but we can call it the best.

In the classical period, roughly between 1750 and 1800, music was written which displays an absolute perfection of structure. This devotion to form distinguishes the classic period from the period following, or the romantic period, as represented by Beethoven and others.

NEW DEAL CONSERVATION.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—The Washington administration asks us to conserve rubber tires and we find them piled high in fenced-in areas and floating down the Chicago river toward New Orleans. Then we are asked to conserve on ordinary pins and we are informed that pins on F. D. R. buttons are used abroad to pin up baby diapers. Now we are asked to conserve on paper and paper is being used extensively by the administration without any thought of conserving.

SNOWED UNDER IN ACAPULCO.

ACAPULCO, Mexico, Dec. 23.—On Dec. 12 you published a letter of mine on Acapulco. I had no idea my article would create so much interest, for to date I have received over 150 letters.

I would appreciate if you would offer this as an explanation of why it is impossible for me to answer them.

BRENT ALFORD.

A REAL CELEBRATION.

Bridgeport, Ill., Jan. 3—I heard on the radio this morning that the nation is celebrating the second birthday of the OPA. Well if the OPA political leeches would like to hear some real celebrating, just let congress abolish OPA.

THE ENGLISH GET SOME RADIOS.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—In the Jan. 1 Voice of the People there was a letter by Jeanne Churchill about the British getting new radio sets. She told only half the story. The December, 1943, Wireless World, an English publication, quoted the president of the board of trade as saying, "a design had been agreed upon and deliveries of raw materials and components had been planned," and went on to quote C. O. Stanley [Pye, Ltd.], "by next March a matter of 250,000 standard sets would be distributed thru the usual channels at the rate of 5 per cent, per week."

It also stated that some 8,000 sets were recently imported from the United States under the lend-lease agreement. Somebody must plan to beam a lot of political speeches toward the British Isles.

LOUIS MANFREDI.

FIXING CAR LICENSE FEES.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—One way the Republican administration in Springfield can show the public its ability to function as a sane governing body is to change the present idiotic rating of auto state license fees by the bore diameter of the cylinders. This method was apparently started way back in the beginning of the model T era by those who, because of lack of information on that subject, considered it all right.

If power of the engine is to be used as a means for determining license fees, let us at least use the displacement of the engine for proper comparison of power. This would eliminate the present inequality of license fees between cars which vary in cylinder bore diameter, but actually develop the same power.

EDMUND JEDRZYKOWSKI.

FIGHTING ATHLETES.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—The stories about the fighting at Tarawa have been interesting, and I notice that many of the men are veterans of Guadalcanal. They have been in action for many months, and the reports say that they are not entitled to visit home.

Notre Dame and the Iowa Seahawks met last month, and Bus Mertes was playing his second year. Bruce Smith played with Great Lakes last year, and he was on a California team this year. The men, themselves, are not to blame as they must follow orders.

FRANK WARD.

"73 AND 27."

Chicago, Jan. 3.—The President has spent much valuable time which belongs to the nation in finding a new slogan for the New Deal party in 1944. It seems that he has completely overlooked one which should have come to his mind among the very first. Why not adopt "73 and 27"? It is short and the people would soon learn the meaning of it.

RED NEWSPAPER GETS A BOUQUET FROM LA GUARDIA

Hatchet Is Buried After 10 Year Feud.

BY ROY GIBBONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia and the Daily Worker, official organ of the Communist party in the United States, were revealed today as having buried the hatchet after a 10 year feud. Occasion for the truce is the publication's 20th birthday, which was celebrated tonight in Madison Square Garden with an "anniversary mobilization," attended by Earl Browder, secretary of the party, and other Communist bigwigs.

La Guardia, according to a congratulatory message to the paper, apparently is willing to forget. Observers pointed out, that in the past the publication has called him "strikebreaker," "anti-labor," "war monger," "hoodwinker," "enemy of the unemployed," "whirling dervish," and "demagogue of the worst type."

The Worker printed the mayor's felicitations in black type in its 12 page anniversary edition, published yesterday as the culmination of a high pressure circulation drive that has been under way here for weeks.

Praises War Attitude.

La Guardia praised the Worker for its "win the war" attitude, a remark which recalled a recent suggestion by President Roosevelt that his administration henceforth be known as "the win the war" party.

The Communist publication, La Guardia wrote, "is hated by more people who never read it than any newspaper ever printed. It has all the faults of other daily newspapers and some of its own. It is the great champion of tolerance and the most intolerant in its policy, news and editorials.

"It sticks to its opinions, but seldom gives any one credit for sticking to theirs. It has the courage of its convictions and speaks forth."

Proof of Free Press.

In conclusion, La Guardia says: "Since June 22, 1941, it has adopted a courageous 'win the war' attitude which I believe has been very helpful. It seldom admits of a mistake and loves to be stubbornly wrong. With it all, tho, its existence and circulation, its editorials and policy, are all the living proof of a free press in a democracy, the like and the extent of which does not exist in many countries of the world."

The June 22 date referred to by the mayor was the day on which the Worker culminated a long series of attacks on La Guardia with a six column open letter charging him with being "pro-war and anti-labor" because of his work as director of the office of civilian defense.

It was while this attack was still on the newsstands that the Nazis invaded Russia. Immediately the Communists and the Daily Worker went into reverse and in launching a campaign for a second front adopted what La Guardia now terms "a courageous 'win the war 'attitude."

Drop Party Label—Browder.

At the rally Browder said the Communist party no longer would enter candidates in elections and reaffirmed an earlier announcement that his followers would drop "Communist" as a party label. Henceforth, he said, the Communists would "take the line of issues and not of parties."

Browder said the Communists would coöperate with free enterprise in this country. He said "the American people are so ill-prepared for any deep-going change in the direction of socialism that post-war plans with such an aim" would tend to cause disunity.

BOWLES WRITES SHARP REBUKE TO LA GUARDIA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 [Special].—Chester Bowles, price administrator, tonight sharply admonished Mayor Fiorella La Guardia for his Sunday radio tirade against the OPA and attributed the attack to "ignorance and personal bias."

In a long letter to the mayor, in which he advised La Guardia to "aim your harpoons at a real target," Bowles brought into the open a smoldering feud between them dating back several months to a time when he refused to appoint a regional OPA administrator suggested by the New York official.

"I have not taken, nor will I ever take, political dictation from any one under any circumstances," Bowles wrote after answering the mayor's criticism point by point.

'Gypsy,' 8, Goes Back Home with His Mother

Eight year old Bobby Polo, who spent Sunday trudging around the northwest side streets looking for his home, was claimed at the Hudson avenue police station yesterday by his mother, Mrs. Marie Polo, 32 years old, who gave her address as 1613 Dayton street. Bobby told policemen he was a gypsy, that he had come from Cleveland to Chicago with his family two weeks ago.

Joseph McWilliams (left) with his attorney, Maximillian J. St. George, after surrendering to U. S. marshal yesterday.

KORMAN TO TELL WAR EXPERIENCE AT TWO MEETINGS

Seymour Korman, Chicago Tribune war correspondent, will describe his experiences in the European war theater before the Chicago Rabbinical association at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Covenant club, and at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening will be the principal speaker at South Shore Temple, 7215 Jeffery avenue. Korman returned to Chicago Dec. 17. His European coverage for THE TRIBUNE had included England, Tunisia, Sicily, and Italy. Allied forces had just succeeded in digging a firm toehold on the Italian peninsula when Korman came home on leave.

JOE M'WILLIAMS TO CALL F. D. R.'S AID AS WITNESS

Joseph E. McWilliams, head of the Christian Mobilizers, asserted yesterday he would call as his first witness Judge Samuel Rosenman, one of President Roosevelt's closest advisers, if he is obliged to stand trial and prove his innocence of a charge that he conspired to establish a Hitler form of government in the United States.

McWilliams, one of 30 persons indicted at Washington, D. C., on this charge, surrendered at the United States courthouse yesterday morning on a bench warrant from the capitol requiring his removal to a court in that jurisdiction. He scoffed a little after United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker read a copy of the indictment.

Pleads Not Guilty.

"Are you guilty or not guilty?" Walker asked.

"I'm not guilty," McWilliams replied emphatically.

After his attorney, Maximillian J. St. George, had furnished $2,000 bail for him and said his client would not fight removal, McWilliams issued a statement, which read in part:

"If I am ever tried on this indictment, I will call as my first witness one of the five most powerful men in the world. His address has been for 11 years the White House, Washington, D. C. His name is Judge Samuel Rosenman."

Judge Rosenman, described in Washington circles as a member of the "White House palace guard," is a former justice of the New York Supreme court. Closely associated with the President since 1928, Rosenman was appointed to the bench in 1932 after Mr. Roosevelt had been elected New York governor.

Made Full Time Adviser.

He quit last September when President Roosevelt, who credited him with originating many of the New Deal government reorganization moves, made him a full time adviser.

McWilliams said that until the trial he would not disclose the nature of the testimony or evidence he hoped to elicit from the White House palace guard. In the remainder of his statement McWilliams charged this country is now entering "the jail stage" of "totalitarian politics, which first uses smear tactics and afterward concentration camps and firing squads to destroy opposition."

"Ruthless Ruling Clique."

"If Americans allow 30 men and women to be railroaded into prison for their political views by a ruthless ruling clique, then they will allow 3 million to be destroyed in any manner necessary to end all oppositon to New Dealism, communism, atheism, internationalism, or the parentism," said McWilliams, neglecting to explain his meaning of the last.

"The only hope for freedom here in America," he concluded, "is that men and women will find the courage to take the offensive against that which is now in Washington, New York, and Hollywood."

High Court Rejects Plea of Pro-Jap Seditionists

William J. Connor, first assistant United States attorney, said yesterday that he had been informed that Mrs. Mittie Maude Lena Gordon and Seon Emanuel Jones, leaders of a Negro pro-Japanese cult, have been denied a rehearing by the United States Supreme court in their efforts to set aside a conviction on sedition charges in the federal District court in Chicago. The two, who persuaded followers to evade the draft law, are under sentence of two years in prison.

SEPARATE UNION FOR NEGRO RAIL PORTERS DENIED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—The Supreme court today stood pat on a decision that had been denounced as denying a group of Negroes the right to choose their own collective bargaining representatives and as leaving them in a state of "involuntary economic servitude."

The court's action applied specifically to 45 Negro railway station porters in St. Paul who, because of their race, were barred from membership in a railway brotherhood that at the same time claimed the right to represent them in labor negotiations.

The court refused to reconsider its decision of Dec. 6 sustaining a national mediation board ruling that the porters do not form a separate craft or class of employes and, under the railway labor act, do not have the right to select another union to speak for them.

Charge "Hopeless Plight."

The United Transport Service Employes union, contending that it had been chosen by the porters as their bargaining agent, sought reconsideration of the opinion. It asserted that the ruling left Negroes in a "hopeless plight" in the interstate railway labor field.

United Transport contended that the porters had been shunted aside as a "voiceless minority" in a craft in which they were not recognized. It charged that they had been forced to accept the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks as their representative altho they could not belong to the union or have any voice in its conduct.

Court Keeps Hands Off.

Without filing a written opinion, the Supreme court on Dec. 6 simply cited its previous ruling that federal courts should not interfere with mediation board action in union jurisdictional disputes.

United Transport asserted that such an interpretation of the law deprives the porters of "basic rights" and is unconstitutional because the railway labor act gives employes the right to organize and bargain collectively thru representatives of their own choosing.

The brotherhood based its claims on a 1921 collective bargaining contract with the St. Paul Union Depot company, which it said covered the red caps.

SYNTHETIC TIRE IS SATISFACTORY, ARMY REPORTS

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 10 (AP).—Two representatives of the United States army ordnance department today told the annual meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers that synthetic rubber tires used by the army have proved satisfactory.

Lt. Col. B. J. Lemon and Capt. J. J. Robson reported popular automotive size tires made of synthetic rubber gave 10,000 miles' wear under tougher conditions and higher speeds than encountered in civilian use.

Tires of medium size, the officers said, now give 10,000 to 18,000 miles of wear and no longer chip or crack. They said the difference in efficiency between natural and synthetic rubber tires "is closing."

Hit as Cab Runs Wild; Wins $19,000 Damages

A federal District court jury before Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday returned a verdict awarding damages of $19,000 to Frank Thompson, 52 years old, Akron, O., from the Yellow Cab company. Thompson, former engineer for the Goodrich Tire and Rubber company, suffered brain injuries Aug. 30, 1942, when a cab with a faulty steering gear became unmanageable and hit him.

DELAY HEARING FOR 'FRIENDLY' WAC'S OFFICER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Lt. Virginia Wight, attractive redhaired officer of the women's army corps who feared she was being railroaded out of the army because she associated with enlisted WACS rather than officers during her leisure hours, today won a week's delay from an army reclassification board. Formal hearing in her case was set over until next Monday by the board.

Hires Own Attorney.

What went on during the hour long session before the board this morning remained an army secret. Both Lt. Wight, and the civilian attorney she hired to defend her after she had been denied the services of an army lawyer, were under orders not to inform reporters what happened at the hearing.

Her attorney, James J. Laughlin, said he was told that if he "talked" he would be barred from further appearance in her behalf before the reclassification board. He said he was investigating the possibilities of seeking a federal court injunction to prevent the army from making him remain silent about the case.

Others Can't Speak for Her.

Laughlin said Lt. Wight, daughter of a Philadelphia school teacher, had been ordered to appear before the reclassification board after falling out with her superior officer, Capt. Evelyn Rothrock. He said Capt. Rothrock had ordered other WAC officers not to speak to Lt. Wight.

Laukhlin reported that Lt. Wright twice had asked the right to appear before an army court martial and face the charges Capt. Rothrock had raised against her but that both times the plea was denied.

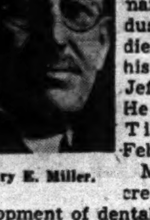
HENRY MILLER, HEAD OF WHEEL COMPANY, DIES

Developed Dental Drills of Synthetics.

Henry Edward Miller, president of the Chicago Wheel and Manufacturing company, 1101 Monroe street and one of the leaders in the grinding wheel manufacturing industry since 1890, died yesterday in his home at 6758 Jeffery avenue. He was born in Tinley Park, Feb. 22, 1863.



Henry E. Miller.

Mr. Miller was credited with the development of dental [drill] points made of synthetic abrasives. Earlier he had been employed as an expert mechanic by the Minnesota Thrashing Machine company. He was one of the founders of the Grinding Wheel Manufacturers' association.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Clara K. Mann, and a son, Arthur J. Miller. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 7659 Jeffery avenue.

SERVICES HELD IN NEW YORK FOR MRS. HOOVER

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—Funeral services attended by more than 1,000 persons were conducted for Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the former President, in St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal church here today. Burial will be in Palo Alto, Cal. Mrs. Hoover, who apparently had been in good health, died of a heart ailment Friday.

Mr. Hoover and his two sons, Herbert Jr. and Allan, sat with bowed heads during the services.

Among those attending were 200 Girl Scouts, representing the organization with which Mrs. Hoover was closely identified; Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to England; Hugh Gibson, former ambassador to Belgium; John D. Rockefeller Jr.; Thomas W. Lamont, financier; Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker, and Lawrence Ritchie.

PLAN SMETONA RITES THURSDAY IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., Jan. 10 (AP).—Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at St. John's Roman Catholic cathedral for Antanas Smetona, 69 years old, president in exile of Lithuania, who was suffocated yesterday when fire damaged the dwelling where he and his wife occupied a third floor apartment.

Coadjutor Bishop Edward F. Hoban of the Cleveland diocese will officiate. Officials of the little Baltic state scheduled to attend include Consul P. Canzeardis of Chicago. Lithuanian priests who will assist at the services include the Rev. Anicetas Linkus of St. Casimir's church, Chicago.

The Rev. K. Servaitis of the Catholic university, Washington, D. C., will deliver a sermon at Calvary cemetery.

EUGENE CLARK, CIVIC LEADER IN CICERO, IS DEAD

Services for Eugene Clark, 71 years old, widely known in Cicero for more than 40 years as a leader of various civic organizations and president of the Atlas Printing company at 11 East Hubbard street, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in Mary Queen of Heaven church. Mr. Clark died Sunday in his home at 2818 South 60th court, Cicero. He was first president of the Cicero village park district and later served six years as a member of the school board. His widow, Emma; three sons, C. Donald, Louis H., and Eugene L., and a daughter, Evelyn Clark Rhodes, survive.

OBITUARIES

Frederick J. Newey.

Frederick J. Newey, 71 years old, a member of the law firm of Newey, Mackenzie and Abrahamson, died of a heart attack yesterday in his office at 140 South Dearborn street. Mr. Newey, whose home was at 436 Lake avenue, Wilmette, was president of the board of the Chicago Congregational Union and also of the board of the First Congregational church of Chicago. He was graduated from Lake Forest college and was admitted to the bar in 1899. He is survived by his widow, Gertrude, and three daughters, Harriet of Wilmette, and Mrs. Thomas Vallantyne and Mrs. Henry J. Broba of Glencoe. Services will be held Friday at the First Congregational church.

Frederick W. Maynard.

Frederick W. Maynard, 74 years old, former secretary of the Chicago Architect's club, and a founder of the Producer's council, died yesterday in Oak Park hospital. GEORGE O. SMITH, FORMER POWER BOARD HEAD, DIES

Augusta, Me., Jan. 10 (AP).—Dr. George Otis Smith, chairman of the federal power commission in President Hoover's administration, died today after suffering a heart attack. He was 72 years old.

Smith also was chairman of the federal coal commission in 1922-'23.

A senate quarrel that led to a challenge of President Hoover's appointive authority revolved around Smith. The senate demanded his recall as chairman of the power commission, contending it possessed a right to recall confirmation of the appointment. Mr. Hoover's refusal to recall the appointment was confirmed by the Supreme court.

BACK OF YARDS CHILDREN EAT FREE LAST TIME

Three hundred back of the yards school children had lunch free in the Davis Square park fieldhouse yesterday, celebrating the return of the lunch project to that building following a week of debate as to whether the fieldhouse should be used for that purpose. Formerly 500 to 600 children ate there daily. It was expected more would appear today, but the charge will be five cents per lunch. The Rev. Stanley Adominas of Holy Cross church, 46th and Wood streets, and James Meegan, executive secretary of the Back of the Yards council, sponsor of the lunch program, and former director of the park, were present.

THAT PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATION OF YOURS

should include a complete physical check up in addition to venereal disease tests

If you are about to marry you naturally want to be certain that you are in good health. At the Public Health Institute you will not only be given the venereal disease tests required by law, but will receive a thorough medical examination that covers your heart, lungs and other vital organs.

Because the Public Health Institute was organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT," its charge for such a physical examination, including blood and other tests, is only $3.00. It has given more than 5,500,000 examinations and treatments since its inception in 1920.

Miss McNulty Is Engaged to Lt. Bouscaren

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE announcement which Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davis McNulty of Maple Park, Ill., are making today of the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Lt. Anthony Trawick Bouscaren links the McNulty and Bouscaren families for the third time. Five years ago this month Miss McNulty was maid of honor for her sister, Kathrine, when she was married to Lt. Bouscaren's brother, Henri. At that time Lt. Bouscaren served as best man. Later the Bouscaren brothers' sister, Evelyn, became the bride of the McNulty sisters' brother, J. Munroe McNulty. Capt. McNulty now is serving with the army, while his wife is a lieutenant in the WAC.

Lt. Bouscaren, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. G. Bouscaren of Winnetka, will arrive in Chicago Jan. 19 from Cherry Point, N. C., where he is training with the marine air forces. The small wedding will take place at 11 a. m. the following day in Old St. Mary's church at 9th and Wabash streets, with a breakfast following at the Racquet club.

Miss McNulty, a graduate of the Girls' Latin school, attended the Erskine school in Boston. She made her debut at a tea-dance at the Racquet club during the Christmas holidays of 1941. Her fiancé attended the North Shore Country day school and Canterbury and received his degree from Yale university in 1942. He will take his bride to Cherry Point to live.

Wedding News.

Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Kimball Salisbury of Lake Forest are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Joy, to Chief Petty Officer Raymond Morley of the naval reserve. The wedding took place Saturday in Washington, D. C., near Mr. Morley's post at Patuxent, Md.

The bride, a granddaughter of Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury of Lake Shore drive, attended the North Shore Country Day school. She would have been on next season's debutante list. She has a younger brother, Warren, who attends the Pomfret school. Mr. Morley's parents are Lt. and Mrs. William R. Morley of San Diego, Cal.

Later in the season Mrs. Salisbury hopes to join Lt. Comdr. Salisbury in St. Augustine, Fla., where he is stationed with the naval reserve.

Miss Marguerite Mersman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scudder Mersman, will be married today in San Francisco to Henry William Borntraeger, son of Mrs. Ernest Hillman of Fox Chapel, Pa., and of Carl Borntraeger of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Los Angeles, Cal. Mrs. Charles Peet, the former Miss Narcissa Thorne, will be among the bride's attendants. Miss Mersman's grandmother, Mrs. Otto L. Mersman, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns Jr., were unable to obtain transportation to go west for the ceremony. Mr. Borntraeger, an air lines pilot, and his bride will live in San Francisco, where the bride and her mother have been living. Mr. Mersman is American vice consul at Tahiti.

News of Births.

Somewhere in the South Pacific and somewhere in England Lt. W. Newton Burdick Jr. and Maj. Telfer MacArthur will be learning of the birth of their daughter and granddaughter Sunday at Passavant hospital, the first child of the former Dixie MacArthur and Lt. Burdick. The baby is being named Julia Todd after Lt. Burdick's grandmother. Young Mrs. Burdick and the baby are staying with Mrs. MacArthur for the duration. Lt. Burdick hopes to get leave from his duties with the navy in the Pacific next spring so that he can see his child.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. McNamara Jr. [Cornelia Strassburg] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter Sunday, also at Passavant hospital. The baby is being named for her mother and her great-aunt, Mrs. J. Bruce Kremer, in whose Washington, D. C., home the McNamaras were married, and also for her great-great-aunt, Miss Cornelia Ruppert of New York, who was the first of her family in this country to bear the name. Tiny Cornelia has 2 year old twin brothers, Robert III. and Norris.

Today's Events.

The speaker at the Woman's Athletic club today will be William Darden, who will show colored movies of "Alaska Today" at 11:30 a. m. At the guest table later at luncheon with Mr. Darden and his hostess, Mrs. Jay C. McCord, will be Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mrs. N. Ott, Mrs. Raleigh Warner, Mrs. Clarence Sills, Mrs. Mark W. Trude, and Mrs. Clinton Merrick.

Mrs. William Ragland, the former Edith Mason, will be the special guest at a meeting of the American Opera society at 3 p. m. today in the Lake Shore drive apartment of Mrs. Jones Jarratt. Edward Collins, pianist and composer, and Nancy Carr, soprano, will give the musical program. Some of those who will be present at the gathering, to which members may bring one guest each, are Mrs. Ashley M. Brand, Mrs. Ralph W. Cornelison, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Miss Carol Fox, Mrs. Arthur Wirtz, Mrs. Albert B. Wegener, and Mrs. Ralph T. Winston.

The executive board of the Oak Park and River Forest Infant Welfare society will assemble for its 28th annual meeting at 2 p. m. today in the Nineteenth Century

Cut This Out and Save It as a Practical Guide to Rationing

Here Are Recipes for Some of Items on Current Menus

Following are recipes for some of the dishes included on Mary Meade's ration budget menus this week:

Meat Balls with Raisin Sauce—Mix together 1 lb. hamburger, 1 medium onion, minced; 1 cup dry bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 beaten egg, and ½ cup milk. Shape into balls, brown in hot fat, pour raisin sauce over balls, cover, and let simmer 20 to 30 minutes. For raisin sauce saute ⅓ cup each chopped onion, green pepper, and celery, and a minced small clove of garlic in 3 tablespoons bacon drippings about 5 minutes. Add ½ cup seedless raisins, ⅓ cup catsup, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 cup water, and salt and pepper to taste.

Cornmeal Batter Pudding—Stir ⅓ cup yellow cornmeal slowly into 1 pint scalded milk in top of double boiler, stirring to prevent lumping. Add 1 teaspoon salt. Cook 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool slightly and add 4 well beaten eggs. Blend well and pour into pan in which pork roast has been cooked, leaving ¼ cup drippings and browned scraps of meat in the pan. Pour remaining hot drippings [¼ cup] over pudding. Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes. Cut into squares to serve.

Raisin Scones—Mix together 2 cups prepared biscuit mix, 3 tablespoons sugar, and ¾ cup seedless raisins. Stir in 1 well beaten egg mixed with ½ cup milk. Mix thoroly. Divide dough in 2 equal parts. Roll out each portion into a circle ½ inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut each circle into 6 triangles. Pierce tops with fork several times, brush with milk, and sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 450 degrees 10 to 12 minutes. [12 scones.]

Recipes for other dishes will appear with Mary Meade's daily menus.

Style Showing Recalls Charm of Gay South

BY REA SEEGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—The New York Dress institute's spring fashion show for the nation's fashion writers, started today with a nostalgic, true American theme in the Fox-Brownie collection. All the good things from New Orleans were recalled. The colors of Mardi Gras, colors reminiscent of gourmet delights, and the lovely patterns of the famous grill work gateways were delightfully captured by Brownie herself in her new spring and summer originals.

Jambalaya green, cleo pink, harlequin effects of two or more colors, and the famous tignon headdresses of the first Creole inhabitants made the fashion parade something to remember, and incidentally caused the susceptible experts to speculate over the possibility of a winter vacation down south. The tignon headdress theme was everywhere—in dangerously seductive headdresses, in tab effects on sleeves, yoke, trim, and belts. It was made of dazzling white pique, striped taffeta, printed materials, and gay lilting shades of silk shantung.

Suits, dresses, and ensembles all were flavored Mardi Gras. The grill work patterns, which in New Orleans look like black lace over white plaster, were copied in cutout rococo outlines for sleeve cuffs, peplums, and necklines. The colors made your mouth water—praline brown, southern belle blue, dauphine turquoise, harlequin pink, jambalaya green, and pompano gray.

The show started with a flourish and ended with a moonlight and magnolia theme of spider web black lace evening dresses [short length]. The very exposed necklines in the black lace tops were accented with cleo red, southern belle blue, and loved green velvet ribbon.

There were summer dresses of print and stripes, dark summer sheer woolens, and ensembles of long fitted woolen coat with silk print lining and matching dress. Jackets are still extremely short, many just long boleros. The silhouette is still straight and slim, but the Fox-Brownie clothes make you forget everything but romance, color, and beauty. They're ideal escape fashions of 1944.

Woman's Aid Will Hear Talk on Fabrics Today

Appearing in a series of home front information programs at the Chicago Woman's aid, 185 North Wabash avenue, Miss Blanchard Bartlett, expert on manufactured fabrics, will give a demonstration lecture for the members on "The Use and Care of Fabrics" at a noon breakfast today.

Engagement Is Announced

Miss Elizabeth Enslen Rees, whose engagement to Hugh MacLeish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish of Hubbard Woods, was announced at a tea Sunday in the Kansas City home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Compton Rees. Miss Rees is a graduate of the University of Kansas City. Mr. MacLeish, grandson of Mrs. Andrew MacLeish, is a graduate of Kenyon college.

Thru the Looking Glass

There's no better way to start your day than with a quick bath or shower, followed by an even quicker friction rub. It wakes you up marvelously. Better yet, for your friction rub after the scrubbing use a lotion that has a delightful, invigorating fragrance and a nice, champagnish feel against your skin.

One of our favorites for many years is getting a little scarce in these days of restricted alcohol, but there is some of it around, and we for one are truly grateful. This is a transparent, faintly amber tinted liquid with a most unusual perfume. It's a scent difficult to describe because it manages, by some miracle, to be just as attractive and appealing as it is invigorating. What it is exactly we don't know, but the strongest note in its depths is a definite suggestion of lemon, than which nothing is more refreshing. And it's a scent that clings.

This lotion, tho it contains some alcohol, also contains some oils, and it's as nice a skin conditioner as you could want. It's used after the bath or shower, while the skin is still moist. Then, after rubbing it in well all over the moist surface, with special attention to elbows and the legs below the knee, finish the drying job with a towel. Your skin feels invigorated and soothed, at one and the same time, and, of course, there isn't the faintest suggestion of stickiness.

The fragrance lingers. If you're the kind of woman who likes a clean scent on her person but dreads going to business drenched in perfume, this is your dish. It makes you feel fresh, and what scent clings to you is in perfect taste, both in character and in quantity. Your morning sense of freshness stays with you, too, during the most wearing of days.

Announcement of Betrothals Is Being Made

Mr. and Mrs. William Alfred Dundas of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria Jane, to Capt. Neal Seegert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Seegert of Wauwatosa, Wis. Miss Dundas attended the academy at Frances Shimer college and is a senior this year at New Trier High school. Capt. Seegert was graduated in 1941 from the University of Michigan, where he received honors in liberal arts and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He has served for 18 months in the European theater and at present is in pilot training, officers' grade, with the army air forces. The wedding is planned for June.

Mr. and Mrs. Erle F. Ross of Park Ridge announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Gaile, to Capt. Robert W. Tullis of the army air forces, son of Mrs. Eva B. Tullis of Lafayette, Ind. Capt. Tullis has been at home on leave after 18 months of duty as a fighter pilot in the South Pacific. He and Miss Ross were classmates at Purdue university.

The engagement of Miss Marcene Lagaard, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Maurice B. Lagaard of Evanston, to James Allison Buchanan Jr., was announced at a tea New Year's day. Miss Lagaard is a junior at Northwestern university. Her fiancé, son of Comdr. and Mrs. Buchanan of Washington, D. C., is a senior in the Northwestern technological institute.

From Mr. and Mrs. William Shipman Maulsby of New Rochelle, N. Y., comes word of the engagement of their daughter, Helen Rextrow, to Capt. Richard Kenneth Redfern of the army, son of Lee F. Redfern of Dixon, Ill., and the late Mrs. Red-Redfern. Miss Maulsby is a graduate of Jackson college. Her father formerly was on the faculty of the University of Iowa and head of the department of journalism at the University of Pittsburgh. Capt. Redfern, a graduate of the University of Illinois, has returned from service in Panama and is on duty at Fort Eustis, Va.

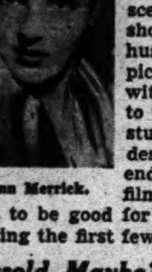
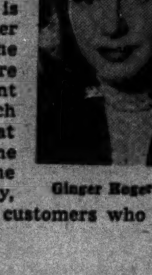
Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 10.—Columbia's about to make a picture titled "Calling All Stars," which will give all their young players a chance to show what they can do. Irving Berlin will produce the story, written by Monte Brice. The only one so far set in the cast is Lynn Merrick, who, I hear, does a nice job in "Nine Girls." The picture's supposed to go into production in the next two or three weeks, so that casting will go right ahead. In addition to contract players they'll also use specialty acts from cafes and radio shows all over the country. . . . Only criticism the reviewers gave "Tender Comrade" when it opened was for the last scene, in which Ginger Rogers is shown receiving the word that her husband has been killed. Altho the picture was already running here with that ending, the studio went to work and shot a new one, which studio experts believe adds that desired touch of perfection. The ending will be substituted in the film any minute, which, incidentally, ought to be good for a lot of repeat business from customers who saw it during the first few days.



Lynn Merrick.



Ginger Rogers.

Oversold, Maybe?

Diana Lewis and Ruth Terry have been pals for a long time. Diana didn't think Ruth was getting the breaks. She went out and started selling Ruth, so much so that Ruth was tested for the part opposite Frank Sinatra. While that was being made Ruth boasted so much about Diana that next day Diana was tested for the same part. But now it looks as tho Janis Carter will get it! . . . Lou Smith is in town after his tussle with pneumonia at Tucson, Ariz. . . . Phil Regan can make his own plans now that his Twentieth Century contract is ended. They did absolutely nothing for him. . . . Eddie Mannix, friend of the motion picture relief fund home, has given the home another bungalow. . . . Critics here were upset when department store people got a look at "Lady in the Dark" before they did.

This and That.

The war garden built of artificial vegetables for "Janie" cost more than $1,000. The cabbages cost $5 a head, but they'll be just as good 10 years from now, their maker says. . . . The Warner brothers got food and drink when they fed the high ranking officers and the brass hats of the town dinner at their studio Friday night. Gosh! You've got to have a lot of points to feed that many. . . . Elyse Knox got a present of a Great Dane from John Payne to keep the wolves away. She's named the dog Hamlet. Elyse had word from Tommy Harmon asking her to be in Ann Arbor, Mich., when he arrives there, but he didn't say when. . . . June Vincent is mighty happy that her fiance's eyesight is okay again and he'll be able to fly. . . . Nice to know that the Carole Lombard Liberty ship will be launched Jan. 15.

Well, I Swan!

When Ruth Selwyn arrived with John Warburton, full of good cheer, to visit her ex-husband, Edgar Selwyn, he couldn't linger, but gave her a bottle of champagne and asked why she didn't go visit her brother, Fred Wilcox, who was out in a bungalow in back. With her arms full of packages, she went to see Fred, but he was busy. She turned around to leave and walked right into the swimming pool, fur coat, bundles, and all. Johnny grabbed for her and came up with her fur coat. Finally they fished her out. She said, "Happy New Year, everybody!" and wandered on. Next morning she called up Edgar to ask if her bundles were still in the pool. They were!

Gave His All.

Sam Woods strode onto the set of "Address Unknown," in which Carl Esmond plays the heavy, and said he didn't like Carl's shirt. He said it ought to be a different style that would look more European. The wardrobe man replied that such a style wasn't made any more, but remarked, "That shirt you're wearing, Mr. Woods, would be what you want, I think." It ended up by Sam swapping shirts with Carl, which is the only known instance of a producer literally losing his shirt to an actor! . . . Rosemary Decamp, after playing George Gershwin's mother, went into "The Merry Monahans" as the wife of song and dance man Jack Oakie. She gets to cut all kinds of capers as his partner in a vaudeville team. It's about time Rosemary had some fun on the screen, after all those mothers she's played. . . . Ever since Director S. Sylvan Simon discovered that Bonita Granville was the oldest member of the "Song of the Open Road" cast, the whole company's been calling her "mother."

Step Right Up.

John Wengraf, who's now working in "Till We Meet Again," is still trying to find out who left that spaniel puppy in a basket on his doorstep Christmas morning. He's delighted with the gift, and wants to say thank you to the right party. . . . Jon Hall gave his Great Dane to Gary Cooper. . . . Roy William Neill, director and producer of the new "Sherlock Holmes in Canada," says there'll be only one girl in the cast, and she's just 14. In this one there'll be no love, no nuthin' except a flock of corpses. . . . Roland Drew, who's out of the army, has gone into war work. . . . Tex Ritter says that among "things you'll never hear in Hollywood" is an actress confessing, "I'm really a lot older than you think!"

'The Heat's On' (Film) Leaves the Critic Cold

"THE HEAT'S ON."

A Columbia picture, directed by Gregory Ratoff, featuring Mae West, William Gaxton, and Victor Moore, and presented at the Woods.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

KIND: So called comedy with music.

ACTING: Several capable players, headed by William Gaxton and Victor Moore, work valiantly to put Mae West over, but the lady is a flop. She acts like a zombie and is so camera conscious that it hurts. . . . And when she sings—well, let's not go into that.

DIRECTION: You be the judges.

DIALOG: But IS it?

STORY: Miss West plays a famous Broadway star being fought over by a pair of rival producers. . . . First one lands her—then the other—by most unethical means. The hullaballoo provides the sweet young niece of a crusading organization's official with her Big Chance. . . . Because, you see, the crusader is an innocent coot whose heart isn't in his raiding activities and who long has worshipped Miss West from afar. . . . Does she trap him!

STAGING, PHOTOGRAPHY, ETC: Okay.

MUSIC: Hazel Scott at two pianos is knockout!

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Again I must say—you be the judges.

See you soon.

Orchestra Hall Lease Is Discussed by Board of Christian Scientists

Ten members of the board of the 17th Church of Christ, Scientist, 32 West Randolph street, met last night to discuss the signing of a lease which would move them from their present home to Orchestra hall, 220 South Michigan avenue. Central church has been meeting in the hall for more than 25 years, the last several under a verbal agreement. Lisle Wainwright, chairman of the Scientist board, said the meet- was closed and that no statement would be forthcoming for several days.

Edward Ryerson, president of the Orchestral association, which owns Orchestra hall, said he knew of no controversy involved in the proposal, and that no decision had been reached. From the association's point of view, the difference would be a greater utilization of the hall, he said. He cited that Central church rents it 40 Sunday mornings out of a year, while the prospective new tenants would lease it 52 Sunday mornings, 52 Wednesday noons, and 40 Wednesday evenings, and have office space.

Dr. Harold Ruopp, pastor of Central church, said his group obviously is not pleased with the idea it may have to move, altho he can see the owners' viewpoint. Conversations with the parties involved have been "fine," he said. His board will meet at noon today to discuss its action.

On the Aisle

By Claudia Cassidy

Not every actress in search of a play can write herself one as Ruth Gordon did in "Over Twenty One," tho it must make her rivals wistful to hear the huzzahs ringing over Broadway at Miss Gordon's achievement, and to observe that she quite naturally kept all the best lines for herself. But almost every actress of note has in the archives of fairly recent memory a resounding success worth reviving, sometimes even a play actually clamored for by the public. Katharine Cornell, now marking time in "Lovers and Friends," has such a play in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which she would gladly revive if the Rudolf Besier estate could settle back taxes on the playwright's royalties. An attempt is being made now to do this by power of attorney from England, and if it works, Miss Cornell will be planning a tour divided between theaters and army camps, again in her most beloved role as the radiant invalid, Elizabeth Barrett, rescued from the dark tower of parental domination by the impetuous Robert Browning.

Extra-curricular pages from the Olsen and Johnson calendar: This afternoon they go to Gardiner General hospital to entertain wounded soldiers both in the recreation room and in the wards. Tomorrow they go with a party of 50 from "Sons O'Fun" to the matinee of "3 Is a Family." Thursday, starting at 10 a. m., they hold talent auditions at the Civic Opera house to select eight performers who will be tried out during the musical's third and last week in Chicago. One of the eight will be given a week's engagement with the show on tour, and any or all of them may hope to work in Olsen and Johnson pictures or in the next show, tentatively called "Sons O'Poppin."

Guiomar Novaës, the Brazilian pianist, has canceled her North American tour and will be replaced on the final concert of the Musical Arts Piano Series March 21. . . . The board of directors of the Woman's Symphony met yesterday to nominate officers and discuss arrangements for the orchestra's next concert. . . . Maria Kurenko will be soloist on a Russian Program when Fabien Sevitzky brings the Indianapolis Symphony to Orchestra hall Sunday afternoon, March 5. . . . Carla Bradley has the Ballet Repertory company back in rehearsal in preparation for a spring series of performances. . . . Add Yehudi Menuhin to the Orchestra hall calendar for a recital the afternoon of Feb. 6, and Jerome Kern's Scenario from "Show Boat" to the Oscar Levant concert at the Civic Opera house Jan. 23.

Channing Pollock has agreed to dramatize his story, "The Professor's Alibi," for his brother, John Pollock. The latter is here as coproducer of "3 Is a Family," and hopes to go to London immediately to supervise the English production. . . . Wayne Nunn has replaced Russell Collins in "Tomorrow the World." . . . "Good Night Ladies" says it has not sold the movie rights, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. . . . Joe [Kid] Sherman will start a series of jam sessions and swing concerts at Kimball hall Saturday afternoon.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Ted T., Chicago—My husband devised a neat way to protect a padlock from freezing and crusting with ice and snow. He salvaged an old rubber from the attic last winter and cut it so that it covers the padlock. Then he tacked it directly over the lock. The curved piece of rubber hangs down and doesn't need to be raised except when we use the lock.

Amy H., Ann Arbor, Mich.—To restore the original luster to old pearl handled knives and forks I use powdered pumice stone and water for the first cleaning and then I finish with powdered French chalk or rottenstone.

'The Clock Strikes Twelve'

By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.)

SYNOPSIS: James Paradine telephones to Elliot Wray to come to River House at once. Blueprints are missing. He says it is a family matter. He knows who took them.

INSTALMENT II.

THE FAMILY ASSEMBLES.

Grace Paradine came out of her room and stood hesitating for a moment with her hand on the knob of the door. It was a white hand, and it wore a fine ruby ring. The passage upon which she had emerged was lighted from end to end.

Standing thus under the bright ceiling light, she appeared a fine, ample figure of a woman—not handsome, but sufficiently imposing in a black dinner-gown and light fur wrap. There was a diamond star at her breast, and a pearl dog-collar with diamond slides about her throat. Her dark hair, which was scarcely touched with gray, swept in broad waves from a central parting to a graceful knot low down on her neck. Her hair and her hands had been her two beauties. In her late 50s they still served her well. For the rest, she had widely opened brown eyes and a full face with some effect of heaviness in repose. She was James Paradine's sister, and had kept his house for the 20 years which had elapsed since the death of his wife.

And then, with an almost startling suddenness, her face changed. The frown, the tension, the heaviness were gone. A wide and charming smile took their place. She turned quite around and moved to meet the girl who was coming out of a room at the end of the passage. The girl came on slowly—slowly and without an answering smile. She was tall and pretty, a graceful creature with dark hair curling on her neck, and the white skin and dark blue eyes which sometimes go with it. She was Grace Paradine's adopted daughter, Phyllida Wray, and she was 23 years old.

She came along the passage in a long white dress. She wore the string of pearls which had been her 21st birthday present. The pretty hands were ringless.

Grace Paradine put a hand on her shoulder and turned her round.

"You look very nice, my darling. But you're pale—"

"Am I, Aunt Grace?"

Miss Paradine had that tender, charming smile.

"Why, yes, my darling—you are." She laughed a little and let her hand slide caressingly down the bare arm to the scarlet fingertips.

She began to walk toward the head of the stairs, Miss Paradine beside her. Grace Paradine kept a hand on the heavy mahogany rail. She said:

"It was terrible, their keeping you on duty over Christmas."

"I volunteered."

Miss Paradine said nothing for a moment. Then she smiled.

"Well, my darling, it's lovely to have you now. How long can you stay?"

Phyllida said, "I don't know. I can have a week if I like, but I don't know that I want it. I think I'm better working." A note of rebellion came into her voice. "Don't look like that—I didn't say it to hurt you. It's just—well, you know——"

Miss Paradine had stopped too. Her hand tightened on the banister. Her voice was full of sympathy as she said:

"I know. You mustn't force yourself, but after all this is your home, Phyl. He can't spoil that or take it away from you. It was yours become he came, and it will be yours long after we have all forgotten him."

Phyllida moved abruptly. Something in the words had pricked her and pricked her sharply. She said in a strained undertone.

"I don't want to talk about it. Please, Aunt Grace."

Miss Paradine looked distressed.

"My darling, no, of course not. How stupid of me. We won't look back. It's a New Year for us both, and you're home for a holiday. Do you remember how we used to plan every moment of the holidays when you were a schoolgirl? They were never half long enough for all the things we wanted to do. Well, tonight of course it's all family—Frank and Irene, and Brenda. They've made up the quarrel and she's staying with them, but I don't know how long it will last. Lydia is with them too." She laughed a little. "Prettier than ever and just as provoking. Then there'll be Mark, and Dicky, and Albert Pearson."

They were descending the stairs again. Phyllida said in a relieved voice:

"What is Lydia doing?"

"I really don't know—she talks such a lot of nonsense. She's somebody's secretary, I believe. James never did like her very much. I've put her as far away from him as possible."

They crossed the hall and came into the drawing room, where two young men stood warming themselves before the fire. Both were Paradines, nephews of old James Paradine. They were cousins, not brothers, and they bore no resemblance either to one another or to their uncle. Mark, the elder, was 35—a tall, dark man with strong features and an air of gloom. Dicky, several years younger—slight, fair, with ingenuous blue eyes and an unfailing flow of good spirits.

Whilst Mark was shaking hands and greeting his aunt and Phyllida with the fewest possible words, Dicky was kissing them both and rattling off compliments, good wishes, and inquiries.

And then the door opened and Lane announced Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose, Miss Ambrose, and Miss Pennington. They all came in together—Frank Ambrose big and fair, with a pale, heavy face; his pretty dark wife Irene, with her air of having dressed in a hurry; his sister Brenda, mannish, with thick cropped hair as fair as his and the same very light blue eyes. One of the very worst quarrels which periodically shook the Ambrose household had followed upon a suggestion by Irene and her sister Lydia Pennington that Brenda's appearance would be very much improved if she would darken her almost white eyelashes.

Lydia's own lashes bore witness to her skill. Nature had made them as red as her hair, but she had no idea of sitting down under anything of that sort. Her gray-green eyes now sparkled jewel-bright between lashes as dark as Phyllida's own. For the rest, she was a little bit of a thing who always managed to look as if she were about to take part in a mannequin parade. She made talk wherever she went. Men dangled and pursued, but never quite caught up with her. Dick Paradine proposed to her every time she came to stay. She fluttered up to him now and deftly evaded a kiss.

"Hullo, Dicky! Hullo, Phyl! I believe you've grown. I must get higher heels on my shoes. You're such an immense family. Look at Mr. Paradine, and Aunt Grace, and Frank, and you—and Mark. Miles up in the air, all of you—so remote!"

Dicky had an arm about her.

"Not me, darling. You mayn't have noticed it, but I'm quite nice and near."

She leaned back, laughing up at him. Then, with a turn of her head which brought it against Dicky's shoulder, she was looking up at Mark.

"Happy New Year, darling."

LAY THAT Armful DOWN
Don't tackle your toilet bowl with cleansers, disinfectants and scrubbing. Sani-Flush does the whole job for you—makes bowls sparkle without fuss or muss. Use it at least twice a week. Removes ugly stains and the constantly forming film that holds toilet germs.
Don't confuse Sani-Flush with ordinary cleansers. It cleans chemically—the quick, easy, sanitary way. Removes a cause of toilet odors—cleans the hidden trap. Doesn't injure toilet connections. (See directions on can.) Sold everywhere—two handy sizes.
SAFE FOR SEPTIC TANKS
Don't scrub toilet bowls just because you fear trouble with your septic tank. Eminent research authorities have proven how easy and safe Sani-Flush is for toilet sanitation with septic tanks. Write for free copy of their scientific report. The Hygienic Products Co., Dept. R-3, Canton, O.

club, Oak Park. Annual reports will be given by the retiring officers, headed by Mrs. Harry B. Todd, and new officers will be installed. Tea will be served following a program of songs by Janis Porter [Mrs. Homer Lange].

The Princeton club of Chicago will combine its annual meeting with its regular monthly dinner tonight at the University club. Alumni who recently have come to Chicago are urged to attend the meeting, which will begin at 5:30.

On the Calendar.

The Orientals of the Art Institute will hold their annual meeting at 4:15 p. m. Friday in one of the galleries of the institute's oriental department. Mrs. Alice Higinbotham Patterson will pour, and guests will be greeted by Russell Tyson, chairman of the group, and the secretary, Charles Fabens Kelley.

Miss Sara Peace has invited recent graduates of Wellesley college and students who are at home for their winter vacations to tea at 4:30 p. m. today in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Peace of Bellevue place. The young women will talk over plans for the college's regional council Saturday in the Blackstone hotel, when Capt. Mildred McAfee, president of Wellesley and head of the WAVES, will be one of the speakers.

Allan A. Michie, traveling editor for Reader's Digest, will speak on "Air Power and the Coming Invasion" at 12:15 p. m. today before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, meeting for luncheon in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. At the speaker's table with Mr. Michie will be Frederic Woodward, president of the Council, and Mrs. Woodward; Max Karant, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Cowham, Albert Hopkins, G. Corson Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, and William F. Ogburn.

Leaders of Episcopal Service Agencies Will Hear Bishop Conkling

Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will speak at a dinner meeting of the directors of all local Episcopal social service agencies at 6:30 o'clock tonight at St. Chrysostom's church, 1424 North Dearborn parkway. The meeting has been called for reports on the work of each agency last year and for the discussion of extension of services. Social service agencies supported by the Episcopal church here are the Cathedral shelter, the Church Home for Aged Persons, the Church Mission of Help, Lawrence Hall for Boys, St. Mary's Home for Children, and Chase, Canterbury, Benton, and Randall houses.

Jumper Fashion

Plaid materials, teamed to plain colored blouses, are a happy choice for this jumper frock with softly tailored lines. Style No. 3455 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16, jumper, requires 1¾ yards of 54 inch material; blouse, 2 yards of 35 inch fabric.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The spring pattern book is 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with pattern.

Scientist to Give Talk for Oak Park Forum

James Shelby Thomas, scientist and former president of the Chrysler Institute of Engineering, will be presented at the weekly public forum next Sunday night at the First Congregational Church in Oak Park. He will lecture on "Science Remaking Your World."

10 Steps Listed for Combating Child's Temper

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

This is the last in our series of articles on why little children have temper tantrums and what to do about them.

Of course, we must remind ourselves almost daily that here is a formative, learning little being, full of strong natural urges and vital needs. While other training in the ways of civilization and an adult world inevitably goes on, the deep, even primitive, demands of a child's nature must be satisfied. If you are willing to do that simple yet big thing, "Love and learn," you will go far. You will begin to see what these needs are, and how they change from age to age. And you will be able to satisfy them. It makes life with your children infinitely more interesting.

In finishing, let us get back to our temper child. Glancing over our "a-b-c" causes, we can now see easily what our small son or daughter needs during the years when tantrums rear their not-so-pretty heads:

1. Lots of rest.
2. The right food.
3. An even, regular day without undue excitement.
4. An even management, not "cooing" one day and snapping the next.
5. Gentleness when tired.
6. Plenty of fresh air and exercise.
7. A rightful space and rightful freedom in his or her own home.
8. Right playthings for his age.
9. Loving interest and attention, because home and mother are still the hub of the universe, but not "spoiling," the center of the stage, and everlasting solicitude.
10. The winning of obedience as a habit by friendliness and firmness combined.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Falling Behind.

Sooner or later it's bound to befall you—abruptly you find yourself so far behind in your work the thought of trying to catch up throws you into a panic. Needless to say, this tardiness has been creeping up on you for days and weeks, but you haven't been aware of it until this very minute. You wish you were mid-Victorian enough to have a good cry. As a matter of fact, you could bawl.

If you run true to form, you come upon this staggering discovery of your humiliating discrepancies sometime between 3 and 4 a. m. when you can't do a thing about it except wrinkle your pillow, kick off the blankets and, in the blackness of night, demand of fate some eloquent explanation as to why you decided to be a business woman.

Pity the Conductor.

The morning after your great disillusionment you don't feel you are starting out for a day's work. No! You are beginning to serve out a sentence! Substantially nothing has changed since yesterday at 5 o'clock when the office was doing all right. But this morning your career is hard labor and you have a pack on your back.

On the suburban train you watch the conductor punch the tickets. "Poor man," you decide, "he must think he'll never get thru this train, and then he has to start all over again on the next train!" You're tempted to tell him your troubles.

As you walk into the office you hope there'll be a sympathetic ear, a bosom pal to whom you can put your $64 question: "Did you ever think you'll never get caught up?"

But every one is busy, falling behind, like you, if you only knew! The telephone rings; you bounce out of your chair; it's surely some one whose letter you should have answered.

The boss buzzes; you're startled as a young faun; beyond a doubt he is going to ask for a piece of correspondence you haven't filed and couldn't find without a full hour of futile fluttering. You slide in the door, and all he wants is for you to cancel his luncheon date.

You overhear several girls talking in the restroom. They have everything under control . . . everything is swell. Last night they had their hair done; tonight they are going out to dinner. O, wonderful! O, marvelous! O, nuts!

A Pat on the Back.

About 3 o'clock the boss buzzes and as you walk away from his desk with an armful of dictation, he says, unexpectedly: "You're a big help, Mary. We couldn't get along without you!" And he smiles in a reassuring way. Then you know what's the matter with you! You're discouraged!

Just a few words, but you take heart! Those unanswered letters—shucks—you can do a few extra each day and be caught up in no time . . . those files—you'll tackle them tomorrow morning bright and early. As for falling behind, with business the way it is now, maybe everybody's doing it, only you just don't happen to know!

You ride back home on the train and there's the conductor punching the tickets thru the long train and —possibly the difference is in you— but he looks sort of cheerful about it.

Another Talk in Series on Poland to Be Given

J. L. Stamirowski, director of the Polish information center here, will speak at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the Woodrow Wilson room at 84 East Randolph street on "Poland and Post-War Economic Rehabilitation of Central Europe." The talk will be the second by Mr. Stamirowski in a series on Poland and Polish affairs sponsored by the Council of Polish-American Professional Organizations.

Sacrifice Bid Forces Slam on Opponents

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

One of the delicate points in the field of sacrifice bidding is the danger of pushing the opponents into a slam that may be successful. For example:

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.
Rubber bridge.

♠ J 6 5 3
♥ K Q 8 5 4
♦ A 7 4

WEST
♠ K Q 9
♥ 10 9 6 3

EAST
♥ J 7 2
♦ K Q J 10 8 6
♣ K Q J 10

SOUTH
♣ 8 7 6 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	2 diamonds	2 spades	Pass
4 spades	5 diamonds	5 spades	Pass
Pass	6 diamonds	Pass	Pass
6 Spades	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

East felt that even a six diamond contract, not vulnerable, should be a save against the apparently sure game of the opponents, but he relied too much on the fact that they had thus far been satisfied to stop short of a slam. As a matter of fact the North-South hands, viewed as a unit, amply justified a slam contract, but it was not too easy to reach. Only after South had made a forcing pass to six diamonds, thus signifying his willingness to let North go on in spades, did North feel that a slam would be a sound investment.

The declarer took due notice of West's penalty double, and planned his play so that he would not be automatically defeated by a 3-0 break in the trump suit. The diamond ace won the first trick, and a heart was led to the blank ace. A club to the ace was followed by two top hearts. South discarded his losing diamond but carefully and deliberately ruffed the heart queen. A club ruff in dummy allowed South to ruff another heart. The next three plays were, club ruff, diamond ruff, club ruff. [At no time was declarer greatly fearful of an over-ruff by West, because that defender was marked with at least two trumps and if he used one in ruffing, he would be giving up his natural trump trick.] Now, with three trumps each in the South and West hands, declarer led and passed the trump jack. West won but had to return a trump from the K-9 up to declarer's A-10 tenace.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

One of the United Service organization's most active volunteers, Miss Marjorie S. Kimball, who represents the Travelers Aid society, one of six member agencies of U. S. O., announces a new training institute for volunteers to begin Jan. 19 and continue thru Feb. 14.

Miss Marjorie Kimball.

"The institute is designed to give volunteers an over-all picture of U. S. O., as well as a clearer understanding of its particular types of service," Miss Kimball said in connection with the issuance of 7,000 invitations to volunteers to participate in the institute.

There will be both afternoon and evening meetings, so that volunteers who serve in several capacities may attend the sessions in which they are primarily interested. All meetings will take place at the U. S. O. club at 131 South Wabash avenue.

All types of volunteers are invited to attend, including hosts, hostesses, canteen workers, junior hostesses, information booth assistants, sewing women, and camera club assistants.

Miss Kimball has been chairman of volunteers for Travelers Aid for two years. Other members of the institute committee are Mrs. Arthur M. Houser Jr., Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. Arthur M. Oppenheimer, Jewish Welfare board; Mrs. A. A. Harmet, Y. M. C. A.; Mrs. Major Keeler, Salvation Army, and Miss Minnie Fallon, National Catholic Community service.

The WAVES' new "walk-in" recruiting office opened yesterday morning at 138 South Michigan avenue, on the ground floor of the People's Gas Light and Coke company building. Lt. [j.g.] Miriam Ransburg, recruiting officer, has charge of the center, which will be officially dedicated at 11 a. m., Jan. 19, by Capt. Mildred McAfee, national director of the WAVES.

The new WAVES information office is equipped to process a recruit completely, except for her physical examination. All data on WAVES activities and other enlistment information are available to women who consult personnel in attendance.

Exhibits at the office include a Link trainer, in which potential WAVES and their escorts are invited to "ride," and a style show of uniforms.

The walk-in office also will be the center of nightly social activity for prospective WAVES. The personnel has announced that in approximately two weeks there will be a meeting and entertainment in the auditorium of the building for women who will be sent to Hunter college, New York City, a WAVES training center.

Capt. R. R. M. Emmet, commanding officer of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, has appointed a committee of officers' wives to select, from mail nominations, the woman who will be "navy mother of 1944."

Every mother in the United States who has a son or daughter in the navy, whether an officer or enlisted man or woman, is eligible for consideration. Nominations may be made by the mother herself, a friend, or any community navy mothers' club. Nominations should be addressed to "Navy Mother of 1944 Committee, Great Lakes, Ill." and be submitted by Feb. 7.

The winner will be invited to spend a week as the guest of the naval station, visit the various activities there, and make a report to mothers of naval personnel all over the nation.

Mrs. Irene Shafer of Glendale, Cal., was 1943 navy mother.

Aircraft Instrument School's Diplomas Go to 100 WAVES

Graduation ceremonies for 100 WAVES comprising the first class to complete its course at the Chicago School of Aircraft Instruments were held last night in the Berry Memorial church hall, 4750 North Leavitt street.

Capt. Joseph A. Briggs, chief of staff of the naval air technical training command, was the principal speaker. Lt. Kenneth L. Stuart, commanding officer of the school, presided.

In the 16 week course the WAVES learned to repair, overhaul, and assemble aircraft instruments of every type. Now they will be assigned to naval air stations thruout the United States.

OPEN TESTIMONY AGAINST HEALY IN GAMING QUIZ

Move to Postpone Trial of Captain Denied.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

What happened at 807 East 39th street on the afternoon of Sept. 20, 1943 became an issue yesterday in the civil service board's hearing of charges against Capt. Walter F. Healy, formerly in command of the Hyde Park police station. Healy is the first to be tried of the nine captains suspended as a result of the gambling investigation launched by the October grand jury.

Item No. 1 of the charges, which became Exhibit B-3 for the city, concerned the complaint about 807 East 39th street where a man named Ferguson was said to have been operating a handbook on the second floor. Capt. Michael Naughton of Commissioner Allman's office said the complaint was anonymous. It was received June 1, 1943, referred to Capt. Healy who on June 14 wrote Allman he had found no gambling at the address given but would watch the place in the future.

Pair Fined $10.

Again, in September, there was a complaint about Ferguson operating a handbook at this address, Naughton testified. The complaint came from the Chicago Crime commission. It was sent to Healy Sept. 18. Then, on Sept. 20, at 3:30 p. m., two men were arrested there by Healy's men and were subsequently fined $10 each for operating a gambling game.

But, it was shown, there was no entry on the station complaint book about either of the complaints.

Healy is charged with neglect of duty in his failure to have his subordinates make a record of the complaints. This is a violation of the rules, the prosecuting attorney explained, even tho Healy wrote a letter to Commissioner Allman acknowledging the receipt of the complaint and a report that he had acted upon it.

Firing a Chicago police captain, or even trying to fire him, is no simple matter, the commissioners and the opposing attorneys disclosed. Healy is being defended by Atty. Michael F. Ryan, who 20 years ago won a two year battle in defense of his father, a police captain whose ouster from the force was ordered by a politically hostile administration but whom the courts reinstated.

Asked Postponement.

Ryan's first move was a request for postponement of the trial because, he said, he had been denied access to city police records until last week, altho his client was suspended Dec. 2 on charges based upon those records. Ryan also made an issue of the right of Police Commissioner Allman and the civil service commission to keep Healy or any of the other captains under suspension more than 30 days.

The motions were denied by the trial board which consists of Commissioners Walter Gregory, James B. Cashin, and William F. Clarke. Then Earle Downes, assistant corporation counsel, was directed to present evidence in support of the charges.

Gregory, chairman of the civil service commission, is not an attorney. His fellow members are lawyers. But Gregory announced the decisions on the legal motions.

Downes made a short statement intended to advise the commission [and possibly the public] what the trial was about. The complaint filed by Commissioner Allman against the captain contains 70 pages of single spaced typewritten matter, and was said to contain nearly 300 items.

No copy of it was available for public inspection. Attorney Ryan said he was furnished one copy and had to spend $33 to have another typed so he and the captain wouldn't have to use the same one.

When Downes, in a statement to the commission, said there was a charge that a large number of gambling places were conducted openly in the Hyde Park district while Healy was in command of that district, Atty. Ryan objected strenuously. It then developed that this charge is not made in so many words but, that if all allegations are proved, it might appear that what Downes said was true.

McNeil Island Prisoners Building Ships for Navy

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 10 [Special].—A shipyard, which already has produced three naval auxiliary ships, has been established at the McNeil Island federal prison in Washington, Warden James A. Johnston of Alcatraz prison said today in a report to the war production board's first western prison industries and food conference. He said prisons in this country have produced about 95 million dollars worth of goods and food for war purposes.

REPORT MOTHER IS INDICTED FOR KILLING CHILD, 2

Mrs. Mildred Merkel, 22 years old, was reported yesterday to have been indicted by the county grand jury for manslaughter on a charge of having fatally beaten her 2 year old daughter, Claire, with a stove poker Jan. 2, in her home at 2133 North avenue.

Mrs. Merkel at first confessed she had struck the child to stop her whining, but later recanted. At an inquest, however, Mrs. Merkel confirmed testimony of a policeman who heard her first statement.

FORECASTING BALDNESS

This young man has a good head of hair and doesn't feel that he will ever be bald. Yet his scalp is laden with dandruff, itches constantly, and he loses a great deal of hair each day.

In a few years it will be too late, and his appearance will be permanently marred, a serious handicap to anyone. Don't let baldness come to you since scientific Warner treatment and proper care afterward can prevent it in most cases.

There is no charge or obligation for a private scalp examination and consultation.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.

Doctors Warn Folks Who Are Constipated!

→ HEADACHE
→ NO PEP
→ UPSET STOMACH with gas, bloating.

Constipation is often accompanied by many discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. And here's good advice!

For years a noted Ohio Physician, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully relieved scores of patients from constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists from coast to coast.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable are wonderful—not only to gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO pep up liver bile flow. No griping or weakening effects. Test TONIGHT to feel "tip-top" tomorrow. Follow label directions.

EARLY MORNING COURT SERVES NIGHT WORKERS

An early morning court, where witnesses and litigants may have their say without unnecessary loss of working time, has been established by Judge John A. Sbarbaro of the Superior court.

Sharply at 8 o'clock every morning, two hours before the usual opening time in other courts, his court is convened for business. Sometimes cases are waiting to be heard, and sometimes not, but the judge is there, and so are his clerk, William Kribley, and his bailiff, Walter Moffett.

Aids Night Workers.

Official hours in the Superior court and most other courts are from 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 2 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. Judge Sbarbaro's hours are from 8 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and 2 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., a net of two hours more each day.

Judge Sbarbaro said he has found that the normal court hours are inconvenient to many war workers, some of whom work nights and quit at 7 a. m. To get to court by 10 a. m. means three wasted hours in their particular case, he said, because the time is too short to sleep. But with an 8 a. m. court, they can come from work, he explained, losing little or no time.

Reduces Absenteeism.

Only a few lawyers have protested getting to court so early, and these have changed their minds after a few experiments. Lawyers generally approved it, among them Cassius M. Doty of the Chicago Bar association, and Benjamin B. Davis.

"Any move to make the courts more accessible in these war times when every hour is important is highly commendable," said Doty. Davis' view was that the early court will help reduce enforced absenteeism.

There is no official name for the new early morning tribunal, but attaches informally call it the "8 a. m. court."

BILLY, 4, TO GET ONLY BLOOD OF CIVILIAN DONORS

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 10 (AP).—Baylor hospital has not asked the Red Cross blood center for blood plasma for 4 year old Billy Meers and it appeared doubtful today that the institution would make any such request.

No official at the hospital would consent to be quoted, but one authority made clear Baylor's stand after Red Cross officials in Washington said they believed the fighting services might release some plasma for Billy from their depots in the Dallas region, if the hospital requested it.

Might Deprive a Soldier.

"We hate to think of asking for plasma some soldier might need on the battlefield," he said. "With the big invasion coming up, every bit of plasma the Red Cross can get will be needed. If we asked for plasma for Billy Meers, the case might set a precedent—civilians everywhere would be wanting to draw on the armed services' supply.

"Ours is a tragic problem—we are happy to have for Billy Meers all the blood plasma that civilians will contribute. But when it comes to the armed services, we must weigh the fact that Billy Meers is considered incurable and that the plasma given him in vain might some day have been given a soldier whose life could be saved."

Doomed Without Plasma.

Billy, thanks to plasma, is, to all appearances, a healthy normal boy. Without plasma he is doomed, the attending physician stated.

When his plight became known, offers of donations began pouring in from all over the nation; offers of blood from other nephritis sufferers, of plasma and of money.

Since September he has required 227 pints of blood plasma as treatment for chronic nephritis, considered an incurable kidney ailment. He fell 164 pints "in debt" to the plasma bank. Hospital officials said it was not fair to other possible patients to exhaust the supply on handsome little Billy, alone.

"MY ... isn't that a clever ad!"

We feel a little flattered when someone says that about an ad that we have prepared ... but we feel pretty disturbed, too.

Because an ad is supposed to make people say, "By golly, I'm going to buy one of those."

We like clever ads ... if somebody else writes 'em and pays for 'em. But for our customers, we're going to keep on doing ads that make people want to buy. If they can be clever, too, all well and good ... but first they must sell.

You can't write ads that sell unless you have facts. Not just any old facts ... but facts about a client's wares, about the people who buy them, about his sales strategies, his competitors, his problems.

And so a trained, energetic group of people ... more than a hundred of them, all over the nation ... dig out the facts we need.

Our customers' ads sell because we've based them on those facts.

Ads like that always sell ... and sometimes they're clever, too.

And behind each advertising campaign we write, stands a merchandising and selling plan ... geared to the advertising ... fitted to a market ... built on facts ... motivated by our conviction that all sales factors ... advertising, merchandising, promotion, distribution ... must move forward as a single selling force. Merchandise is never sold until it reaches a satisfied customer.

GOLDEN GLOVES EXAMINATIONS SET FOR JAN. 19

Boxers to Qualify for Sectionals.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The first physical examination for Golden Gloves boxers entering the sectional tournaments will be held in the Catholic Youth organization gymnasium, 31 East Congress street, on the evening of Jan. 19. This examination is primarily for members of the C. Y. O. whose entries have been sent to Louis Radzienda at the gymnasium.

Each of these boys will receive a letter to report that night. Each also will receive a parental consent card which must be signed by a parent or guardian, if the boxer is under 21 years of age, and brought to the examining physicians.

Two Other Examinations.

At least two other preliminary examination dates will be set, but the number of entries will determine the time. It is likely, however, that the final examination will be held Jan. 27. All examinations will be held at the C. Y. O. gymnasium. The hours will be from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

These examinations qualify Chicago's amateur boxers for the sectional tournaments. The south side trials will be held in St. Sabina gymnasium, 78th street and Racine avenue, on Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. The north side trials are scheduled on Feb. 2, 3, and 4 at the Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road.

Each amateur boxer entering Golden Gloves may select the section in which he wishes to compete. It is advisable, however, to enter the nearer section except in those cases where a coach wishes to divide his team entry to eliminate competition between his own boys.

City Finals Set for Feb. 14.

Both open and novice division boxers will compete at St. Sabina and Loyola university. These tournaments will decide the sectional champions and these winners then will fight for the Chicago city titles on Feb. 14 in the Marigold Gardens. Sixteen bouts will be held that night.

The 32 sectional champions will receive gold medals. The city champions will be awarded golden gloves and the eight open division winners will represent Chicago in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 28, 29, and March 1. Approximately 25 cities will send teams to Chicago for the 17th annual Tournament of Champions.

The blank printed daily in these columns may be used to enter the tournament. Information concerning the tournament will be mailed to each boy and he will then be assigned to one of the preliminary examinations.

City's Baseball Writers to Go to Bat Tonight

Baseball notables of varying degree, their friends, and some plain, everyday fans will assemble in the Morrison hotel's Casino Terrace this evening to see what is going to happen at the sixth annual diamond dinner sponsored by the Chicago baseball writers.

Altho an effort was made to limit the turnout to 400 guests [at $7.50 per plate], the advance sale already has passed that mark, and the chronic last minute arrivals haven't been heard from. Festivities will open at 6:30 p. m.

Nick Etten, the Yanks' first baseman, is expected to stooge for his team mate Bill Johnson in the acceptance of the J. Louis Comiskey memorial plaque which is awarded annually by the Chicago baseball writers to the most valuable freshman. Johnson is unable to attend because of being engaged in war work in Augusta, Ga.

Ring Schools Attract 400 Youngsters

BY FRANK MASTRO.

More than 400 boys, from 6 to 17 years old, last evening reported for boxing lessons at five coaches' schools in all sections of the city. The idea, sponsored by the Chicago Sports association and indorsed by Mayor Kelly, began at the Catholic Youth organization Saturday. Lesson No. 2 was held in the C. Y. O. gymnasium last night, while opening classes were being conducted at the Madison Athletic club, St. Andrews Community center, Boys' Brotherhood Republic, and Savoy A. C.

An enthusiastic group of 200 was on hand for the instruction in the St. Andrews center. About 85 answered the bell at the C. Y. O. classroom. Respective classes of 70, 30, and 20 appeared at the Savoy, Madison A. C., and Boys' Brotherhood.

Will Enter Golden Gloves.

The classes were split into two groups, one for those under 16, and the other for 16 and 17 year olds. Boys in the older bracket can enroll in the city Golden Gloves tournament opening Jan. 31 if they so desire. Most of the lads in the senior group signified their intention of entering the Golden Gloves event.

For the benefit of those prospective pupils who were unable to make the trip to the classrooms last evening, the members of the coaching staff will include in the next lessons all the principles which were highlighted last night and Saturday. Thus, at the next classes there will be reviewed the proper stance and footwork and the straight left to the face or body, as well as the address and introduction to the straight right to the jaw and body.

Ringside Class Today.

The initial class at the Ringside loop gymnasium, 73 West Randolph street, was postponed until today, 4 to 6 p. m.

Other classes will be continued today at Madison Athletic club, 4715 Madison street, 5 to 8 p. m.; tomorrow, C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street, 4 to 9 p. m.; Savoy A. C., 208 East 59th street, 6 to 9 p. m.; Boys' Brotherhood republic, 1530 South Hamlin avenue, 7 to 9 p. m.; Thursday, C. Y. O. Community center, 1154 West Vernon Park place, 4 to 6 p. m., and Holstein park, 2200 North Oakley boulevard, 7 to 9 p. m.

Must Be Under 18 Years.

The only requirements for joining the school are that pupils be under 18 years of age, come equipped with a pair of gym shoes and a pair of trunks, a desire to learn the A. B. C's of the sport, and regular attendance at the schools nearest their homes.

Coaches who conducted the classes last night follow: Jess Libonati and Hugh Devlin, Madison A. C.; Phil Collins, Harry Dublinsky, and Lou Radzienda, St. Andrews; Eddie Nichols, McCure Carson, Enoch McLain, Sunny Jim Williams, and Ralph Collier, Savoy; Dick Fitzpatrick, C. Y. O. center, and Louis Farmilant, Boys' Brotherhood.

DOW FIVE BEATS FORT SHERIDAN'S QUINTET, 56 TO 42

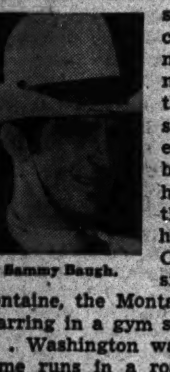
MAJOR-MINOR BASEBALL MEET SET FOR FEB. 5

K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, announced yesterday that the date for the Major-Minor leagues Post-war Planning committees... The session will be called at 11 a. m. in the Roosevelt hotel, New York City. The committees will consider methods of getting players returning from service and, among other things, the advisability of altering present minor league territorial rights so as to make for more compact circuits.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

[While Arch Ward is on vacation, the Wake will be prepared by members of the sports staff.]

IF you think major league baseball isn't big business, consider the home attendance figures of the New York Yankees. . . . In a 10 year stretch, starting with 1920, their gate totaled 10,528,088. . . . Starting with 1930 and including 1943, the Yanks paid off the visiting clubs on 12,583,991 Stadium patrons. . . . From 1910 thru 1919, a span in which the Yankees were just another ball club, they drew only 3,534,287 thru the turnstiles of the now-vanished Hilltop grounds. . . . Since 1920 their seasonal average has been 962,920 customers. . . . Military life is nothing new to Jimmy Bloodworth, now of the army, but formerly of the Senators and Tigers. . . . Jimmy served two and a half years in the engineering corps before taking up baseball. . . . Ponderous Peter Hay, head man at the Del Monte club these many years and a political heavyweight in near-by Monterey, Cal., has taken over as golf professional at Pebble Beach. . . . Richie Fontaine, the Montana lightweight who suffered a broken ankle while sparring in a gym several months ago, is ready for further ring action. . . . Washington was the only American league club which hit more home runs in a road park than it did at home. . . . The Senators connected 17 times in St. Louis' Sportsman's park and nine in Griffith stadium. . . . Incidentally, nine of those 17 St. Louis blasts were off the bat of Stan Spence. . . . George Washington's diary reveals that he lost one pound sixpence on a horse race in Annapolis, Md., in 1762. . . . Tab, as the horseplayers say, Jockey Bobby Permane for future reference. . . . Permane, now operating in Florida, booted home 52 winners at Camden, N. J.



Sammy Baugh.

Jimmy Bloodworth.

Sammy Baugh, who appears in sombrero and Texas boots wherever he goes, had never roped a calf until he bought a ranch only seven years back. . . . He progressed so rapidly, however, that now he is in great demand at amateur rodeos. . . . Steve Ellis, the sports broadcaster, worked his way thru Miami [O.] university by managing boxers. . . . The owners of the Cleveland Rams, who decided 1943 would be a bad year for sports, regret now that they withdrew their entry from the National Football league. . . . To make it more emphatic, two of their stars—Dante Magnani and Jim Benton—were headline performers for the champion Bears. . . . The Rams' plans for 1944 are what they should have been for 1943—business, as usual. . . . Signs of the times: The ones over the $10 double windows at Florida race tracks. . . . Even when Joe Kahut, Oregon light heavyweight, has a hard fight coming up, he milks eight cows morning and evening daily on his farm.

Too Late.

One day you cast me from your heart,
It really wasn't fair—
And all you said was "We must part,
You've been a fool to care."

You went along your merry way,
While I shed tears like rain—
So when you smiled at me today,
You smiled at me in vain!

BOSTON TO BE REPRESENTED IN PRO HUDDLE

Football Meeting Will Open Tomorrow.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The post-season huddle that the National Football league officials were to hold on Dec. 20 and 21 will start at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Blackstone hotel with Commissioner Elmer Layden firmly holding the gavel.

Tho the usual draft and rules meeting features will be missing from this two day parley, many items of importance are likely to develop. The Boston club, which will be operated by Ted Collins, radio impresario, will be represented for the first time. The Boston emissary will be Bill Shea, a New York lawyer. Altho Boston can enter a team in the league next season, it is doubtful if the infant club will decide to operate, this being a difficult time to start from scratch and build an organization.

Other Applications Likely.

It is likely that franchise applications will be made by representatives from Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Buffalo. It is just as likely that the league will take no action on these requests, Layden and the club officials being agreed that expansion should wait until the war's end.

When the 1943 season ended, the Philadelphia-Pittsburgh merger automatically was dissolved and these teams apparently will operate as single units in 1944. Likewise, the Cleveland Rams, who were frozen for a year, are reported to be ready to return to the gridiron. This insures the league of returning to its 10 team setup and if Boston operates, there will be 11 teams and a headache or two for the schedule makers, who had enough trouble as it was with an eight team lineup last season. It took the eight teams until Dec. 19 to force a decision.

A review of the last season and discussion of plans for 1944 will occupy most of the attention of tomorrow and Thursday. At the annual business meeting in April the player draft and rules meeting will be held. Because of this, few coaches will participate in the current meeting.

Layden to Hear Protests.

George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, whose very presence always insures lively sessions, will be more boisterous than ever. Another noisy individual will be little Ralph Brizzolara, general manager of the Bears. Each was fined $500 by Layden for conduct detrimental to professional football at the Redskins-Bears championship game Dec. 26 in Wrigley field.

Mr. Marshall was discovered sitting on the Bears' bench just before the first half ended and a Keystone cop comedy scene ensued when emissaries of Brizzolara gave the Washington man the heave-ho. Subsequently Marshall and Brizzolara issued vitriolic statements and Layden stepped in with the two stiff fines, which both men are appealing.

Harry Thayer of the Philadelphia Eagles was the first out-of-town representative to arrive. Most of the other delegates are due today, including Marshall. Curly Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers will come in from California. The Giants will be represented by Tim and Jack Mara. Gus Dorais will be in from Detroit. Arch Wolfe will speak up for the Cardinals.

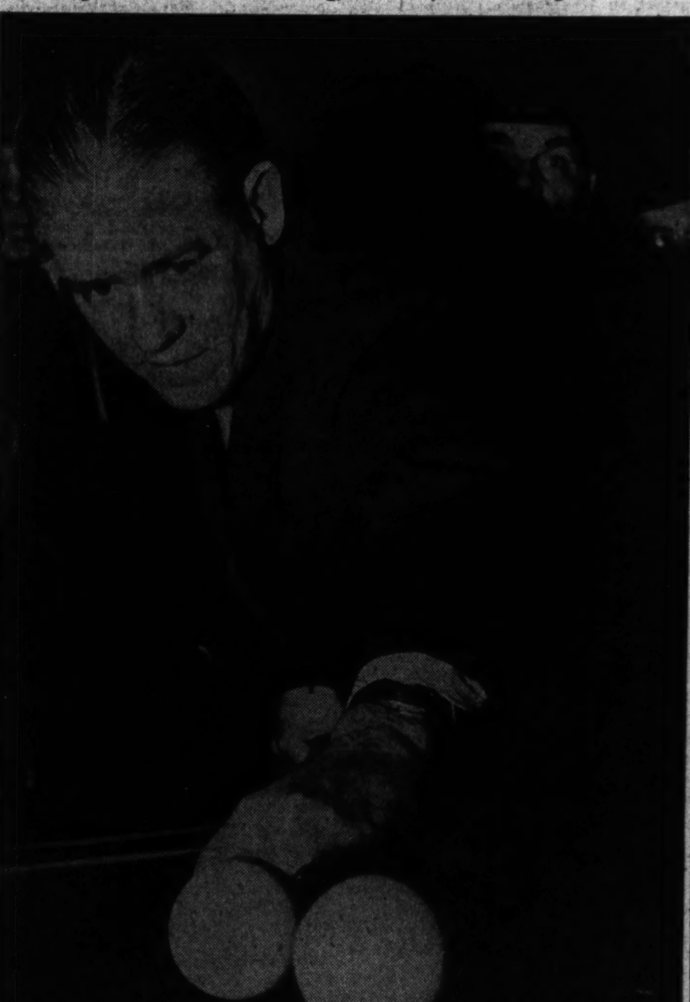
ARTISTS AT ANGLES

Willie Hoppe, world three-cushion billiard champion, who last night won the second Chicago block of his nontitle match with Welker Cochran in Bensinger's recreation, 131 South Wabash avenue. Hoppe had a high run of nine in winning, 54 to 49, in 45 innings.



Welker Cochran, former three-cushion champion, who defeated Hoppe in yesterday's afternoon match at Bensinger's, 50 to 46, in 46 innings. The two exponents of the angle game will play three matches daily in Chicago thru Saturday, after which they will continue their series in Detroit and conclude it in New York. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Hoppe Defeats Cochran After Losing Afternoon Cue Match

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

William Frederick Hoppe, the old maestro of billiards, last night put on a homecoming party for his Chicago public in the local phase of his traveling match against Welker Cochran, long one of Willie's ablest rivals. After losing the afternoon block to Welker, 50 to 46, in 46 innings, the 56 year old New York cue craftsman came thru with a typical rally that saw him erase a 10 point deficit and win the evening block, 54 to 49, in 45 innings. This gave him a cumulative total for the first day of the Chicago engagement of 100 points to Cochran's 99.

The Chicago section of the duel was scheduled for 800 points, with two 50 point blocks per day thru Saturday. Because of the enthusiasm attending yesterday's opening brace, however, the two have decided to play three blocks per diem, beginning today. They will start at 3, 6, and 9 p. m. in the snug, draped fourth floor corner of Bensinger's Recreation, 131 South Wabash avenue.

Hoppe Victor in Kansas City.

Hoppe had come into our town with a victory in the Kansas City side of the match, wherein he had won six of eight blocks with a total point rating of 400 to Welker's 342. Until Cochran defeated him yesterday, Willie hadn't yielded a block since the third one on the Kansas City table. The two men have held the world's three cushion championship, between them, seven times since 1933. Welker, the 47 year old Iowan, who now registers from San Francisco, won the title in 1933, 1935, and 1936, surrendering a share of the 1935 tenure to Hoppe in a challenge match. Willie then scored in 1940, 1941, and 1942, before the tournament was suspended for the duration. In that three year span the silver haired artist won 45 out of 47 matches, including one string of 33.

Last night, Hoppe appeared even more convincingly beaten than he was during the afternoon match. He went to the table in the 35th inning trailing by 10 points, 40 to 30. His old wizardry then returned and he ran six. He tacked a four on to that in the next frame, but Welker, as tenacious a competitor as billiards ever has seen, got four more thru the 39th and led, 44 to 40.

Willie Makes Nine More.

Willie then turned on a true Hoppe spurt, firing a superb nine in his half of the 39th. This was not only high for the day, but also tops for the match to date, he having scored a similar string in Kan-

HIS 278 BEATS JOHNNY BULLA BY 3 STROKES

Three Tie for Third at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 10 (AP).—Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Philadelphia today captured America's richest golf championship, the $12,500 Los Angeles Open with a 72 hole score of 278.

Finishing the last 18 hole round on the Wilshire Country club course with a blistering 66, McSpaden established a new low 72 hole score for the championship on this course. The best previously was the 281 in 1933 by Craig Wood.

Johnny Bulla of Chicago, the Los Angeles Open winner in 1941, finished in second place with 281. He took a par 71 for his final round after starting it in a 54 hole first place tie with Leonard Dodson of La Jolla, Cal. Dodson wound up in a tie at 283 with Craig Wood and Byron Nelson of Toledo.

Willie Hunter Finishes with 284.

Dodson played in a threesome with McSpaden and Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, and the pace was too fast for him. The veteran Willie Hunter of Santa Monica, Cal., finished with 284, followed by Dutra with 285.

McSpaden's five under par performance today was one of the two best rounds of the tournament. Sammy Byrd of Detroit also bagged a 66 in the first round.

McSpaden had six birdies and one bogey in fashioning his sensational card. His efficient putter never failed him and only an out of bounds shot on the 419 yard 12th hole, where he required a five, marred his shotmaking.

Cool under pressure all day, he sank a 20 foot putt on the seventh for a birdie two, but for the most part his approaches were laid right up to the cup.

McSpaden has won four of his last six tournaments, among them the All-American in Chicago. He picked up $4,375 in war bonds as first prize money today.

Byrd and Vines Tie.

Jimmy Hines of New York finished in a tie with Dutra at 285, one stroke ahead of Marvin Stahl, Los Angeles, and George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J.

Byrd tied at 287 with the former tennis star, Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Cal. Art Bell, San Francisco, had 288, and Harry Cooper, Minneapolis, tied at 289 with Willie Goggin of New York. Seventy-two hole scores follow:

SEAHAWKS ROUT SIMPSON, 63 TO 25; NINTH STRAIGHT

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 10 [Special].—The Iowa Seahawks, completely choking Simpson's offense, had little trouble scoring their ninth straight victory tonight, 63 to 25.

With Forwards Paul Murphy and Harry Wilcoxen leading the attack, the Seahawks took a 28 to 8 half time lead.

Broadway Hears Sgt. Ross May Get Discharge

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—Broadway heard tonight that Sgt. Barney Ross, former lightweight and welterweight champion of the world and hero of an epic incident in the fighting on Guadalcanal, might soon receive a medical discharge from the marine corps, but the tough little scrapper from Chicago's west side said with some heat, "I have heard nothing about it."

Barney seemed so upset over the report that his friends interpreted it to mean that the fighter had "heard of it," but had been warned by marine officers to say nothing about it until it became official. Barney merely said, "Whatever Uncle Sam asks of me, he'll get—with all I've got."

A victim of recurrent malaria, which drove him from the southwest Pacific fighting zone, Ross is a patient at the navy hospital in Brooklyn, but he merely goes there daily for treatment and lives at the Astor.

KING SETS PACE WITH 40 POINTS IN BIG 10 SCORING

Illinois' Patrick Is 2d to Michigan Star.

Tommy King, a swift sophomore forward who came to Michigan this year from Michigan State as a marine trainee after playing freshman ball for the Spartans, scored 40 points in his first two Big Ten basketball games last week to take the individual scoring lead in the Western conference.

King made his debut in Western conference competition by scoring nine baskets and six free throws for 24 points against Northwestern on Friday night and added seven field goals and a pair of free throws against Illinois on Saturday.

Three of the five top spots are occupied by Illini with Stan Patrick, the Chicago senior who transferred to Illinois from Santa Clara rating runner-up with 36. Dick Ives, the Iowa freshman forward from Diagonal, Ia., rests in third with 36, while Freshmen Howard Judson and Walton Kirk of the Illini rank fourth and fifth with 30 and 28, respectively. DE PAUL PLAYS GLENVIEW.

De Paul, the nation's No. 1 collegiate basketball team, will seek its 13th straight victory tonight at the Glenview Naval Air station against the team which held the Blue Demons to their lowest score of the season in a previous meeting.

The Flyers, losers only to De Paul, Great Lakes, and Camp Grant, lost, 44 to 36, when the two teams met earlier in the season. Since then, however, the Demons have gained momentum in their scoring, headed by the 239 point individual display of 6 foot 8¾ inch George Mikan.

LAWRENCE VS. GREAT LAKES.

The Great Lakes basketball squad meets Lawrence college at the naval training station tonight in the first of four games crowded into its busiest week of the season.

Lawrence, heavily fortified by V-12 trainees, will make it virtually an all-navy show. The only civilian on the Lawrence squad is Bruce Buchanan, freshman starting guard, who may be playing his last game before entering the service.

WARRIORS AT CAMP ELLIS.

Camp Grant, Ill., Jan. 10 [Special].—Camp Grant's basketball team, trying to improve upon its record of 10 straight victories, will hit the road tomorrow on a two game trip. Tomorrow night the Warriors will play Camp Ellis in Canton, Ill., and on Wednesday they will be in Moline, Ill., to engage Augustana college.

Camp Ellis has won seven of its eight games and expected to go up against Camp Grant undefeated until running afoul of Bowling Green university on a trip to Ohio last week.

LAZZERI SAYS HE'S BEEN FIRED BY WILKES-BARRE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP).—Tony Lazzeri, former New York Yankees' second baseman, who managed the Wilkes-Barre team in the Eastern Baseball league, wired F. X. Welsh, a Wilkes-Barre sports editor, today that he had been fired by the Barons' assistant manager, Mike McNally.

Fenwick High defeated Morton in a dual swimming meet yesterday, the juniors winning, 36 to 30, and the seniors, 42 to 24.

Simmons Beats Tommy James in Marigold Bout

Robert Simmons, 147, of Indianapolis won a 12 round unanimous decision over Tommy James, 147½, of Chicago last night in Marigold Gardens. Simmons outboxed his foe thruout the match, tho James was a dangerous puncher up to the last second of the fight. Tommy uncorked a right hand uppercut to stagger Simmons in the last minute of the final round. James suffered a cut over the left eye in the eighth round.

A crowd of 1,440 paid $2,466 gross to see the show.

Bill Parsons of Danville scored a technical knockout over Mike Edwards of Chicago in the sixth round of a scheduled six round match in the semi-windup. Edwards was down twice in the fifth and once in the sixth round. He appeared helpless and Referee Harry Mueller stopped the contest.

Willie Moon of Chicago scored a technical knockout in 1 minute and 55 seconds of the first round over Matt Powell of Detroit. Eddie [Kid] Carson and Vic Soyko of Milwaukee fought a four round draw.

Fort Custer boxers will meet a Savoy Athletic club team in eight bouts featuring an amateur show tonight in Savoy arena, 47th street and South Park way. Corp. Bob Charvat, Fort Custer heavyweight, is paired with John Bouquet, Savoy, and Pvt. Oscar Hadnott, Fort Custer middleweight, with Stanley Sheely, Savoy.

Wladyslaw Talun, 300 pound wrestler from Poland, will meet Ali Adali in the windup bout of Promoter Benny Reuben's mat show tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. The match is scheduled for the best two out of three falls with a one hour time limit. Other bouts will include those between Rudy Hoffman and Nick George, George Mack and Ben Cohen.

NORTH PARK FIVE WINS AS BARKER GETS 30 POINTS

3 Clubs File Entries for Skate Derbies

Team entries for the Silver Skates Derbies Saturday and Sunday from the Northwestern Skating club, the George F. Barrett Athletic club, and the Glen Ellyn A. A. A. were among those listed by the clerks yesterday preparatory to the preliminary races. Nearly a score of additional entries from parks and playgrounds also were received.

The entry lists will be completed tomorrow. Boys and girls under 16 years of age will skate in the qualifying races Saturday afternoon at Garfield park. These youngsters are registered in the boys' midget, juvenile, and junior Derbies, and the girls' junior Derby. They will report for their racing numbers between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m., and the first race on Saturday will start at 2 o'clock.

Other Trials Sunday.

Trials in the other Derbies will be held Sunday. These age classes are the boys' intermediate, men's senior, and girls' intermediate, and senior groups. These skaters will report between 10 a. m. and noon Sunday at Garfield park and the first preliminary will start at 1 o'clock.

Barbara Meyer of the Glen Ellyn team, who is undefeated this year in the juvenile competition, will skate in the girls' junior derby since there is no lower age class. Other outstanding Glen Ellyn contestants are Victor Olson, intermediate; Tom Tilden, juvenile, and Barney Meyer, midget class.

Big Columbus Park Entry.

Coach Albert Britton and Erwin Weiner, supervisor of Columbus park, have sent in one of the largest teams for the Derbies. The team is entered in all eight Derbies.

Other team entries received yesterday are:

Henry playground, Kershaw playground, Le Moyne playground, McCormick playground, Orr playground, Swift playground, Fiske playground, Waters playground, Commercial club playground, and Moore playground. Additional entries also were received from Peirce playground which apparently is determined to retain its silver trophy for the laregst number of contestants in the races.

Nagurski Opens Wrestling Comeback with Triumph

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10 (AP).—Bronko Nagurski, Chicago Bears' football player and former heavyweight wrestler, successfully opened his comeback campaign tonight by defeating Ken Fenelon of Dubuque, Ia., after 19 minutes of wrestling, before 2,000 fans.

Hawks to Close 4 Game Road Trip Thursday

New York, Jan. 10 [Special].—The Blackhawks, who have lost six games in a row, will wind up their four game road trip here Thursday night against the Rangers, the only team in the league they lead this season.

The Hawks will meet a highly fortified Rangers' squad Thursday, as Lester Patrick, the New York manager, has acquired a half dozen new players to strengthen the squad in the final six weeks of play. The six newcomers are Bucko McDonald, Bob Dill, and Rodger Leger, defense men, and Johnny Mahaffy, Fernand Gauthier, and Tony Demers.

Babe Pratt of Toronto accounted for six assists in three games last week and now threatens the league record for a season by a defense man. The record is 41 points made up of 12 goals and 29 assists in 1941-'42 by Tommy Anderson of the New York Americans. Pratt has made 10 goals and 23 assists for a point total of 33 and still has 23 games to play. Scoring leaders:

sas City. He won the 50 point block with a single in the 42d inning, then got the four points that made him the first player to score 100 points for the day.

If Willie played brilliantly in the closing frames of last night's argument, Welker did almost as well in the afternoon, altho neither man could better four for high run in the matinee session. Hoppe took a 14 to 6 advantage thru the first seven innings, but an epidemic of goose eggs developed on his side of the score sheet. Cochran kept working away until he tied the score at 18 to 18 with a run of three in the 16th inning. He took the lead in the 17th with a single and Hoppe never could overhaul him, falling behind by as much as 38 to 27 at one time. Willie's strong finish of 10 points in the last five innings enabled him to stay in the cumulative point race.

Marshall became the first member of the west section to win two contests in the infant season of the City league yesterday by whipping Medill, 63 to 37, in the most significant of the two senior basketball games played. In the other meeting, Crane gained its opening league triumph, dealing Tuley its first loss, 54 to 31.

Larry Schatzman sparked the Marshall attack with 10 points while the visiting Medill five depended upon Mell Hill and Mark Eggleston for 29. However, high scoring honors went to the supporting game when Center Marion Slaga of Crane found the range on his home court for eight baskets and five free throws for 21 points while the best individual performance Tuley could present was Dave Fabian's seven field goals.

"Duck Shooting" in Italy

Out of the invasion of Sicily and Italy have come many striking examples of the value and versatility of GMC Truck & Coach Division's 2½ ton Amphibian Truck. General Montgomery and his staff are reported to have ridden into Sicily in a "Duck." Both the British Eighth Army and American Fifth Army used them by the hundreds to establish beachheads and supply their forces on the Italian mainland. A hundred Axis soldiers are said to have surrendered without a struggle when one of these monsters emerged from the surf with machine gun blazing. As the illustration above shows, the "Duck" is now equipped to do some shooting on its own behalf. Armed with a swivel-mounted, 50-caliber machine gun, it can help fight off enemy attacks from any direction. Watch the news stories and news photographs from the many fighting fronts and you'll notice that the "Duck" is usually out in front in most Allied amphibious operations.

STOCKS MIXED; TRADERS AWAIT F. D. R. MESSAGE

Some of Specialties Show Strength.

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—Specialties remained in the foreground of today's stock market, but many favorites continued to decline moderately.

Fractional variations either way were the rule from the start but scattered issues closed up 1 to 3 points, several registering new 1943-'44 peaks. Dealings were relatively slow thruout.

The earnings prospect was one of the principal bidding inspirations. Reluctant traders were awaiting the message to congress and the President's evening broadcast tomorrow. Tax clouds and labor disputes still were obstacles in the way of a general price advance.

Trading Is Lighter.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.1 of a point at 50.4. Of 846 issues appearing, 305 were down, 301 up, and 240 unchanged. Transfers totaled 722,170 shares compared with 833,180 last Friday.

Among stocks posting new highs were Farnsworth Television, Engineers Public Service, Delaware and Hudson, South Porto Rico Sugar, American Bosch, and Philco. Pere Marquette preferreds were up 2¾ to 3 and Nickel Plate preferred jumped 3⅝.

Brokers noted a fall in the short interest from 760,166 shares at the beginning of December to 737,042 at the end of the month.

CHICAGO STOCKS MIXED.

Most active stocks were fractionally lower yesterday on the Chicago Stock Exchange, altho declines and gains for the list as a whole were evenly divided. Volume leaders were Chicago Corporation, Armour & Co., Utah Radio Products, Electric Household Utilities, all fractionally lower, and Middle West corporation, unchanged.

BOND PRICES ARE STEADY.

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—The bond market kept its balance fairly well today but advances were smaller than last week and profit taking put a crimp in some of the high flying railroad loans. Sales of $10,181,950 compared with $16,837,300 last Friday.

34 STATES FIGHT FIRE INSURANCE ANTI-TRUST SUIT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Opposing a department of justice attempt to obtain a Supreme court ruling that insurance companies are subject to the Sherman anti-trust act, 34 states asserted today that such a decision would "result inevitably in federal regulation destroying the sovereignty of the states in this field."

The attorneys general of these states filed a brief with the tribunal preparatory to oral arguments on an anti-trust suit brought by the department of justice against 198 stock fire insurance companies in the southeast.

Contending that the Supreme court had ruled for 75 years that insurance is a local business subject to state regulation, the states said that as a result, "there developed and now exists an adequate regulation of the business of fire insurance by the several states."

Postpone Flour Price Fixing Trial to April 24

Trial of 16 flour milling corporations, 11 of their executives and their national trades association on federal charges of conspiracy to fix prices on packaged family flour yesterday was rescheduled for April 24. The defendants pleaded innocent June 15, and the trial was set for Nov. 15. In November Judge Phillip L. Sullivan continued the case to today.

Expect Steel Operations to Reach 99.6% for Week

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—Steel mill operations will rise this week to 99.6 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated today. Last week's rate was 95.9 per cent and a month ago it was 99.3 per cent.

Hope of Magic Home May Cut Building Rate

BY AL CHASE.

Nearly half the families who intend to build homes when war ends plan to wait until they find out whether they can get a "miracle home," a "magic house," a "dream cottage" or any one of the countless glamor dwellings that some builders are predicting. This was disclosed by a survey of Chicagoland by the Airtex corporation, and is worrying the building industry, Arno Myers, vice president and general manager of Airtex, said yesterday.

Fifty-one per cent of the builders and architects questioned said the active interest displayed by their clientele indicated a substantial portion of post-war homes would be planned before the armistice.

Forty-nine per cent, however, said that even tho they expected good building activity, their clientele was inclined to do no actual planning at present. Illusions of a "miracle home" are causing them to put off definite planning.

Call "Visions" Hindrance.

"Almost unanimous was the opinion that 'dream house' thinking is the major hindrance to a tremendous building boom which could, and should, begin immediately after materials are released," said Brydon O. Myers, also of Airtex, who conducted the survey.

"Many who need a new home and have the necessary capital say they would be suckers to plan a house now which would be similar to 1941 models. The fear of not getting the last word in construction could easily lead to a buyers' strike which would destroy the hope that residential building will be one of the major factors in providing post-war employment and general prosperity.

Expect 62 Per Cent Increase.

"Let's not destroy the desire for a home by promising the public something which exists only in the minds of crystal gazers," Myers said.

The survey indicated that an increase of 62 per cent in home building, compared with 1941, is expected.

Following are the cost brackets for the post-war house; 2 per cent will cost under $4,000; 16 per cent, $4,000 to $6,000; 49 per cent, $6,000 to $10,000, and 33 per cent, more than $10,000.

The survey reported that since the Chicago area did not participate fully in the pre-war building boom it is entirely possible that this region may see a larger percentage gain than the nation in general.

FIVE STATES SEEK TO AID INDUSTRY FOLLOWING WAR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Rep. Wright Patman [D., Tex.], elaborating today on a proposed five state organization to be known as Gulf-Southwest Empire Builders, Inc., said post-war reconversion of war plants to production of civilian goods is foremost among its objectives.

The organization, expected to be incorporated within 60 days, embraces Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and New Mexico.

People and Events

P. R. O'Brien.

Philip R. O'Brien, now serving his third term as president of the Chicago Board of Trade, received the unanimous vote of the membership yesterday to succeed himself at the annual election of the exchange. H. C. Schaack and R. F. Uhlmann were reelected vice presidents with no opposition. E. M. Combs Jr., S. J. Meyers, Frank A. Miller, G. W. Hales, and Thomas Hosty were elected directors for a three year term and L. J. Lee for a one year term. New members of the nominating committee are Alex Moore and B. B. Denniston.

The Associated Equipment Distributors will open their 25th annual meeting and historic exhibit on Jan. 17 in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Speakers will include Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of the army engineers.

Kenneth W. Rowe has resigned as executive officer in the price department of the OPA in Washington, D. C., to become industrial relations manager for the Howard Aircraft corporation, St. Charles, Ill.

The Plumbing Contractors' association of Chicago will hold its annual meeting tonight in the Blackstone hotel.

HOLDS CONTROLS ARE BUROCRATS' JOB INSURANCE

The maintenance of controls beyond war needs is simply another device by burocrats to retain their jobs and power, Whipple Jacobs, president of the Belden Manufacturing company, Chicago, warned last night. He spoke at a dinner of the Chicago Industrial Advertisers association in the La Salle hotel.

He said many so-called critical materials now are being produced in excess of war needs, and that the strictest controls are still being exercised, creating stock piles that will present serious post-war marketing problems.

The return of a free economy could be hastened if the administration would abandon its anti-business policies and lift its war-born controls as war needs are met, he said. He charged it also would ease the shocks of reconversion to peace.

Air Line Tells Saga of Plane Trips in War

The story of the part which one of the big air lines has been taking in the war in addition to its regularly scheduled domestic flights yesterday was told in detail for the first time—a narrative of 1,200 overseas flights and 1,075 trips over the "Burma road of the air" between India and China.

The record disclosed how the crews of American Airlines, Inc., adapted their work to the army's air transport requirements. The company is currently operating 150 trans-Atlantic trips a month, and its statement says that "a record total of approximately 1,200 overseas flights had been made by the end of 1943."

The company's planes have been flown to every continent, to 27 countries outside North America, and to 90 cities outside the United States.

Flight Made Successfully.

The air transport command on last July 20 assigned a group of the company's crews to fly supplies into China from a base in India. Consolidated C-87s were selected for this phase of the company's war operations, and the entire complement made the long flight from New York successfully.

Every ship the day after it arrived at the India base in August carried a load of war material to China.

"American is the only commercial air transport company which operated a route entirely within a combat zone, with the exception of the China National Air Lines," the company asserted.

"Flying the Burma road of the air was a hazardous business, with the Himalaya mountains rising 28,000 feet above sea level, and with animal life so abundant that frequently a jeep had to be driven down the runway to scatter the water buffalo and Brahman cows before an aircraft could take off or land. American Airlines' crews flew an average of almost six trips a day at the height of their operations and up to Dec. 1 had carried almost 5 million pounds of cargo to beleaguered China.

Near Japanese Air Field.

"The company's personnel in India assisted in giving instruction to army flight and ground crews there. Their base was a scant 50 miles from the nearest Japanese airplane base. Their planes were unarmed."

The company's India project has been turned over to the army, but their cargo flights for the ATC continue both at home and abroad.

American Airlines' trans-Atlantic operations under contract with the ATC have all been carried on by crews who never before flew outside the western hemisphere. In April, 1943, a crew undertook what was described as the first survey flight ever made across the Atlantic from Newfoundland direct to Marrakech, French Morocco, using a C-54A. The crew making this flight last month was awarded the air medal by Lt. Gen. Harold Lee George. Another crew flew the first C-54 across the Pacific, loaded with aircraft parts for Brig. Gen. George C. Kenney's forces in New Guinea.

HINT EMBARGO AS HOGS CROWD CHICAGO YARDS

Receipts Establish Ten Year Peak.

The worst market jam in Chicago stock yards history developed yesterday when 57,000 hogs arrived. Trading was at a standstill after the first two hours of buying had filled all packer requirements. Fresh receipts were augmented by 5,000 farmer-owned hogs carried over from Saturday and 15,000 in the hands of packers that they were unable to slaughter, making the total available supply 77,000.

Receipts were the largest since September, 1933, when the Chicago yards received 103,181 hogs. The 1933 day's total was second only to the 122,749 record established on Dec. 15, 1924.

WFA Studies Embargo.

Altho no action was taken, an embargo was said to be under consideration by the war food administration's hog marketing committee to be imposed later in the week unless farmers curtail shipments. Consignments were from as far west as Montana, from Kentucky, and from Pennsylvania.

Hundreds of trucks kept up an all-night procession into the yards, with the waiting line at times several blocks long. Truckers reported congestion was much worse at some of the smaller markets which are following the Chicago policy of accepting everything that farmers wish to ship.

Bad weather in some parts of the country was partly to blame for the heavy receipts. The jam was so serious at some of the outside markets where large holdovers of "government weights" developed that some interests there shipped stock into Chicago. Several hundred hogs were reported received in Chicago from Indianapolis.

Ties Lowest in 22 Months.

Buyers paid an average of $13.20 a hundred pounds, equal to the lowest level since March, 1942, and compared with $14.60 the corresponding day last year and with a high of $15.95 last spring.

Cattle also came to market in large numbers, the run totaling 22,000 head. A scattering of sales, including the $17 top, were steady, but most transactions were weak to 25 cents lower. The bulk sold from $13.50 to $16.

Lambs held firm and some sold as much as 15 cents higher. The $15.35 top was the highest since last August.

Meanwhile, the department of agriculture said the actual tally on meat animals handled thru inspected channels during 1943 showed a decrease of 5.1 per cent in cattle butchered compared with 1942, a decrease of 9.5 per cent in calves, an increase of 17.6 per cent in hogs, and an increase of 8 per cent in sheep and lambs.

Packer, Producer Campaign Against Price Control Charged

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Rep. Walter C. Ploeser [R., Mo.], submitting a document which asserted that large meat packers and producers "have undertaken to frustrate" the program to control meat prices, called today for a joint senate-house investigation.

He suggested to Rep. Wright Patman [D., Tex.], chairman of the house small business committee, that this group and its senate counterpart look into "the methods and influence which have controled pricing and rationing of meat."

From OPA Files, He Says.

Accompanying Ploeser's request was a photograph of papers he said came from the files of the office of price administration.

Included was a memorandum over the name of Jerome J. Jacobson, attorney for the meat and fish division of the OPA, on Aug. 14, 1943, which said "large meat packers and producers are more than noncooperative" in the program to control meat prices and "have undertaken to frustrate it."

Expressing belief that if meat control fails, the rest of the cost of living commodities would go with it, the memorandum said:

"An analysis of the events of the last six months clearly reveals the formation of a coalition between the big packers acting under the guise of the American Meat institute and the farm inflationary officials of the department of agriculture. This coalition finds its official spokesman in the war meat board."

Termed Harsh Indictment.

Ploeser said the document, which included a detailed analysis of meat control operations, "is a severe indictment of the methods and influence which have controled pricing and rationing of meat.

"This is so alarming and threatening, that if it be true, it is necessary that something be done quickly to correct conditions," he said.

The memorandum, which Ploeser made public, said that the war meat board "has consistently brought pressure for price increases in the wholesale meat regulations. Many of those have been reluctantly granted by OPA."

J. J. MACK ASKS NEW LEASE FOR CONGRESS HOTEL

John J. Mack, president of the Michigan-Congress corporation, former lessee of the Congress hotel, said yesterday he had submitted a new leasing proposition to the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington, and hoped to have the hotel reopened in time for the Republican and Democratic convention visitors. He has not yet heard from the RFC regarding his offer.

Meanwhile he has authorized the auctioning of several thousand articles of bedding and bathroom linens and some plumbing supplies which were used by the army when it had possession of the hotel.

Mack said that if he negotiates a new lease he expects to provide entire new furnishings and equipment.

WESTERN UNION EARNINGS DROP AFTER MERGER

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—Western Union Telegraph company reported today net income during November, 1943, first full month of operation after the October consolidation with Postal Telegraph company, was $385,212 against $814,426 for Western Union alone in November of 1942.

A. N. Williams, Western Union president, said some time would elapse before economies resulting from the merger with Postal, which was operating at a loss, became apparent. Gross operating revenues rose to $14,754,939 from $11,593,226 for Western Union in November of 1942.

MERCHANDISE BANK'S RESOURCES ABOVE 50 MILLIONS FIRST TIME

In one of the most detailed reports issued to stockholders R. S. Redheffer, president of the Merchandise National bank, in the Merchandise mart, disclosed yesterday that its resources had exceeded 50 million dollars for the first time. They amounted to $51,016,000 at the end of 1943, or 21 per cent more than a year earlier.

Deposits in recording a 21 per cent gain reached $48,318,000, a record for the bank. Net profits totaled $171,331, equal to $34.26 a share, against $147,510 and $29.50 a share in 1942. Last year's loan volume was $39,457,000, against $41,281,000 in 1942, and the loan balance at year-end was $6,869,000, or 26 per cent less than at the close of 1942.

Redheffer said that losses on loans for three years amounted to only $27,941, or 2/100 of 1 per cent.

NORTHERN TRUST STOCKHOLDERS RE-ELECT BOARD

Directors of the Northern Trust company were reëlected at the stockholders' annual meeting yesterday. The board will meet today to elect officers. Directors and officers of the National Bank of Hyde Park, the River Forest State bank, La Grange State Trust and Savings, and the Avenue State bank were reelected. J. J. Guido, assistant cashier of Avenue State, was elected to the new position of second vice president.

ARMOUR NEARS SWIFT VOLUME IN MEAT SALES

Profit Slips, Taxes Soar in Year.

G. A. Eastwood.

Armour & Co. during the fiscal year ended Oct. 30, with record sales and other operating income of $1,416,558,800 shown in its annual report issued yesterday, narrowed the margin of Swift & Co.'s sales leadership in the meat packing and allied industries.

The two leaders were close in dollar volume, with Swift business during its fiscal year, as reported earlier, reaching a new peak at $1,490,016,635. Armour volume increased $116,549,784 above the preceding fiscal year, compared with Swift's $80,610,865 increase.

Earns 14.5 Millions.

Armour's consolidated net profit was $14,570,838, equal after dividend payments on the 7 per cent preferred stock of Armour of Delaware to the time of its redemption, to $21.47 a share on the $6 prior preferred stock, on which the dividend arrearage amounted to $28.50 a share as of Oct. 30. This compared with a revised profit of $15,924,549, or $22.95 a prior preferred share, in the preceding 12 months.

Previously reported earnings during the preceding fiscal year of $14,802,607, or $20.85 a share, were increased by the addition of $1,121,942, representing an adjustment of liability reserves and profits from Brazilian operations which had been transferred earlier to deferred income.

Equal to $1.97 Per Share.

After allowance for one year's dividend needs on the $6 stock, the 1943 profit was equal to $244.62 a share on the remaining $7 preferred stock of the parent company, on which the arrearage amounts to $40.25 a share, compared with revised earnings of $268.01 a share in 1942. On the common stock the profit was equal to $1.97 a share, disregarding the preferred arrearages, against $2.16 as revised, and and $1.89 as originally reported.

Provision for income and excess profits taxes amounted to $23,455,932 after deducting a post-war credit of $1,613,000, compared with $10,172,329 a year earlier.

George A. Eastwood, president, explained that most of the profit

FOR THE PURCHASE OF HOTEL SHORELAND
(Land, Building, Personalty and Going Business)
CHICAGO'S FINEST RESIDENTIAL HOTEL

THE SHORELAND is beautifully located at 5454 South Shore Drive, Chicago, overlooking Lake Michigan. 15 minutes from the Loop by express highway, 10 minutes by electric suburban railroad.

The land is approx. 70,440 sq. ft., has a frontage of about 356 feet on west side of South Shore Drive and depth of about 198 feet to a 16-ft. paved alley.

The building is 14 stories, including 10 floors of typical living space, lobby, mezzanine, working quarters and elevator superstructure. The building has full basement and is reinforced concrete, fireproof construction, and was completed in 1926. Contains 677 guest rooms arranged as follows: 20 two-room suites (consisting of living room, bedroom and bath), 135 three-room apartments (consisting of living room, bedroom, bath, dining room with kitchen), 10 five-room apartments (consisting of living room, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, dining room and kitchen), and 182 hotel rooms, each with bath. The hotel has large lobby, large dining room and kitchen, large ballroom, banquet rooms, four private dining rooms, cocktail lounge, lobby shop, gift shop, food shop, barber shop, beauty shop, valet shop, and laundry. It also contains the usual service shops, storage space and hotel office space. The hotel is completely equipped and distinctively furnished.

Gross income for fiscal year ending July 31, 1943, was $958,578.56. October 1943 occupancy was over 95%. Average daily rate per occupied room for October was $2.65. Real estate taxes paid for 1942 were $47,330.36.

Original first mortgage bond issue (not now on property) was in principal amount of $4,800,000. Title was acquired by Chicago Title and Trust Company, as Trustee under liquidation trust agreement known as Trust 30872, for the benefit of depositing bondholders who are now beneficiaries of said trust.

The Trustee will report all offers to the HONORABLE JOSEPH A. GRABER, Chancellor of the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, before submitting any offer to the beneficiaries.

Offers must be in form satisfactory to the Trustee. Any offer accepted by the Trustee is subject to approval by the beneficiaries of the Shoreland Hotel Liquidation Trust in accordance with the terms of the trust agreement.

All offers must be for cash and should be submitted to the Trustee prior to February 15, 1944. Offers must be accompanied by an earnest money deposit of 7% of the offering price.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 [AP].—The deadlocked trading position that has existed in cotton textile markets for the past two weeks remained unbroken today. The WPB's answers to more than 30 questions in an effort to clarify disputed points in the recently revised allocation order dominated market attention. Mills were concerned with the possibility of ceiling price revisions, advance in raw cotton prices, and increases in wages and other costs.

FURNITURE SHOW TO REFLECT NEW OPTIMISM—RAU

Asserts Exhibitors Plan Increased Production.

Retail furniture dealers will find more merchandise offered them at the midwinter furniture market beginning Monday than was available at the summer market, Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the National Retail Furniture association, said yesterday. The market will run for two weeks in the American Furniture mart and the Merchandise mart.

"More furniture manufacturers will have exhibits than in June," Rau said. "Exhibitors are thinking and planning for increased civilian production despite the restrictive lumber order recently issued by the war production board."

Hopeful for Steel.

Makers of wood furniture have been cut to 84 per cent of the lumber used last year, but a reduction in certain types of military demands has released lumber and facilities for civilian manufacture. He said he was hopeful that steel may become available for use in production of coil springs for sofa beds and other types of upholstered furniture.

For the first time since material scarcities forced suspension of civilian production, appliance manufacturers will be exhibiting with a view of organizing their retail outlets for the time when the government eases their restrictions, he said.

"Floor coverings, both soft and hard surfaced lines will be extremely hard to get for at least a short period of time," Rau declared.

Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the American Furniture mart, said the acute lumber shortage still is the major problem of the industry. The severe restrictions on use of seven war essential kinds of woods by WPB has halted the manufacture of many types of furniture for which other types of wood would not be suitable, he said.

Warns Situation Continues.

Floods hampered lumbering operations last year, he said, adding that better weather conditions would be a great help. An improved labor market may result from the use of war prisoner labor and the addition of discharged veterans, he said.

John C. Goodall, general manager of the Merchandise mart, warned the bedrock conditions now facing the furniture industry will constitute the dominant factor influencing 1944 trends in buying and selling.

He said labor is the critical bottleneck in every division with little likelihood of any immediate improvement. Tho a few firms have been able to hold on to their own master craftsmen, upholstering divisions are feeling the pinch in the drastic shortage of covers from fabric houses where man power problems have slowed production, he said.

NOT DEBARRED.

In May, 1939, I retired from the railway mail service on a civil service pension. I am 66 years old and working part time for $9 to $10 a week. My employer insisted that I obtain a social security number, and deducts 9 to 10 cents a week from my pay. Will I be debarred from receiving social security benefits because I already draw a civil service pension? A. G.

Answer: The fact that you receive a civil service pension will not affect your eligibility for any benefits under the social security act. By fulfilling the requirements of the act you will be entitled to the same benefits as any other individual. These benefits will vary, of course, with the length of time worked.

POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

What is the limit a corporation or individual can contribute to a political campaign in any year and still deduct it from income subject to income tax? D. H.

Answer: Contributions to a political party are not deductible. Neither are contributions to any organization whose activities, in a substantial degree, are concerned with carrying on propaganda or attempting to influence legislation.

Wheat Sags from Ceiling; Farm Grain Stocks Smaller

Rye, Barley Slump

An advance of 2 cents a bushel in the maximum price for sales of wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade to $1.73¾, announced late Saturday, failed to influence prices yesterday. May wheat opened at the ceiling, but general selling developed and all deliveries declined. May closed ½ cent higher and other months were off 1⅝ cents, December being 4¼ cents under the ceiling.

Rye broke about 3 cents after an early rise and closed 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents lower. Further reports that the permanent price ceiling on oats and barley would be rolled back from the temporary maximums put in effect Dec. 4 resulted in both grains showing a heavy undertone. Oats finished ⅝ to ¾ cent lower and barley lost 1⅝ to 2 cents.

Minneapolis Market Mixed.

The selling price on wheat futures at Minneapolis was advanced 2½ cents to $1.75¾, but that market followed Chicago and finished ⅝ cent higher to 1 cent lower. Kansas City was weak thruout the day and lost 1 to 1¼ cent.

Officials of the Board of Trade said they were pleased by the action of the market in backing away from the ceiling prices, but said it would probably take several days before it could be determined whether the decline would be maintained. They expect much to depend on the attitude of farmers. If the latter sell cash wheat freely, sufficient hedging pressure is expected to prevent an advance to the maximum price.

Corn Stores Drop

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—The department of agriculture today estimated corn stored on farms Jan. 1 at 1,996,100,000 bushels compared with 2,246,592,000 a year ago and an average of 1,562,290,000 during the 1933-'42 period.

Stored wheat totaled 379,121,000 bushels compared with 490,781,000 bushels a year ago and an average of 226,579,000 during the 10 year period. The oats figures were 709,170,000 bushels Jan. 1 compared with 881,542,000 a year ago and a 10 year average of 639,939,000 bushels.

Soybean Supply Drops.

The department estimated that 58,119,000 bushels of soybeans were stored on farms compared with 88,215,000 bushels last year. There were no comparative 10 year figures.

"The outlook for a continued heavy volume of crop production in 1944 is not as favorable at this time as it was at the beginning of 1942 and 1943," the department said.

"Altho the total acreage of crops grown is expected to increase in response to the goals established for 1944 by the war food administration, the prospects for better than average yields are not as bright. All precipitation, September thru December, was the lightest since 1939 and about 21 per cent below normal."

The department said, however, that many other conditions are favorable for a large agricultural output in 1944, including record numbers of live stock remaining on farms.

LARGEST INDUSTRIAL SENIOR ISSUE SINCE 1937 PLACED ON SALE

The largest industrial preferred stock issue offered the public since 1937 will be placed on the market today when 141 investment firms headed by Harriman Ripley & Co. and Otis & Co. offer 450,000 shares of Firestone Tire and Rubber company 4½ per cent cumulative prefered at $100 per share.

Proceeds will be applied toward the redemption of 454,129 outstanding shares of Firestone series A 6 per cent cumulative preferred, which is to be called for payment March 1 at $105 and accrued dividends. After this financing, Firestone capitalization will consist of 46 million dollars of 3 per cent debentures due May 1, 1961, the new 4½ per cent preferred issue, and 1,945,896 shares of $25 par value common.

Additional large issues are expected to reach the market tomorrow in offerings of securities of the Florida Power and Light company. A banking group headed by the First Boston corporation in competitive bidding yesterday was awarded the Florida company's 45 million dollar issue of 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds and a 10 million dollar issue of 4¼ per cent sinking fund debentures.

REPRICING COSTS G. E. 7 MILLIONS; PROFIT STANDS

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—The General Electric company reported to stockholders today renegotiation of its billion dollar 1942 business had resulted in payment to the government of $7,603,612 from reserves provided for the purpose. Net profits were unchanged.

Actually $76,036,123 was trimmed from contracts involved, the company said, but resultant reduction of profits decreased tax liabilities $68,432,511, or 90 per cent of the amount shaved from original prices.

The renegotiation, by the navy price adjustment board, had the effect of cutting the company's post-war tax refund for the year to $10,156,749 from a previously estimated 17 million dollars. Payment of the $7,603,612 to the government from this balance left the year's reserve for post-war adjustment and contingencies at $2,553,137. Net income for 1942 was $45,081,000.

Inventor Gives Alcohol Process to Government

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—P. A. Singer, a WPB consultant, has given to the government for royalty free licensing for the duration of the war the patent rights to a new process of cooking grain mash for war alcohol, WPB announced today. The process results in an estimated 50 per cent saving in fuel and in maintenance work in cooking operations. Singer, who is with the Century Distilling company of Peoria, Ill., is inventor of the process.

had to be retained as working capital, because par value and the premium paid on that portion of the Delaware preferred stock not exchanged for debentures exceeded by $5,517,978 the proceeds from the sales of instalment notes and the debentures not exchanged.

Notes to Be Exchanged.

The 15 million dollars of five year 3 per cent instalment notes sold privately last year will soon be exchanged for a similar amount of first mortgage 20 year 3¼ per cent bonds, series D, Eastwood disclosed.

Current assets as of Oct. 30 totaled $210,294,141 and current liabilities $80,762,303, compared with $212,192,239 and $89,320,318, respectively, a year earlier. Working capital requirements after the war are difficult to estimate, company officials said, recalling the increased needs after World War I. because of the rise in prices.

Eastwood said it is not expected that renegotiation of 1942 and 1943 war contracts will result in any changes of consequence in net income. He also called attention to the fact that the 1943 profit was "equivalent to slightly more than 1 cent on each dollar of sales or 1-6 cent per pound of product."

Tells of Egg Blending.

Among Armour research activities Eastwood told of the production of a higher quality dried egg thru a blending process, and coöperation with the navy on chemicals for various military products.

"The production of the first unit of our new chemical plant founded on fatty acid derivatives discovered in our research laboratories is far oversold," he added. "Most of these new chemicals are being used directly in the war for plasticizers for rubber, coatings for paper, flotation agents, and rust preventives."

The merging of the Delaware subsidiary with the parent corporation during the year "brings its numerous profitable properties under the direct ownership of the company," he said.

C. A. C. TO ELECT 1944 OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS

Annual elections of the Chicago Association of Commerce will be held tomorrow, the association announced yesterday. Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, has been nominated for reëlection as association president.

New officials to be voted on include: Paul S. Russell, vice president of Harris Trust and Savings bank, as vice president for revenue; W. O. Batchelder, vice president of General Electric company, as vice president for industrial development; Hughston M. McBain, president of Marshall Field & Co., as vice president for domestic commerce.

H. E. Christiansen, vice president of Henri, Hurst, and McDonald, as general secretary, and Horace O. Wetmore, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, as general treasurer. Twenty directors also will be elected.

BUREAU 'MIXUP' KEEPS HIM IDLE 35 DAYS IN ROW

Technician Seeks War Job Equal to Skill.

Because of a reported mixup or misunderstanding in the office of the war man power commission, Jefferson McNemee, 644 Diversey parkway, was out of work yesterday for the 35th consecutive day, even tho a panel of the WMC voted him a certificate of availability last Wednesday.

McNemee, an electrical technician and inventor, quit his job as an investigator for the Teletype corporation, 1400 Wrightwood avenue, on Dec. 7. The Teletype corporation refused him a certificate of availability. He appealed to the United States employment service office, 913 Montana street. There, he reported, he was told by Herman Timmcke that he would have to go back to work at Teletype. McNemee refused and appealed to WMC. The WMC panel voted him a certificate of availability and a referral card, but he has not received either of these clearance papers.

Resents "Probation" Attitude.

"Last Friday," McNemee said yesterday, "I received a letter from the WMC to report back to the USES office on Montana street. I went there yesterday. I was surprised to learn from Timmcke that even tho I had been granted a certificate, nor would I be eligible for a referral until I could assure him that I had found another position that would meet with the commission's approval or until the USES found a job for me.

"I asked Timmcke if, in the eyes of a prospective employer, I was not being made to appear as on probation, because if the employer should agree to hire me I still would have to get permission of the USES to take the offered job. Timmcke said, 'That's about it.'

"I refused to accept any such modified conditional ruling, with its criminal and unpatriotic implications. I am going to the WMC office tomorrow to try to learn why the ruling by the panel in my case was not carried out. I have appealed again to Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, to help me."

Board Member's Mystified.

Olander said he contacted members of the panel that heard McNemee's case and that they were mystified by the action of the USES.

"I then called Lester Brown, regional head of the WMC, who consulted McNemee's record," Olander reported. "He said if McNemee would come to his office, he would be given a referral card right away."

McNemee became enraged and said:

"I don't want a referral. I want the certificate of availability that the panel voted me last week. I want to select a job in a war plant that fits my level of skill and past proven experience."

NEW SHIP NAMED FOR W-G-N MAN KILLED IN CRASH

A Liberty ship will be dedicated to the memory of Frank C. Cuhel, W-G-N and Mutual war reporter who was killed in a Clipper crash last year in Lisbon while en route to cover the war in North Africa. The S. S. Frank C. Cuhel will be launched Thursday at the Permamente ship yards at Richmond, Cal. The memory of 12 American correspondents, killed in the line of duty, is being honored similarly.

Cuhel had covered the war in Java and Australia for W-G-N-Mutual prior to the accident in which he lost his life. As a University of Iowa undergraduate he had made a name for himself as a hurdler. He competed in the Olympic games at Antwerp. He was a native of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Meet Your Navy, the Great Lakes all bluejacket variety show, will be broadcast before an audience of 15,000 war bond buyers from Kansas City's Municipal stadium next Friday evening over the Blue network instead of its usual origination point, Ross auditorium. One of the features of the show will be a musical tribute to the late Fats Waller, pianist-composer who died in Kansas City Dec. 15.

William H. Benton, vice president of the University of Chicago, has disclosed that five additional broadcasts of the Round Table will be devoted to discussions dealing with economic problems that concern the United States and Great Britain. Mr. Benton recently visited England.

MAJ. JOE FOSS SPEAKS FRIDAY IN W-G-N SALUTE

Maj. Joe Foss, marine corps flying hero, will be saluted in the opening Freedom of Opportunity program on W-G-N and Mutual at 7:30 p. m. Friday, instead of 7:30 tonight as stated in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE. The program, presented in coöperation with the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, will give Maj. Foss' life story. This story was first told in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last year. J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, will present a scroll of achievement and a gold key to Maj. Foss. The program will be presented in W-G-N's main studio. W-G-N has announced that tickets are still available. Maj. Foss will speak from his post of duty.

BEES REQUIRED IN HAY FIELDS, MEETING TOLD

Beekeepers were advised yesterday that one of the reasons for the low amount of clover hay produced last year was that bees have not been allowed to help cross pollinate the hay fields. Charles Reese, Ohio apiarist, told a meeting held by the State Bee Inspectors of America in the Morrison hotel that hives must be spread out over wider regions so that cross pollination by bees will be furthered. Milk production depends to a certain extent upon the production of clover hay, he said, and beekeepers must do their part to help.

VIRTUE

Virtue ceases to be virtue when it ceases to be voluntary.

And virtue ceases to pay when the just and the unjust pay alike.

There is nothing more vicious in our political history than the current tendency in Washington to smear and discredit American Business and Industry for the sins of a handful of renegades.

UNION LEADERS URGED TO SAVE NAME OF LABOR

Regain Standing Lost by Strikes, Says Olander.

A warning to union labor officials to "wake up and put forth every effort to restore the good name of the American labor movement" was made yesterday by Victor A. Olander, secretary treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, in the current issue of the Federation News, official weekly publication of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Olander explained that the recent threat of a national railroad strike was but a threat and nothing else, but that the action by the railroad unions was generally misunderstood by the public.

Defends Strike Threat.

"The action was necessary," Olander said, "because the railway labor act carries an implication that the final step to secure consideration of workers' demands is the taking of a strike vote. The 97 per cent vote by the railroad workers for a strike gave government authorities an opportunity to "save face" because they did under pressure of the threatened strike vote what they ought to have done on their own responsibility before any such pressure was exerted. Neither the workers nor the unions ever intended to strike."

Olander said that during the last few years labor unions have been subjected to a barrage of publicity in which "every error or sin committed by the leaders of some of its divisions has been magnified as representative of the labor movement as a whole."

War Work Paramount.

"It is, of course, a far cry from the Bioff-Browne scandal in the movie industry to the strike vote of the railroad workers. Yet our hesitation in vigorously repudiating racketeers, relatively few tho they may be, has caused well meaning people to question our reliability in almost everything we do.

"It is time to wake up to this situation and put forth every effort of which we are capable to restore the good name of the American labor movement in all its aspects.

"Our first act should be to make it clear that, under all circumstances, our trade unions will give first consideration to the war needs of our nation. Any other course now will later subject our labor movement to an attack in comparison with which our experiences following the last World war will have somewhat of the aspects of a Sunday school picnic."

BRIDGES THROW PUBLIC FOR LOSS OF 3,848½ HOURS

Chicago motorists and pedestrians fidgeted for a total of 3,848½ hours during 1943 waiting while the city's 55 movable bridges yawned open for boats to pass underneath them.

The boats ranged from rowboats with a single tall mast to naval vessels cloaked in secrecy and gray-green war paint. The number of times the bridges gaped open, according to Harbor Master Master William J. Lynch, was 62,358. The average waiting period was 3.7 minutes. It just seemed longer.

The bridges don't all open and close the same number of times, the harbor master disclosed. The heaviest workout was given the 92d street bridge, which played to an unappreciative audience 3,610 times—almost 10 presentations a day. Its average performance lasted 4.8 minutes.

Running a close second was the Kinzie street bridge, which opened 3,193 times with waits averaging 3.2 minutes each. Then came the 95th street bridge, with 3,003 openings of 4.4 minutes duration.

The Michigan avenue bridge, over which the greatest volume of traffic passes, held up its pedestrian and vehicular parade a total of 1,632 times, and kept them waiting 4 minutes each time.

DR. WYNEKOOP'S MURDER PARDON PLEA UP TODAY

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, 72 years old, who has served nearly nine years of a 25 year sentence for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, will present her formal plea for executive clemency to the state pardon board today at Springfield.

Dr. Wynekoop contended at her trial that she caused her daughter-in-law's death accidentally by administering too much chloroform and then fired a bullet into the woman's body to make it appear a case of murder by a robber so her professional standing would not suffer. She entered the Oakdale women's prison at Dwight March 29, 1933.

The state contended she killed the younger Mrs. Wynekoop to relieve her son, Earle, of an unwelcome wife and also for the insurance. The son once "confessed" the slaying to aid his mother, but never was connected with the slaying and never was indicted. The slaying occurred Nov. 21, 1933, in Dr. Wynekoop's home at 3406 Monroe street, a house that since has been razed.

Realty Dealer to Prison Today as Confidence Man

John J. Kern, 47 years old, a former real estate dealer at 1520 Devon avenue, will enter Joliet prison today to start serving a 1 to 10 year sentence for operating a confidence game, the state's attorney's office said yesterday. He was found guilty Dec. 3 on charges of accepting down payments from clients on a building he had not been authorized to sell.

700 BARTENDERS IN WAR; 3 VOWS KEPT BY UNION

Nearly two years ago local 278 of the Chicago Bartenders union [AFL] voted to keep every member who joined or was drafted into the armed forces in good standing until he returned. The membership also voted to maintain the member's $400 death benefit and to send him a carton of cigarets every month. This has been done even tho the membership of 4,400 now has 700 members in the service, and 500 members are in war plants, James Crowley, president of the union, said yesterday. The families of the four members who have already lost their lives have been paid the benefits, Crowley said.

Special Loan Service for Folks in a Hurry

Short of time as well as cash? Don't borrow unnecessarily, but if a loan of $10 to $250 or more is to your advantage, see us. We make cash loans with a minimum of delay. Outsiders not involved.

No Fussing Around

Just come in, or better still, apply by phone. Call us, then make one visit to sign and pick up the cash. You'll get the same courteous, private attention as though you applied in person.

Sensible Cost

Loans are made on signature, furniture, or auto, without involving others. $30 for two weeks costs only 45c. Let us know today how we can serve you.

PICK YOUR OWN MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

CASH YOU GET	3 payments	4 payments	6 payments	9 payments	12 payments

—LEGAL NOTICES—

SALE OF SECURITIES BY PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY COMPANY.
NOTICE AND SPECIFICATIONS.

[1] Pursuant to the regulations prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its Order of October 6, 1919, as amended October 4, 1920, in its Docket Ex Parte No. 54, Pere Marquette Railway Company [hereinafter called the "Company"], hereby requests bids for the purchase of $2,220,000 par amount of its Equipment Trust Certificates, to be known as "Pere Marquette Railway Equipment Trust of 1944, Serial Equipment Trust Certificates," having the following terms, provisions, and security:

[a] The said Equipment Trust Certificates are to be issued under an Agreement to be dated February 1, 1944, between H. C. Strong and A. M. Waldron, Vendors, National Bank of Detroit, Trustee, and the Company, whereunder the railroad equipment described in paragraph [b] is to be held by said Trustee in trust for the equal benefit of the holders of said Certificates:

[b] The said Equipment Trust Certificates are to be issued to provide, in part, funds required for the acquisition of 12 freight locomotives, type 2-8-4, with 22,000-gallon tenders, 100 70-ton composite flat cars, and 100 70-ton drop end composite gondola cars, to cost approximately $2,812,483, which equipment will be leased by said Trustee to the Company by Lease to be dated February 1, 1944.

[c] The said Equipment Trust Certificates will be of the aggregate principal amount of $2,220,000, will be dated February 1, 1944, will mature serially in equal annual instalments from February 1, 1945, to February 1, 1959, both inclusive, and will be guaranteed as to principal and dividends by the Company. These certificates will bear dividend warrants at a rate per annum to be named by the successful bidder, payable August 1 and February 1 in each year.

[2] The Company invites bids on the form available upon application at the office of the undersigned, and all information required in said form must be submitted. Each bid should specify the dividend rate to be borne by the certificates, which must be some multiple of one-eighth of one per cent and must be the same for all maturities. No bid for less than 99 per cent of par plus accrued dividends from February 1, 1944, to the date of delivery, will be considered.

[3] Each bid must be enclosed in a plain envelope securely sealed, bearing no indication of the name of the bidder or the amount of the bid, and shall be marked "Bid under proposed Contract No. 1 for Pere Marquette Railway Equipment Trust of 1944, Serial Equipment Trust Certificates," and shall be addressed to the undersigned at his office at 3400 Terminal Tower, Cleveland 1, Ohio. All bids must be received on or before twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time [Cleveland time], January 18, 1944. Bids so received will be opened by the undersigned, or in his absence, by A. M. Waldron, Assistant Treasurer of the Company, at said office immediately after twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time [Cleveland time], January 18, 1944.

[4] All bids are to be submitted subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission of the assumption by the Company of obligation and liability in respect of these certificates. The Company reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Notice of acceptance of the most favorable bid, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be telegraphed to the successful bidder not later than three o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time [Cleveland time], January 18, 1944.

[5] Delivery of the Equipment Trust Certificates, in temporary or definitive form, will be made against payment in full therefor to National Bank of Detroit, Trustee, at its principal office in the City of Detroit, State of Michigan, on such date as the Company may designate on five days' notice to the successful bidder, such date of payment to be as soon as practicable after the Interstate Commerce Commission shall have authorized the assumption of obligation and liability by the Company in respect of said certificates, and approved the bid or bids, but not later, however, than fifteen days after the date of such authorization and approval, and not earlier in any event than February 1, 1944. If the Interstate Commerce Commission shall not have given its authorization and approval as aforesaid on or before February 18, 1944, then the successful bidder may withdraw the bid by delivering written notice of withdrawal to the Company not later than February 23, 1944.

[6] Copies of the proposed form of Equipment Trust Agreement and Lease, and the form for submission of bids, are available upon application at the office of the undersigned.

H. F. LOHMEYER,
Secretary and Treasurer.

OUR FUTURE
CAN BE
ZENITH RADIO OFFERS
YOU AN OPPORTUNITY
TO BUILD A SECURE
PEACE-TIME FUTURE!
Radionics is an industry with unlimited possibilities! You'll have an opportunity to train in vital war production and build for a secure peace-time future. We need men who are capable of becoming radio technicians. The Radionics Industry will need more trained men for broadly expanded peace-time production. GET YOUR TRAINING NOW—PREPARE YOURSELF FOR AN IMPORTANT POST-WAR POSITION.
EXPERIENCE
IS NOT ESSENTIAL!
We are interested in men who have foresight and initiative . . . men who will be potential leaders in the Radionics Industry. We can offer you immediate employment in assembly work, mechanical operations, stock, or packing. Job training for these occupations will be at a minimum—while you are working and producing, you will be eligible to enroll in Zenith's own Radio Theory Course and be trained in the technical phase of our business. Time is an important factor . . . don't delay—JOIN US TODAY.
